Car crashes L.B. Yule parade

A joyous Yule parade exploded into a Friday night pre-Christmas nightmare when an out-of-control car slammed into the line of march at Willow Street Long Beach Boulevard, injuring 11 youngsters, one of them critically.

The accident occurred soon after 8 o'clock, approximately a half hour after the Christmas Tree Lane Parade had stepped off.

Police said a car driven by Gladys Cristina Belanger, 65, of 1960 Chestnut Ave., apt. 3, driving along Long Beach Boulevard, collided with another car which was southbound on the boulevard, then veered into the St. Anthony's High School drill team which was awaiting its turn to join the line of march.

Motorcycle Officer Charles Harmon, who was working traffic control at Locust Avenue and Willow Street, said the scene after the car plowed into the youngsters was one of chaos.

At least two youngsters were trampled by the crowd. Children were lying in the street between Earl Street and Long Beach Boulevard. Harmon said the Belanger car traveled another 100 feet before it hit another car and stopped.

Police first cited Mrs. Belanger on a charge of felony drunken driving. The charge later was reduced to drunken driving.

A reporter spoke to her briefly at the police booking desk. She said her foot hit the accelerator and "I saw a crowd of kids all over the front of my car and I can't remember anything after that."

The sounds of music and laughter turned to the wails of sirens as three ambulsirens as three ambulances rushed the injured to Pacific and Memorial Hospitals.

Injured and taken to Pacific Hospital were: Dorita Murik, 15, no address available, unspecified injuries. Liz Questel, 17, no address available, possible fractured pelvis. David Gonzales Jr., 12, no address vaailable, in intensive care, critical condition, with fractured left arm, internal injuries.

Judy Carroll, 15, no address available, head injuries.

Auto price hikes OKd

WASHINGTON (UPI)— General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Company won Price Commission approval Friday to raise prices on their 1973 automobiles to reflect the increased costs of federally mandated safety and anti-pollution equipment.

The decision capped months of deliberation by the commission on the auto price issue in which the auto manufacturers were kept from boosting prices on their new models when they were first displayed in September.

General Motors received permission to raise prices an average 1.53 per cent or $54 per car. GM, the nation's largest maker of cars, had asked for that amount.

But the commission trimmed Ford's 2.78 per cent price increase request to 1.9 per cent or $62.55 per car. The total amount sought by Ford figured out to an average increase of $91.53 per car.

The commission said it reduced Ford's request to subtract increases sought for plant safety, noise and pollution improvements and feature related changes not required under federally mandated standards.

A spokesman said the feature changes included an increase in the size of tires, frame revision, engine mount changes and others.

Ford and GM had sought the price boost to cover the cost of installing new bumpers and exhaust emission equipment required under federal regulations.

The increases on any individual car is limited to 6 per cent under the commission ruling. Both firms have been forced to sell their new cars at last year's prices.

The commission has already granted price boosts for Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. It had earlier rejected GM's and Ford's request on grounds that they were in danger of violating profit margin restraints.

After the commission announced its decision, Chrysler said it would seek approval to hike prices by $106 on each 1973 car and truck. The price includes $96 to cover increased costs for its dealers and $9 for safety equipment required after Jan. 1, a spokesman said.

Chrysler received last October permission to boost individual vehicle prices by $60, but for competitive reasons kept the increase to $20 per vehicle.

'Landmark' tax bill passes

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The $1.1-billion Reagan-Moretti school finance and property tax relief bill was sent to Gov. Reagan Friday just hours before final adjournment of the 1972 Legislature.

Reagan, grinning and obviously delighted, appeared before newsmen in Los Angeles two hours after the final Senate vote to praise the measure as "landmark legislation" which "guarantees lasting property tax relief for homeowners."

The twice-defeated tax shift won Senate approval with two votes to spare on a 29-10 final roll call after stiff opposition crumbled.

It represented a major victory for the Republican governor, who said property tax relief had been the No. 1 goal of his final years in office. It became possible when a Democrat, Sen. David Roberti of Los Angeles, switched from a no to a yes vote.

It was also a major personal triumph for Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, the Democrat who hammered out the compromise with Reagan and guided it through the Legislature.

State Supt. of Schools Wilson Riles also issued a statement of praise for the bill, which he said makes it "very clear that the citizens of California want good schools and are willing to pay for them."

Reagan is expected to sign the massive tax shift into law after he returns Dec. 10 from a weeklong trip to Arizona and New York.

Reagan said the property tax relief in the bill could be "just the first step" in a program of state cuts. He said he hopes to look next to reductions in the income tax, which he said could be financed from the remainder of an estimated $700 million budget surplus.

"I am delighted that at long last the Legislature has approved property tax reform and school financing legislation," Reagan said. "This bill is the first step, and will

Legislature ups its pay

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislators voted themselves a 10 per cent pay raise Friday night in a quiet, last-minute maneuver which drew no opposition in floor debate.

Proposed by Assembly Republican leader Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, the measure would increase the salaries of senators and assemblymen from $19,200 to $21,120 a year, effective Dec. 2, 1974.

It also would sweeten the retirement benefits for lawmakers retiring before 1975, including Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton, who authored the measure calling for a 20 per cent hike in legislators' pay.

The Senate granted final legislative approval of the 10 per cent pay raise on a 27-10 vote and sent the bill to Gov. Ronald Reagan, who was expected to sign it into law.

MONAGAN proposed the increase in floor amendments to a Senate-passed measure by Sen. Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park. Without any vocal opposition, the amendments were adopted on a voice vote. The Assembly then passed the bill on an overwhelming 58-10 vote.

In addition to the pay raise, Monagan's amendments give Reagan more flexibility in setting the pay for administration employes, permitting him to lower staff salaries and use the surplus to hire more personnel.

Monagan insisted the provision was not designed to win Reagan's approval of the measure. He said he had "assurances" that Reagan would approve either a 10 per cent or a 20 per cent pay raise.

Asked why he wanted to slash Short's proposal in half, Monagan replied: "Some of the members of the Assembly thought that 20 per cent was too much. I wanted to cut it down to a more reasonable amount."

Monagan said the 20 per cent hike proposed by Short virtually had no chance of approval in the Assembly.

"The taxpayers are being overburdened with taxes," Assemblyman Floyd Wakefield, R-South Gate, said in an interview. "Somebody somewhere along the line has to say enough is enough."

WAKEFIELD, who bitterly opposed the Short bill in private talks with assemblymen, declined to vote for or against the Monagan proposal.

Monagan's amendments were proposed for the first time in floor debate late Friday afternoon. The bill by Short, who said he won't seek reelection in 1974, was introduced just last week.

In 1966, the voters approved a constitutional amendment which created a "full-time" Legislature and gave the lawmakers authority to increase their own pay up to 5 per cent a year.

BOMB BLAST killed two and injured 70 late Friday night in Dublin, Ireland; explosions killed an off-duty bus driver and conductor, and set half a dozen cars and a bus on fire.

Bombs terrorize Dublin

DUBLIN (UPI) — Bomb blasts that were felt in parliament buildings caused death and destruction in downtown Dublin Friday night.

Police said at least two persons were killed and 70 injured, at least 10 of them seriously.

Parliamentary opposition to the government's crackdown on the Irish Republican Army collapsed shortly after the explosions that killed an off-duty bus driver and a conductor, and the government won a dramatic victory. Measures designed to toughen the anti-IRA laws passed easily.

Bomb-laden cars exploded outside Liberty Hall, the 14-story headquarters of Irish trade unions, and Cleary's department store, off Dublin's main thoroughfare, O'Connell Street. Shock waves from the blasts shook the Dail, the parliamentary lower house, a quarter-mile away.

Soon afterward, Liam Cosgrave, leader of the opposition Fine Gael Party, ended his resistance to Premier Jack Lynch's legislation aimed at curbing the IRA. "We have put the nation before party," Cosgrave said. "We will ensure the government will have all the necessary powers available. This House will protect the people from this type of thing."

Lynch proposed an amendment to the 1939 Offenses against the State Act under which IRA provisional leader Sean MacStiofain was convicted last Saturday.

The explosion near Liberty Hall set fire to half a dozen nearby cars and a bus and blew in the front of a pub, the Liffey Bar, crowded with 200 patrons.

The blasts caused a brief panic in downtown Dublin. Hundreds of persons rushed wildly through the streets. Rumors of other planted bombs drove them on.

Police broadcast a radio appeal for store managers to return and search their premises for bombs.

Police said shortly before the explosions an anonymous telephone caller had warned a newspaper in Belfast, Northern Ireland, that bombs had been planted near Liberty Hall and the department store.

S. Viets say peace Dec. 15

United Press International

South Vietnamese foreign affairs adviser Nguyen Phu Duc has reported to President Nguyen Van Thieu that the United States wants to sign a Vietnam peace treaty by about Dec. 15, Vietnamese sources said today.

The sources also said North Vietnamese negotiator Le Duc Tho had promised the first contingent of 100 American prisoners of war would be released the day a treaty is signed.

The sources said Duc, in a coded report from Washington transmitted to Thieu through the U.S. embassy in Saigon, said that Le Duc Tho had proposed Dec. 10 for signing of a treaty.

But the sources said suspension of the private Paris talks and consultations between Duc, President Nixon and Nixon's special adviser, Henry Kissinger, took so much time that the Dec. 10 date became unrealistic.

THE SOURCES said Tho, in a Nov. 30 message to Kissinger relayed by U.S. Paris negotiator William Porter, then suggested Dec. 19 for the signing. That date is the eve of the 12th anniversary of the establishment of the National Liberation Front.

But the sources said the United States wanted an earlier date, somewhere about Dec. 15.

The sources said Thieu met with the National Security Council Thursday, after receiving Duc's report, but no action was taken. Thieu met again with the Security Council today (Saturday).

IN PARIS South Vietnam's peace negotiators insisted on a complete North Vietnamese troop withdrawal as the key condition for Saigon's agreement to a cease-fire.

The Vietnamese sources in Saigon also reported that Duc was unable to convince Nixon that Thieu's conditions for a treaty should be met.

Thieu's strongest demand is for the public withdrawal of all North Vietnamese troops from South Vietnam. Thieu estimated the NVA strength at 300,000 troops, but the United States estimates there are 125,000 to 140,000. The U.S. also appears satisfied to accept a private North Vietnamese promise to withdraw only a portion of its troops.

The sources said Nixon told Duc that the most important issue is the survival of South Vietnam as a non-Communist nation.

Banned two years ago

Dangerous toys still on shelves

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer action groups in 17 states reported Friday they found toy stores across the country stocked with hundreds of dangerous toys which have been banned by the government.

Members of the District of Columbia Public Interest Research Group said they considered just as dangerous at least another 1,000 of the toys discovered in the shopper survey but not banned by the Food and Drug Administration.

"It is an absolute scandal that toys banned for two years are still being sold to unsuspecting consumers," said Rob Chlopak at a news conference.

The organization did not specify which banned toys were found by the shoppers — voluntary students and parents. Chlopak said most of the toys were those with squeakers likely to be dislodged and swallowed by children.

Chlopak announced at the news conference that 382 banned toys had been found. Afterwards he said he could not tell from the state reports how many in the total represented different individual toys and how many were the same model found in quantity or in different stores.

He said the total probably represented at least 100 different toys. A Food and Drug Administration spokesman said the agency has banned 830 in the last two years.

"Parents have confidence in the toys they buy, because they take for granted that someone in the government is looking out for dangerous toys," said the report on the shopper survey.

"The public's faith in regulatory agencies is often unjustified by agency performance."

Although both the Toy Manufacturers Association and the FDA conceded that hundreds of banned toys are probably still being offered for sale, Malcolm Jensen, head of the DA's bureau of product safety, denied the charges of poor performance.

"To the contrary," he said, "we feel we have removed millions of toys from the market. We believe this Christmas will be a safer Christmas than in the past years."

A.F. gives up 2-year fight to oust unwed mother

Combined News Service

The Air Force Friday gave up its two-year battle to discharge Capt. Susan Struck, the unmaaried nurse who appealed to the Supreme Court to block her dismissal for giving birth.

In a brief statement in Washington, the Air Froce said Capt. Struck, 28, of Louisville, Ky., has been granted a waiver allowing her to remain on active duty. She is stationed at Minot Air Force Base, N.D.

The Air Force sought to discharge Miss Struck ever since she became pregnant while serving at Cam Ranh Bay, Vietnam, in early 1970. Her baby, a girl, was born Dec. 3, 1970, and was given up for adoption.

At the time, Air Force regulations required automatic discharge in the case of pregnancy regardless of marital status unless the pregnancy was terminated.

But in March 1971 the regulations were modified to permit waivers. However, the service continued to press for Capt. Struck's dismissal and denied her waiver in June, 1971, while granting waivers to other women in similar circumstances.

Since the regulations were modified, more than 200 women have received waivers.

The Air Force gave no reason why it was now relenting in Capt. Struck's case. The action, however, would save the Air Force's regulation from the possibility of an across-the-board invalidation should Capt. Struck's case come to a final decision before the Supreme Court.

The high court agreed only Oct. 23 to grant her the hearing, but now government laywers are expected to ask the court to drop the case from the docket as moot.

President

Antonio Segni, the president of Italy from 1962 to 1964, died Friday in a Rome hospital. He was 81.

The silver-haired country gentleman who smiled often was partially paralyzed since a stroke forced him to resign as president in 1964.

Segni was the father of Italy's postwar land reform and served as premier in 1955-57 and 1959-60 and minister of agriculture, education, defense and foreign affairs under other premiers.

N.Y. boss

Carmine DeSapio, the onetime boss of New York's Tammany Hall, was freed on good behavior from federal prison camp at Allenwood, Pa., Friday and promptly returned with his wife to their Greenwich Village apartment.

De Sapio, a power in local politics since 1939, had served 17 months on his two-year conviction of conspiring to bribe a former city water commissioner to withhold a permit sought by consolidated Edison, a utility.

DeSapio was denied two earlier pleas for parole.

Hopeful

The wife of Lester Pearson, former Nobel Prize-winning prime minister of Canada, Friday confirmed her husband has been "very ill" but the family is hopeful of recovery.

Maryon Pearson refused to comment on the nature of the illness, but said her husband is resting in bed at home.

Allende

President Salvador Allende of Chile, his visit to Mexico sparking a tumultuous welcome, told a joint session of the Mexican Congress Friday that the war in Vietnam epitomizes the struggle of all small nations to free themselves of domination by larger countries.

"Powerful nations . . . industrialized capitalist countries do not understand the real significance of respect for the rights of other nations," Allende said, refraining from identifying any nation other than Vietnam by name.

"Respect for the rights of others is peace," he said. "The effort of the people of Vietnam to achieve unity and independence is the battle of all small nations of the world."

Admirers, many of them students, pressed forward to greet Allende everywhere he went on the first full day of his three-day visit to Mexico.

Nazi hunter

Spy expert Ladislas Farago said Saturday his series in the London Daily Express on the alleged whereabouts of Germany's World War II deputy fuehrer, Martin Bormann, has "failed to produce the result I envisaged."

Farago, in a final copy righted article on his hunt for Bormann, said no official approach has been made to him for documents that he claims prove the former Nazi's flight across the Atlantic, allegedly to South America.

But he forecast his disclosures — to be amplified in a book — would finally result in Bormann's arrest.

McElroy

Services will be held in Cincinatti Sunday for Neil McElroy, who resigned his post as head of a soap products empire to become secretary of defense during the era of missile buildups.

The tall, sandy-haired Ohio native, who died Thursday night from cancer at 68, was praised Friday by President Nixon as a man of "high character and keen intelligence."

McElroy, who left his $285,000 a year post as president of the Cincinnati based Proctor & Gamble Co. to accept the $25,000 Cabinet post, served as defense secretary from 1957 to 1959 under the late President Eisenhower. He returned as board chairman in 1959.

Asked why he stepped down from his post to serve in the Cabinet post, McElroy answered: "If a man doesn't try to carry his share of the citizenship load when the opportunity presents itself, then he ought to keep his mouth shut when something goes wrong with the way government is run."

Assassination try by mail on Truman revealed

The so-called Stern Gang of Palestine terrorists tried to assassinate Presidnet Harry S. Truman by letter-bomb in 1947, according to a new biography written by Mr. Truman's daughter.

Mrs. Margaret Truman Daniel writes that "a number of cream-colored envelopes, about eight by six inches, arrived in the white house, addressed to the president and various members of the staff." But the White House mail room discovered the letters and had them defused, Mrs. Daniel writes.

As far as could be immediately determined, Mrs. Daniel is the first member of the Truman White House circle to confirm that the letter-bombs arrived, although the report also appeared in a 1949 book.

Lop'ided Fla. vote to restore death penalty

Combined News Services

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — The Florida Legislature became the first in the nation Friday to restore the death penalty following the U.S. Supreme Court ruling last June against capital punishment. Gov. Reuben Askew, whose signature was the only step left to make the bill law, said he was satisfied with the legislation. It was passed by the lower house 116-2 and by the senate 36-1. California voters adopted a constitutional amendment Nov. 7 that would reinstate the death penalty in certain limited cases. But the validity of the change in the State Constitution allowing restoration of capital punishment is certain to be tested in courts.

The Florida bill provides that death sentences be carried out in the electric chair for persons convicted of premeditated murder and killings in the act of arson, rape, robbery, burglary, kidnaping, air piracy and bombings, and for persons over 17 who rape children under 11 and for pushers who sell fatal overdoses of heroin.

Winter storms lash East

Snow storms hit northern New England and parts of the Great Lakes region on the first day of December, the first of the winter months. An intense coastal strom moved northest over northeastern New York and New England, dumping heavy snows. The heaviest reported snowfall was 15 inches at Hardwick, Vt. In Rumford, Maine, 14 inches of snow fell and an 82-year-old man died of an apparent heart attack after shoveling snow. Temperatures plunged to zero in portions of North Dakota. Gale warnings flew along the northern New England Coast.

Disputed mine vote begins

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — In what may well be the most scrutinized election in the history of the labor movement, the nation's coal miners began voting Friday under government supervision for president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Guilty plea to escape guillotine

NEW YORK — French citizen Christian David, in a move to avoid extradition to France and a possible confrontation with the guillotine, pleaded guilty Friday to a charge of conspiring to smuggle nearly 770 pounds of heroin into the U.S. He was sentenced to serve 20 years in jail and pay a $20,000 fine. The frenchman, 41 was convicted in France in abstentia and sentenced to death in 1966 for the murder of a police commissioner.

Commuters still in dilemma

NEW YORK — About 90,000 Long Island Rail Road commuters faced a second day of empty rails Friday and found their way home in everything from autos to helicopters as the strike by rail workers appeared heading into a second week. Railroad and union officials met late Friday, but they offered little hope for a speedy end to the strike.

Police blamed on fatal clash

BATON ROUGE, La. — Law enforcement officers tossed the first tear gas canister, touching off the clash Nov. 16 between police and Southern University students, an investigating committee reported Friday. A 12-member panel headed by Louisiana Atty. Gen. William Guste made the observation in a paragraph-long statement issued at the completion of the first week of its inquiry into the violence which left two young black dead. Several officials, Gov. Edwin Edwards among them, had insisted films of the confrontation showed the first tear gas emerging from the ranks of the students assembled outside Southern's administration building. Officers, they had said, merely responded to the provocation.

U.S. wins key vote to lower U.N. levy

UNITED NATIONS — The United States won a crucial test Friday in its effort to lower its contribution to the United Nations regular budget. The vote in the General Assembly's Finance Committee was 67 to 30 with 32 abstentions. The committee resolution recommended that the ceiling on the assessment any member state must pay should be lowered "as soon as practicable" to 25 per cent of the total U.N. budget. The U.S. now pays 31.5 per cent. The Soviet bloc voted solidly against the U.S. initiative, along with a scattering of developing countries in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

Brandt not going to East

BONN — Chancellor Willy Brandt backed away from his declared intention of traveling to East Berlin later this month to sign the basic treaty his West German government negotiated with East Germany in November. Instead his state secretary, Egon Bahr, will go to the East German capital Dec. 21 to sign the documents. The comprehensive treaty formalizes and improves ties between the two German states. Brandt had declared his willingness to go to East Berlin at the close of the recent German election campaign.

Romania in anti-Russ stance

HELSINKI, Finland — Romania, again stressing its independent stance in the Communist bloc, Friday proposed that a European Security conference firmly bind all nations to renounce the use of force in any circumstances. While many countries touched on the need for peaceful settlement of disputes, Romania spelled out what it means and assigned the subject top priority. Romania made no distinction between East-West disputes and disputes within the blocs. The document would say that "in no circumstances whatever, in no form and under no pretext" can one nation use or threaten to use force against another.

Stepped-up Peron security

BUENOS AIRES — Army troops, apparently reacting to reports of growing anti-Peronist attitudes in some sectors of the armed forces, set up four antiaircraft guns Friday on the corners of the suburban residential block where former President Juan Peron is residing. Two hours later, the troops dismantled the guns and removed them without explanation. A Peronist newspaper said in a morning edition that some officers in the army are plotting to expel Peron, and there have been other reports that a group of navy officers also is plotting against the former dictator.

Mrs. William Kamer, of Louisville, Ky., went hippety-hopping around her house on her birthday. Her 5-year-old son Bobby had handcuffed her ankles.

It happened when she put her feet up on the coffee table and leaned back to watch television. There was an odd "click, click" sound, and her ankles were locked together.

The toy cuffs belonged to her 13-year-old son, Mike, who kept the only key on a chain, along with the key to his bicycle lock.

He was attending a Scout meeting and the only other person around was Bobby, with a big smile on his face.

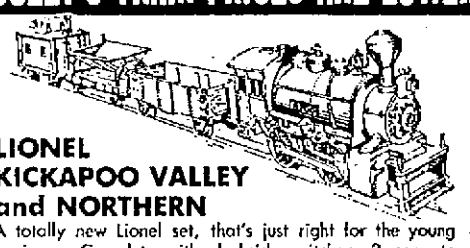

Hobbling into the kitchen, Mrs. Kamer finally extracted one ankle by using a table knife and a shoehorn. The other side of the cuff wouldn't budge.

She finally had to go to a nearby firehouse and be cut free with bolt cutters.

Hahn wants post, too

Supervisors to name chairman

By NOEL SWANN
From Our L.A. Bureau

Supervisor Pete Schabarum is being tipped as the choice for board chairman when board members vote on the matter next Tuesday.

Though Supervisor-elect Baxter Ward already has stated he will nominate veteran Supervisor Kenneth Hahn for the post, observers don't believe he will muster the necessary three votes.

Hahn, considered a maverick among his colleagues, never has been chosen chairman in his 20 years on the board. And it is well known he would like the post if only to erase the "insult" of being shunned by his colleagues in past years.

However Hahn and Schabarum have been locking horns on the board ever since Schabarum took office following the death of Frank Bonelli in March. And Hahn also has had some heated clashes with Supervisor James Hayes who was elected to the board after the death of Burton Chace in August.

Because of this, observers say, it's virtually certain that Hayes and Schabarum will not support a move to elect Hahn chairman. And they point out that Supervisor Ernest Debs, the only other remaining veteran on the board, never has been considered a Hahn ally.

DEBS, now in his late 60s, apparently has little interest in the chairmanship because of the exacting nature of the job, thus narrowing the field to Schabarum and Hayes.

Schabarum holds seniority over Hayes and is rumored to want the chairman's spot while Hayes is said to be lukewarm to the idea at this time. Though election of a chairman occurs each year it usually has been board practice to reelect the same chairman for a second term. Regardless of who gets the post, county officials and the news media are gearing for what is expected to be a completely new atmosphere in the conduct of board meetings.

ALREADY with the addition of Schabarum and Hayes this year the meetings have taken on a different complexion. But with former TV newscaster Ward taking his seat on Tuesday, observers look for a completely new make-up job. Ward, who will be sworn in Monday, replaces veteran Warren Dorn whom he beat in the Nov. 7 election. Though Dorn only leaves office at noon Monday the transition virtually was complete by Friday with most of Dorn's employes preparing to start new jobs in other parts of the county operation Monday morning.

Officials Friday disclosed Ward already had appointed three deputies, all with a background in the electronic news media and was seeking appointment of six other staff members, all women. The three deputies who have received tentative Civil Service Commission approval are Jack London, 55, of Woodland Hills; Robert Paige, 57, of Beverly Hills; and Kenneth Crasney, 24, of Los Angeles. All will have starting salaries of $15,252 a year but this could be hiked to $18,966 if Ward asks for it and gets support from other board members.

Grand Jury supports newsmen immunity bill

From Our L.A. Bureau

The County Grand Jury has written to each supervisor saying the jury was "disappointed" by the board's action in failing to endorse federal legislation aimed at giving newsmen immunity in protection of their sources.

"We feel this most precious right (freedom of the press) is being threatened by recent judicial decisions," said Laurence T. Greiner, jury foreman. "We urge you to again consider this matter and to use your influence in Washington for passage of legislation protecting newsmen."

The jury's letter was released Friday by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn who failed to get a second when he moved for board support of an immunity bill being introduced by U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston.

Hahn's motion followed a full discussion on the case of reporter Bill Farr who is now in jail for refusing to reveal the names of two lawyers who he said gave him information for a story during the murder trial of cult leader Charles Manson.

Supervisor James Hayes, a former lawyer, apparently laid the groundwork for the failure to respond to Hahn's motion.

Funds urged for medical center

From Our L.A. Bureau

Supervisors Friday were urged to reactivate plans for a medical supply center at Rancho Los Amigos Hospital in Downey.

In a report to the board County Engineer Harvey T. Brandt said supervisors originally approved plans for the center in 1965 but the matter was filed because no construction funds were available at that time.

Hahn calls for war on teen thugs

From Our L.A. Bureau

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn Friday called for a "shakeup in policy" and possible management changes in the county's probation department in an effort to stop the growing rash of crimes committed by juveniles.

"Kid thugs actually are carrying guns in the halls of senior and junior high schools," Hahn told a press conference. "This is a crisis of gigantic proportions which needs the immediate attention of county government."

HAHN SAID a stronger policy must be established instead of "soft handling of tough hoodlums" and called for a review of the probation department and the courts.

He said some juveniles are being released on probation and returned to their communities after being arrested "20 and 30 times."

The supervisor called for a mandatory six-month sentence in a forestry camp for "young hoodlums and thugs carrying guns on school property."

Tree lighting fete slated in La Palma

The City of La Palma will hold its fifth annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony, Dec. 10 at 6 p.m. in front of the city's civic center. Santa Claus will be present to give candy canes to the children.

Exodus seen if deputies' pay doesn't reach LAPD's

From Our L. A. Bureau

Sheriff Peter Pitchess Friday warned supervisors they could face "an exodus of highly trained and competent deputies" unless salaries in his department are boosted to the level of comparable agencies such as the Los Angeles Police Department.

In a letter to the board Pitchess said a recent report by a county factfinder confirmed the need for establishing "at least a semblance of parity" with the LAPD.

Pitchess lashed the Personnel Department's contention that sheriff's department salaries should be compatible with "similar, less complex rural agencies" saying this stand was "totally unrealistic."

"National acknowledgement of the professionalism of our personnel and the magnitude and effectiveness of our operations refute the conclusions of Personnel Director Gordon Nesvig," Pitchess said.

While expressing specific concern about the discrepancy of pay for personnel below the rank of captain, Pitchess noted that captains in his department earn $317 a month less than those in the LAPD. He said sheriff's inspectors earn $370 a month less than similarly ranked LAPD officers.

Pitchess said the disparity is bad enough but added the situation would become worse since the comparisons do not include a 3.8 per cent increase ordered for Los Angeles City policemen by a Superior Court judge.

Hayes induction to board slated

From Our L.A. Bureau

Fourth District Supervisor James Hayes will be inducted to the board of supervisors in an official ceremony Monday at 11:30 a.m.

Though Hayes was sworn in last August when he was appointed to the board to fill the vacancy created by the death of Burton Chace, officials said it is customary for supervisors to be sworn in again after they are elected.

School aid

I need information on federal financial assistance for minority students. My nephew, a Mexican-American, is a freshman law student at Harvard University. We can already see he'll need help if he is to continue school next year. E.R. San Juan Capistrano.

A booklet, "Guide to Securing Collegiate Financial Aid" with a special section of over 100 sources available to Spanish-surname students, is being mailed to you by the Youth Opportunities Foundation in Los Angeles. Executive director Felix Castro said the book is distributed annually to all California high school and college students. Another book, "Law Scholarships For Minority Groups," includes a listing for Harvard students, and is available at $1 from Scholarship Information Center, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27514. Your nephew also should seek help, if he hasn't already, colleges have staff specialists just to assist such students as your nephew who need financial assistance to complete their education.

Dance class

Can ACTION LINE help us locate a Mexican folk dance class for elementary school age children in our area. It is important my children learn this fact of their heritage. Mrs. L.E.D., Torrance.

A folkloric class for 5-to-13 year-old children is held free from 10 a.m. to noon Saturdays at the East Long Beach Neighborhood Center, 2338 E. Anaheim St. and Sundays in the Bixby Park Clubhouse, First Street and Cherry Avenue, Long Beach, conducted by Tony Vasquez. San Pedro classes will begin in mid-December when the Harbor Family Crisis Center opens new offices. For the location of the class call Connie Campos, 832-0208.

That's a trip!

I'm buying a car from a relative in Dearborn, Mich., but have no means of bringing it it to California. I've heard people will drive the car out for me and pay gas costs in exchange for the transportation. Can ACTION LINE help me locate them? L.T.R., Garden Grove.

You may be in time to catch college students needing an inexpensive ride home for the holidays, advise Jane Briggs, ACTION LINE researcher for the Detroit Free Press. Try placing an ad in the University of Michigan Daily, at 420 Maynard St., Ann Arbor, Mich., 48104. Drivers sometimes advertise their services in the Detroit Free Press classified section transportation column. To keep check, you can order a mail subscription to the paper for $1.30 a week. Write the Cashier, Detroit Free Press, 321 W Lafayette Ave., Detroit, Mich. 48231. Or it might be easier for your Dearborn relative to check such ads and make arrangements for a driver at that end, if he will. More expensive but, perhaps, safer would be to arrange a driver through the Auto Driveaway Co., 4800 Melrose Ave., Los Angeles which can supply bonded drivers from its 64 branch offices. The agency's fees are charged according to the value of the car, its location and destination.

Defensive

I am 16 years old and would like to locate any classes in self defense for women in my area. S.D., Carson.

The Carson Parks and Recreation Department sponsors co-educational karate classes twice weekly on three levels. City sports supervisor Bob Ceasar said the year old karate program is conducted Tuesday and Thursday evenings at Curtiss Junior High School, 1254 Helmick St. Open to students 10-years-old and up, the classes meet at: 7 to 7 p.m., advanced; 7:15 to 8:15 p.m., intermediate; and 8:30 to 9:30 p.m., beginners. Fees are $8 per month for elementary school through college students, $10 per month for persons over 21-years old and $20 per month for families of three or more. You may sign up for the class Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., at Carson City Hall, at 21919 E. Avalon Blvd.

Pot bill veto seen

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill to reduce the penalty for marijuana possession from a possible felony to a misdemeanor narrowly won final legislative approval Friday and was sent to Gov. Reagan, who is expected to kill it with a veto.

The measure by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, cleared the Assembly on a 41-17 vote, the minimum margin necessary. The final approval followed the Senate's surprise 27-18 vote for the bill Thursday.

"This is actually a very conservative bill," Sieroty told the Assembly. "It goes nowhere near Proposition 19," he said, referring to the defeated Nov. 7 ballot initiative that would have legalized marijuana use.

Under the bill, a person convicted on a marijuana charge for the first time could be incarcerated up to six months. Subsequent offenses would be punishable by up to a year in jail and a fine.

Currently, judges are permitted to sentence a marijuana offender either on a misdemeanor or a felony basis. A person theoretically could spend 10 years in jail for smoking marijuana.

Sieroty said only six states have marijuana laws that are as harsh as California's. He said 17 per cent of those convicted under the law now receive a felony sentence.

Mills withstands leadership threat

For Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Senate President Pro Tem James Mills Friday withstood the first serious threat to his leadership since he was elected to office in January of 1971, without the challenge ever being taken to a vote.

Mills, D-San Diego, persuaded Senate Democrats to remain united behind him, consequently preventing Republican Sen. Fred Marler from picking up the two Democratic votes he needed to assume the pro tem position.

Earlier Friday, at a breakfast meeting, the 19 Republican in the Senate had met for the purpose of selecting one of their members to challenge Mills. Marler, from Redding, was elected over Sen. John Harmer of Glendale, and said afterward he hoped to obtain the votes of several Democrats who had expressed dissatisfaction with Mills. Two Democratic votes would have given Marler the 21 needed.

But the Democrats immediately went into a caucus of their own, and reportedly decided to stand united for the time being.

Late Friday Marler acknowledged he had failed to crack the Democrat's united front. He said he would try again when the 1973 session convened Jan. 8.

Flim-flam man takes L.A. police for $41

SAN FERNANDO (UPI) — The tear-jerking story told by a man who collected $41 from sympathetic policemen at the stationhouse began to sound more like a tale told by the world's boldest con artist Friday.

Val Banes and his wife Peg pulled up in front of the station Thursday night in a beat-up 1956 Chevy, their belongings strapped to the top and the gas gauge reading "empty."

Banes told the officers duty they had only 24 cents between them and had an 8-month-old girl who was suffering from a blood clot on the brain and was due for surgery at a San Francisco hospital the next day. They spent all their money on repairs to the car in Phoenix, Ariz., he said.

"Our hearts went out to them," said Capt. Ted Morton of the night watch at the Foothill Division of the Los Angeles Police Department. "We passed around the hat and every officer gave money." The 20 men on duty gave a total of $41.

Banes picked up another $25 from the nearby Shepard of the Valley Lutheran Church after he and his family were referred there by the police.

Officers checked out Banes' story Friday, and it didn't check out. Now, a charge of "treft by device or trickery" has been added to Banes' rather long record of robbery, vagrancy and Peeping Tom offenses.

"It's beginning to look like we've been had and that the night watch was flimflammed," said Lt. Cliff Hodge, wh commands the day watch.

Detectives prepared a misdemeanor theft report but admitted they had little to go on. Nobody got the license number of Banes' car.

(UPI) — A 40-pound ape (DPI) — A 40-pound ape escaped from a residential backyard and prowled the streets during the night before being captured Friday morning.

Before the 36-inch tall female gibbon was snared, she reportedly bit a 6-year-old boy and made a shambles of the home where she finally was apprehended.

Tar Baby, as the ape is called by her owner, Ralph Sehnert of North Hollywood, apparently escaped from Sehnert's yard Thursday night when she was frightened by a dog.

Senate kills no-fault insurance bid

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Friday night killed a no-fault auto insurance bill requiring a decrease in premiums paid by drivers only hours after the measure narrowly passed the Assembly.

The proposal by Sen. Alfred Song, D-Monterey Park, died on a 14-18 vote. It was sent to the Senate earlier in the day by a 42-22 tally in the Assembly, only one more than needed.

The Senate vote came on a parliamentary motion after the bill became enmeshed in a procedural snarl when opponents blocked consideration of the measure.

Song said it was "extremely regrettable" that a bill of the importance of no-fault died as the result of parliamentary maneuvers.

The Song measure called for a "modified" system of personal injury no-fault insurance in which a motorist could seek additional damages in court after his medical expenses exceed $1,000.

The bill would also pay for medical treatment up to $5,000, 85 per cent of lost wages up to $750 a month and funeral benefits up to $1,000 regardless of who was at fault in an accident.

The proposal was opposed by the California Trial Lawyers Association, the state bar, California Rural Legal Assistance and Farmers Insurance.

Some segments of the insurance industry supported the bill, which was also backed by the California Automobile Association.

During assembly debate, Assemblyman John Miller, D-Berkeley, an attorney, said, "This so-called no-fault . . . has a lot of fault. We've been given a bill of goods that it is supposed to be something good for consumers."

Supporters contend the measure would help unclog courts by reducing the number of lawsuits which could be filed as the result of auto accidents.

Song's bill was amended in the Assembly Ways and Means Committee Thursday to require a 12 per cent reduction in car insurance premiums despite Song's heated opposition.

Song and Fenton "hijacked" the current bill in the Assembly committee after their original proposal was defeated by the Senate Finance Committee.

The current measure once dealt with an unrelated matter but they amended the no-fault bill into it so that it would go to the Assembly and then the full Senate, skipping past the Finance Committee.

Reagan gets ecology bill, conservationists up in arms

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Despite heavy criticism from some conservationist legislators, the California Legislature sent a controversial environment impact report bill to the governor's desk late Friday.

Assemblyman John Knox, the Richmond Democrat who authored the bill, told the Assembly the measure was needed to stave off the statewide confusion created by the State Supreme Court's "Friends of the Mammoth" ruling.

The Sept. 21 decision held that private as well as publicly funded construction projects required environmental impact reports when they were determined to have a significant effect on the environment.

Knox's measure would block the effect of the court's ruling on private developers for 120 days and would define environmental impact reports as a purely "informational document."

A 57-12 Assembly vote — three more votes than was necessary for passage — approved the bill after several legislators blasted it as a vehicle pushed by the state's banks, construction industry and business interests.

"The measure had too much to be stopped," said Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, in a glum estimation of the bill's contents. "But conservationists should still vote no on this bill."

"This is not a bill tailored to save the environment or conservation ideals," cautioned Assemblyman Edwin Z'berg, D-Sacramento. "It has been tailored to be acceptable," he said, but called it a "significant" retreat from the "Friends of Mammoth" decision.

Most objectionable to Sieroty and other opponents was the Knox bill's 120-day moratorium period, which they said private developers could use to push through environmentally damaging projects.

Knox denied this, saying to claim there "would be a land rush is to say all local government in California is totally irresponsible, and I don't believe that."

Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, took on the conservationists' complaints in his floor speech. He said the measure was the best that could be achieved given all the differing viewpoints on what the bill should contain.

The Assembly's vote followed a 32-6 Senate okay of the measure earlier in the afternoon and weeks of negotiations between Knox, conservationists, labor, the construction industry and banking representatives.

By the time the Knox measure went to a final vote in the Assembly, the California Real Estate Association, the conservation-minded Sierra Club and the Planning and Conservation were all "neutral" on the measure, a Knox aide said.

Knox said local governments needed the 120 days to establish guidelines. Before the court's decision, the Reagan administration had interpreted existing mental impact reports only on major publicly funded construction.

Knox's bill is AB 889.

Citizens' environment bill dies

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Legislation which would have given private citizens the right to ask the courts to help protect the environment died Friday on the Senate floor.

The measure, AB 366, had been introduced by James A. Hayes of Long Beach before he resigned from his Assembly seat to accept an appointment to the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, who carried the bill for Hayes, told the Senate the measure had adequate safeguards against "nuisance suits" by citizens. He said that under present law a citizen may not sue to prevent environmental harm unless he can prove that he has been personally damaged, or is in danger of being damaged.

The bill would enable a private citizen to ask the courts to halt action considered harmful or poentially harmful to the environment, even though the citizen himself suffered no direct harm.

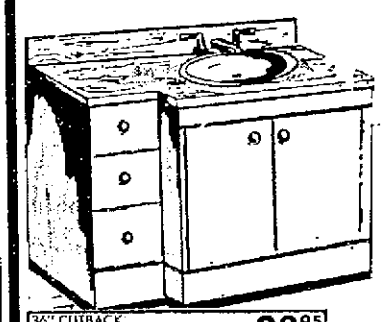

Opponents said the bill's definition of "natural resources" was so strict that automobiles could be banned from the highway if it were approved.

The vote was 11-21.

Major nuclear-fusion control advance told

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — The Atomic Energy Commission announced Friday a "major advance" in the long laboratory struggle to control nuclear fusion, the basic force of the hydrogen bomb, and turn it toward useful work.

Using an experimental machine, based on designs pioneered by the Russians, scientists at the commission's Plasma Physics Laboratory at Princeton University have produced and contained a heavy hydrogen plasma at densities and temperatures several times greater than those ever reported before, according to the commission.

NUCLEAR fusion involves the fusing together of two simple atoms, usually hydrogen, to form a more complex atom, generally helium. It involves the release of great amounts of power as does the splitting or fission of the complex uranium atom.

Such fusion only take place in conditions of intense heat and pressure. In order to harness the hydrogen bomb reaction, such heat and pressure must be created and small amounts of hydrogen fed into it and fused a little at a time into helium.

Plasmas — superheated gasses — can provide the required heat and pressure. The central problem has been finding something that won't melt or fall apart under the intense pressure of heat that reaches 100- to 200-million degrees centigrade.

THE SCIENTIFIC answer has been to create a magnetic bottle — that is to contain the plasma by magnetic forces so that it touches nothing that might melt.

The experiments at the Princeton machine, called an Adiabatic Toroidal Compressor, produced plasmas with densities that reach 100-trillion particles of heavy hydrogen per cubic centimeter.

Such densities have been recorded before but never at such high temperatures on a Soviet-type machine, which is called the Tokamak and is thought to be a predecessor to an actual fusion "furnace."

Temperatures, never above 7 million degrees in the Tokamak-style machine, reached 25 million degrees in the Adiabatic Toroidal Compressor.

Commission Chairman James R. Schlesinger, commenting on the results, said they "further brighten the prospect of realizing commercial fusion power in a Tokamak confinement system. While this is a major step forward in Tokamak research, I would hesitate to use the term 'breakthrough.'

"WE STILL have many years of hard work ahead of us to develop this concept into a practical power system," he said.

The chairman's remarks were made in the weekly physics publication, "Physical Review Letters."

Dr. Melvin Gottlieb, director of the Princeton laboratory, said in a telephone interview he was "very, very happy indeed" at the results from the early experiments on the new $1.3-million machine.

The Tokamak first became prominent with publication by the Russians in 1969 of results from their T-3 Tokamak at the Kurchatov Institute in Moscos. Its magnetic bottle is a donut-shaped ring but was encumbered by a massive copper shell which was believed necessary to keep the plasma from flying apart.

Gottlieb said the copper shell was eliminated in the Princeton machine along with a large iron core transformer used to produce a heating current in the plasma. Instead a transformer with an air core was used.

HE SAID the improvements allowed the Princeton machine to reach densities and pressures thought previously to be only theoretically possible.

The Princeton machine went into operation in May.

The experiments also confirmed another theory that electric currents could be used to heat the plasmas to a point where the gases became superconductors and then would work no more.

The Russians, the commission reported, understood that by compressing their donut of plasma they might sharply increase the temperature and pressure. They were experimenting with many small compressions done by pulses of magnetic energy. The Princeton machine achieves an overall compression of the donut by magnetic force.

More experimental data will be sought from the Princeton machine but the next generation machine is already on the way.

THE NEXT machine, called the Princeton Large Torus, is expected to be ready by 1975 and costs $13 million. It will represent a major effort at checking out theories developed on the Tokamaks.

The United States, the Soviet Union and several other nations have been actively seeking to control the fusion reaction, looking ahead to the day when they can provide a nuclear "furnace" based on fusion that will provide electricity from common hydrogen.

It produces little radioactive waste in contrast with the present generation of fission reactors. Most scientists look to fusion as the long-range answer to the world's energy problems.

Mammoth Cave link discovered

New York Times Service

CAVE CITY, Ky., — Subterranean explorers announced Friday their discovery of a long-sought link between two of the world's major cave systems which stretch for 150 miles underground.

The discovery was made three months ago by an exploring party of five men and a woman who spent 16 hours — often in water up to their necks — worming seven miles underground to locate the long-suspected connection between the Mammoth Cave and the Flint Ridge Cave systems.

"It was like going through a huge bowl full of spaghetti — except that we went through the tubes in the strands," said the party's leader, Dr. John P. Wilcox of Columbus, Ohio.

Officials of the National Park Service, which administers Mammoth Cave, said at a news conference that they believed this central Kentucky hill country is honecombed with underground passages that could stretch as far as from New York City to Washington.

Mrs. Patricia Crowther of Arlington, Mass., a 29-year-old computer programmer and mother of two daughters, told of having been soaked to the skin, caked with mud "like chocolate frosting" and almost exhausted when the party inched through Hanson's Lost River and into the Mammoth Cave complex last Sept. 9.

"We were about at the end of our strength," said Wilcox, a research engineer.

He then described sloshing forward hunched over through a four-foot high passage that was three feet deep in water, coming to an opening in the labyrinth and finding a tourist trail through Mammoth Cave across which tens of thousands of people had probably passed.

The discovery ended almost a year of surveying, planning and exploration by the party.

The story, however, goes back at least to 1799 when Elijah M. Covington, the Warren County surveyor, mentioned "two saltpetre caves" when defining local boundary lines.

A hunter named Houtchins, whose first name has been lost to history, discovered or rediscovered the entrance to Mammoth Cave while pursuing a wounded bear in 1809. During the war of 1812 valuable deposits of saltpeter were mined to make gunpowder.

In the mid-1800's, Stephen Bishop, a Negro guide, discovered many new passages and labyrinths.

National attention was focused on the area by Floyd Collins, who spent a decade exploring the Flint Ridge Cave system and who finally died of exposure in 1925 when trapped by falling rocks. The week of rescue efforts by miners and National Guardsmen caused a nationwide sensation.

It was into the tunnels that had been first explored by Collins that Wilcox and his party went seeking the link between the Flint Ridge and Mammoth Cave systems.

'No benefits in organic food items'

Waste of money, expert declares

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. William Sebrell, former director of the National Institute of Health, told a consumer hearing Friday that he knew of "no acceptable medical benefits or nutritional advantages" to organic foods.

But he said he knew of no disadvantages, either, and concluded: "anyone who wants to waste their money should be free to do so."

Sebrell appeared at a hearing conducted by state Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz into consumer complaints that organic foods were overpriced and carried inflated claims in regard to health benefits.

IN OTHER testimony, a state researcher said he found chemical residues present in a greater percentage of samples of organic foods than in so-called normal foods.

Dr. Elmer George, director of the state food laboratory, said that in a test of 55 food samples designated as being organic — or "produced without pesticides and without fertilizers" — a total 17 samples, or 30 per cent, contained "pesticide residues."

Of some 2,000 normal food samples tested annually, only 20 per cent contain traces of pesticide, he said.

George said the 17 organic products, although labeled with such claims as unsprayed, organically grown and no chemical residues, were found to have residues of DDT, DIE (a derivative of DDT), phosphorus and chlorinated pesticides.

In one case, he said, a sample of organically grown spinach showed traces of a chemical not found in routinely grown spinach.

Hattie Wiener, head of the products committee for the Greenhouse Association, a consumer cooperative that buys organic foods, said she was alarmed by Dr. George's findings.

'IF, IN FACT, these foods were organically grown, they show just how contaminated our food is today," said Mrs. Weiner.

Vincent White, an investigator in the attorney general's office and a onetime chef, said he conducted a six-month survey of 25 New York City health food stores, posing as a potential customer.

White said when he asked store operators why he should buy organic foods, he generally was told "organic foods are pesticide-free, more nutritious and healthier in the long run."

"A few establishments said if I ate organic food I would lose weight or be free of diabetes," said White.

He said one outlet was selling a fish product defined as "organic flounder," and that its label stated: "Caught in the pollution-free, mineral rich, North Atlantic Ocean."

White said the prices for organic foods ranged up to nearly double the price for regular foods, including $1.80 to $2.10 per pound for organic beef chuck.

Soup starts soppy slugging

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Hassan Agabriyeh ordered bean soup at a restaurant then got up to wash his hands. When he returned, another man was at the bowl.

He asked the man to get up, but he refused. Agabriyeh picked up the bowl of soup and threw it on the floor. A fist fight followed.

A judge fined Agabriyeh $125 and gave him a six-month suspended jail sentence.

Swordfish, now safe, being sold

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Swordfish, virtually banished from most tables a year and a half ago after government findings that many had been contaminated by poisonous mercury, may be making a comeback.

The Food and Drug Administration said Friday that apparently safe swordfish are being sold once again in California and evidently are being shipped in small quantities from that state to some East Coast markets.

AMERICANS were consuming about 28 million pounds of the fish, most from Japan and Canada, in mid-1971 when the FDA disclosed that 50 per cent of the samples checked contained more than the agency's standard of 0.5 parts per million mercury in seafood.

The FDA prohibited further import of swordfish and ordered domestic suppliers to halt interstate shipment until the states devised a way to keep contaminated fish off the market.

California is the only state so far to set up such a certification system.

Legal aid held lacking

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Some 130 millionm Americans either receive no legal services or at best have inadequate representation, according to the president of the 27,000-member American Trial Lawyers Association.

"The majority of our people are not receiving the legal services they urgently need and deserve," J. D. Lee told the keynot luncheon of the association's two-day seminar Friday. "Current studies show that the legal profession is adequately serving fewer than one-third the people."

New ACLU chief sees tough job

Associated Press

Ramona Ripston, the new executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union for Southern California, sees a tough job ahead for the professional liberal and civil libertarian.

Among the tasks facing the ACLU, she says, are the Nixon majority on the U.S. Supreme Court, an apparent conservative trend in the country, racism in the military and a free press under siege by the courts.

"We can't turn to the Supreme Court to win the victories we used to win there," Miss Ripston said in a Los Angeles interview. "We're going to have to concentrate on legislation. We have a not-so-bad Congress and not-so-bad state Legislature."

She said the Supreme Court rulings in the past year have been "one appalling decision after another."

The Los Angeles chapter is representing some of the 21 sailors charged with rioting and assault aboard the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk.

"Only blacks have been charged and the conditions they are being kept under are appalling," she said. "What we're concerned with is the acknowledged racism in the Navy and the fact that military juries have to be made up of men of superior rank to those being judged."

Miss Ripston also is concerned with the case of William Farr, the Los Angeles newspaperman jailed for contempt of court after he refused to disclose his sources for a story about the Charles Manson murder case. She sees it as a part of a broader pattern of threats to the rights of free press and free speech.

"I'm an absolutist about the First Amendment," she said. "The current trend is not only an attempt to muzzle the press, it's also an attempt to make the press an investigative arm of the government."

RAMONA RIPSTON
New Executive Director
—AP Wirephoto

She said ACLU lawyers are working on a docket of 60 cases in Southern California and are trying to get more into court. Among them, the ACLU is challenging Proposition 21 "to see that schools will continue to be integrated" and Proposition 17, which reinstated the death penalty in certain crimes in California.

Miss Ripston is married to Henry DiSuvero, a senior attorney for the Greater Watts Justice Center. She came to California in September after five years on the ACLU staff in New York and New Jersey. She has served as national director for press relations.

Freedom denied Farr

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

A Federal judge in Los Angeles Friday denied a request for the immediate release of newsman William Farr, jailed on an open-end sentence for refusing to reveal the sources of a news story.

U.S. District Judge Robert Kelleher, however, indicated he could change his mind and asked that all transcripts of previous proceedings in the case be submitted to him so he might have something to go on to make a decision.

The 37-year-old reporter has been in jail since Monday afternoon after again defying Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Charles Older by not answering questions as to who gave him information he used for a story during the Manson murder trial two years ago.

Kelleher, in denying the request for the reporter's release on his own recognizance said it was "without prejudice," meaning it can be renewed. The judge indicated he did not have enough information before him to release Farr.

Mark Hurwitz, attorney for the Los Angeles Times reporter, argued briefly that Older has not acted impartially in the case.

By GIL BAILEY
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Herb Klein, President Nixon's director of communications, warned the press against emotionalism in press freedom cases Friday even as Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., attacked Klein and the administration for a "cavalier attitude" in dealing with the jailing of reporters.

"One danger is that broadcasters and the printed press may approach distressing circumstances emotionally rather than logically. The jailing of Peter Bridge and William Farr has escalated this problem," Klein told the Radio-TV News Directors Association meeting in the Bahamas.

Farr is in jail in Los Angeles for refusing to disclose a news source to a California judge. Bridge was jailed in New Jersey for refusing to answer questions about a source before a grand jury.

While Klein warned the press about emotionalism, he also said the courts have performed a "disservice" in the jailing of Farr and Bridge.

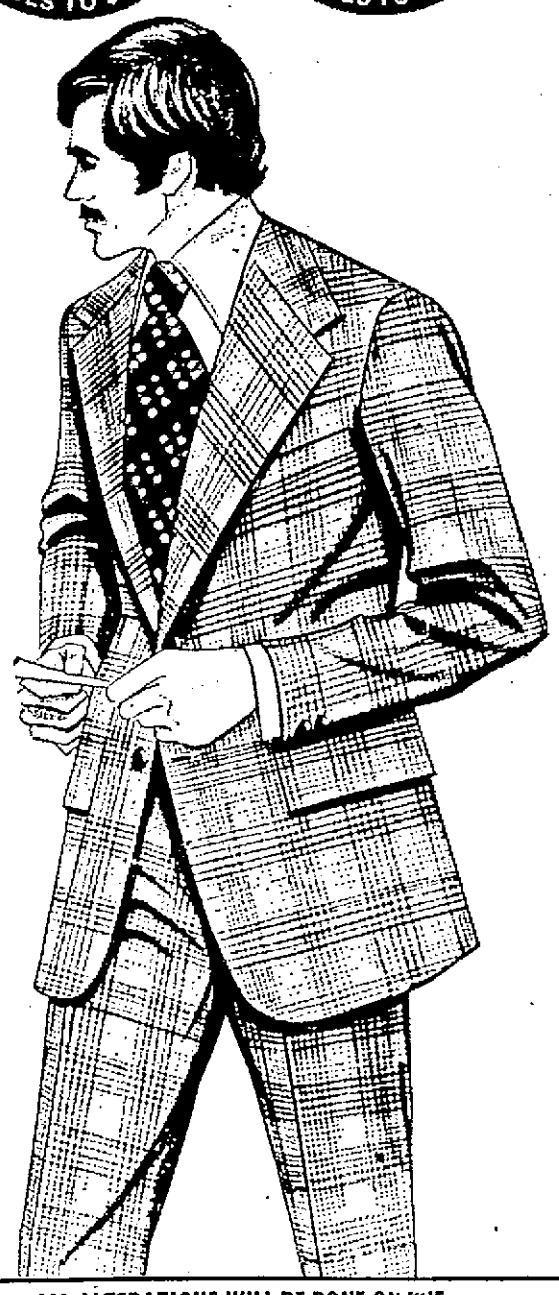

Mondale, author of a bill to proivide federal protection for newsmen, sharply attacked Klein for an earlier statement in which he said Klein has stated he had "serious doubts" about the need for legislation.

"This statement is merely a continuation of the administration's cavalier attitude towards press freedoms, an attitude which over the past four years has time and time again shown too little regard for the delicate balance between government and the press necessary for a vital and free society," said Mondale.

Ruling stalls trial of Pentagon Papers

Associated Press

The Pentagon Papers trial was delayed another week Friday when the defense contended that the government had tried to switch evidence.

Earlier, the judge in the trial denied a defense motion for mistrial and ruled that jurors who had waited four months to try the case can remain on duty.

The judge, who had originally hoped to start the trial next week set the opening the Dec. 12 to allow arguments in the interim on a defense claim that the government tried to hide material to which the defense was entitled.

The jury was retained after jurors who have waited four months for the trial to start swore they were still able to be fair and impartial toward defendants Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo.

HOWEVER, one woman admitted she would be relieved if she did not have to serve. Two said they had heard that the defendants were seeking to dismiss the jury, but said this didn't prejudice them.

Heated arguments ensued after defense attorney Charles Nesson told U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne of "an important matter" which he said he had just discovered.

Nesson then told how the government prosecutor had given the defense — on the judge's orders — a list of all pages of the secret Pentagon Papers which they intended to introduce in evidence. That list was made up last summer.

Now, said Nesson, the government has given the defense a new list, this time of pages which were photographed for showing as slides at the trial.

In comparing the two lists, the attorney said he found that two thirds of the more than 600 pages involved have been changed since the original list was submitted.

"That means," said Nesson, "that two-thirds of the government case is based on pages we have not done preparation on and that two-thirds of the preparation we have done is wasted."

He said that what this amounts to is that on the eve of trial "the government says 'we have a new case."

Byrne, apparently surprised at the revelation, sharply questioned Asst. U.S. Atty. David Nesson on why he hadn't told the defense of the switch. Nesson said he didn't make a final decision on which pages to use until three weeks ago. However, the defense pointed out it wasn't told of the change until four days ago.

BYRNE ordered Nissen to file papers explaining his positon and told the defense to submit its analysis of how the change will affect their already researched work.

Segretti given subpoena to testify on Demo spying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Los Angeles lawyer Donald H. Segretti has been subpoenaed by a Senate subcommittee to testify about alleged attempts to spy on the Democratic presidential candidates, it was learned Friday.

Senate sources said that Segretti was subpoenaed to appear before the Judiciary subcommittee on administrative practice and procedure headed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

The sources indicated that Segretti would be called to appear for questioning behind closed doors sometime before the end of the year.

The subpoena was issued to Segretti at his Los Angeles County apartment in Marina del Rey.

According to published reports, Segretti allegedly was involved in a White House-directed spying and sabotage operation against Democratic candidates throughout the 1972 presidential campaign.

Kennedy's subcommittee staff, headed by its chief counsel, James F. Flug, has been investigating the sabotage reports as well as the Watergate bugging case.

Flug and another Senate investigator talked with Segretti in his apartment Nov. 17 but Segretti declined to cooperate with their investigation.

Segretti, according to a series of Washington Post articles, allegedly hired persons to spy on Democratic candidates during the primaries and to disrupt their campaigns.

Although Flug and his staff have been pursuing the investigation since Mid-October, the subcommittee has thus far made no formal decision whether to hold full-scale hearings next year.

Segretti's subpoena before the eight subcommittee members was seen as a move by Kennedy to escalate his probe into the Watergate break-in case and the Segretti affair.

Flug declined to comment on the subpoena report and would not discuss the extent of the subcommittee's investigation to date.

Dole says he's ready to give up GOP post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole said Friday as he prepared to step down from the post when the GOP has settled on a successor.

Dole said the final choice is President Nixon's prerogative.

"But I think the President has enough confidence in me that he'd like to have my suggestions," the Kansas senator said in an interview.

Dole said he was setting no timetable for his departure from the national committee. He said it is possible but not probable it could come when the committee meets on Jan. 19, the day before Nixon's second inauguration. The next regular committee meeting at which the GOP could formally install a successor would come in June.

Mrs. Westwood warns Demos to 'erase image'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Jean Westwood, under pressure to resign as Democratic National Chairwoman, said Friday the party must erase its image as a band of "squabbling, inefficient, confused and angry partisans," or risk another presidential defeat in 1976.

In a report to members of the Democratic National Committee in advance of its Dec. 9 meeting in Washington, Mrs. Westwood gave no hint that she was prepared to step down without a fight.

On the contrary, she stood firm behind the party reforms engineered by Sen. George S. McGovern which his critics charged had divided the Democrats and led to McGovern's disastrous election defeat by President Nixon.

MEXICO CITY couples hear wedding vows read as their children fidget. Free marriage ceremonies were held throughout Mexico for the unmarried poor living together as husband and wife.

90,000 common-law couples married in mass ceremonies

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — With their children and, in some cases, their grandchildren looking on, approximately 90,000 couples were married Friday in mass ceremonies conducted throughout Mexico.

The weddings were arranged by Mexico's first lady, Mrs. Luis Echeverria, in order to legitimize not only the common-law unions but the offspring of many of the couples who, as a result of poverty or illiteracy, had never legally married.

Some 10,000 couples were married in mass ceremonies in Mexico City, and the Civil Registrar's Office said another 80,000 were conducted in other cities and towns throughout the country. There were no charges or fees for the registration and the services.

"I've always wanted to get married," said Celestino Martinez, 50, as he and his wife, Clementine, gathered their eight children around them.

"I never had enough money. Then I saw on our television set that they were going to provide free weddings."

Martinez and his wife were among 700 couples who were married in a colorful ceremony in the suburban Floating Gardens of Xochimilco. The couples sat with their children in gondolas for the ceremony, and a registrar standing on a small island performed the service. Each bride was given a carnation, each groom a new straw hat.

Mrs. Echeverria presided at another collective wedding ceremony in suburban San Jeronimo where she and the president own a home. More than 1,400 couples were married there.

Chile's visiting first lady, Mrs. Salvador Allende, watched the San Jeronimo ceremony and said afterward she was so impressed she may introduce mass weddings in Chile.

"She was enchanted," said Judge Raymundo Ventia who married the couples in San Jeronimo. "She said she would try it in Chile when she got home."

Many poor or illiterate couples in Mexico simply form common-law relationships rather than having a civil wedding ceremony because regulations governing marriage here are complicated and there are at least $16 in costs.

Facing uncertain future

Italy divorce law two years old

ROME (AP) — Italy's controversial divorce law was two years old Friday, still inextricably tied to politics and facing an uncertain future.

A second consitutional test looms early next year for this Roman Catholic Country's first divorce law since Italy became a unified nation a century ago. In the first ruling last year, the law's constitutionality was upheld. But the margin of decision by the justices, not announced, was said to be by a single vote in the 15 man court.

THE MAKEUP of the Constitutional Court has since changed and this time it could easily go the other way, according to informed source. The Constitutional Court takes up the case again because it was asked to do so by the Supreme Court. The Supreme and the Constitutional Courts are separate in Italy.

Should the law be upheld again, antidivorce forces, spurred by the Vatican, vow that they will bring the law to a referendum. They had collected more than the required 500,000 votes for a referendum last year, but the issue was automatically delayed by a year because of the general election in May.

The election, after the first premature dissolution of parliament since the war, was believed to have been called as one way of avoiding the referendum.

PARTIES had feared that the referendum would split the nation in two hostile camps, leading to what some called religious warfare. But their efforts to come up with a substitute law acceptable to all have yielded no results.

Supporters of the divorce law include the so-called lay parties, from the Communists on the left to the conservative minded Liberals on the right. The necessity of a secular divorce is just about the only thing they agree upon.

In the other camp are the Roman Catholic church, the dominant Christian Democrat party which the church backs, and the neo-Fascists whose help nobody wants. The Christian Democrats and the neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement have enough votes in parliament to do away with the present law, but opponents are reluctant to solicit neo Fascist votes.

Nixon group accused of errors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Democrats have asked President Nixon's cabinet committee for the Spanish-speaking to recall its promotional record because it is grossly inaccurate.

Sens. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., and Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., and Rep. Edward R. Roybal, D-Calif., complained Friday to Henry R. Ramirez about the "gross inaccuracies and negligent misrepresentations" in the prerecorded record.

They assured Ramirez, chairman of the Cabinet Committee on Opportunities for Spanish-speaking People, that they belived the misstatements were not intentional but said they should be corrected immediately.

In addition, they asked Ramirez how many records were produced and the names of all radio stations and organizations sent copies.

"We find it awkward that the prerecorded messages relating your achievements for fiscal 1972 and predictions for fiscal 1973 would be available on Oct. 20 although your committee has failed to submit to Congress the annual report of its activities for fiscal 1972 as required by law," the three congressmen wrote Ramirez.

A spokesman for Ramirez said he had not seen the complaint and would have no immediate comment.

The complaints alleged the record says $80 million was budgeted for bilingual educational programs in the 1973 fiscal year.

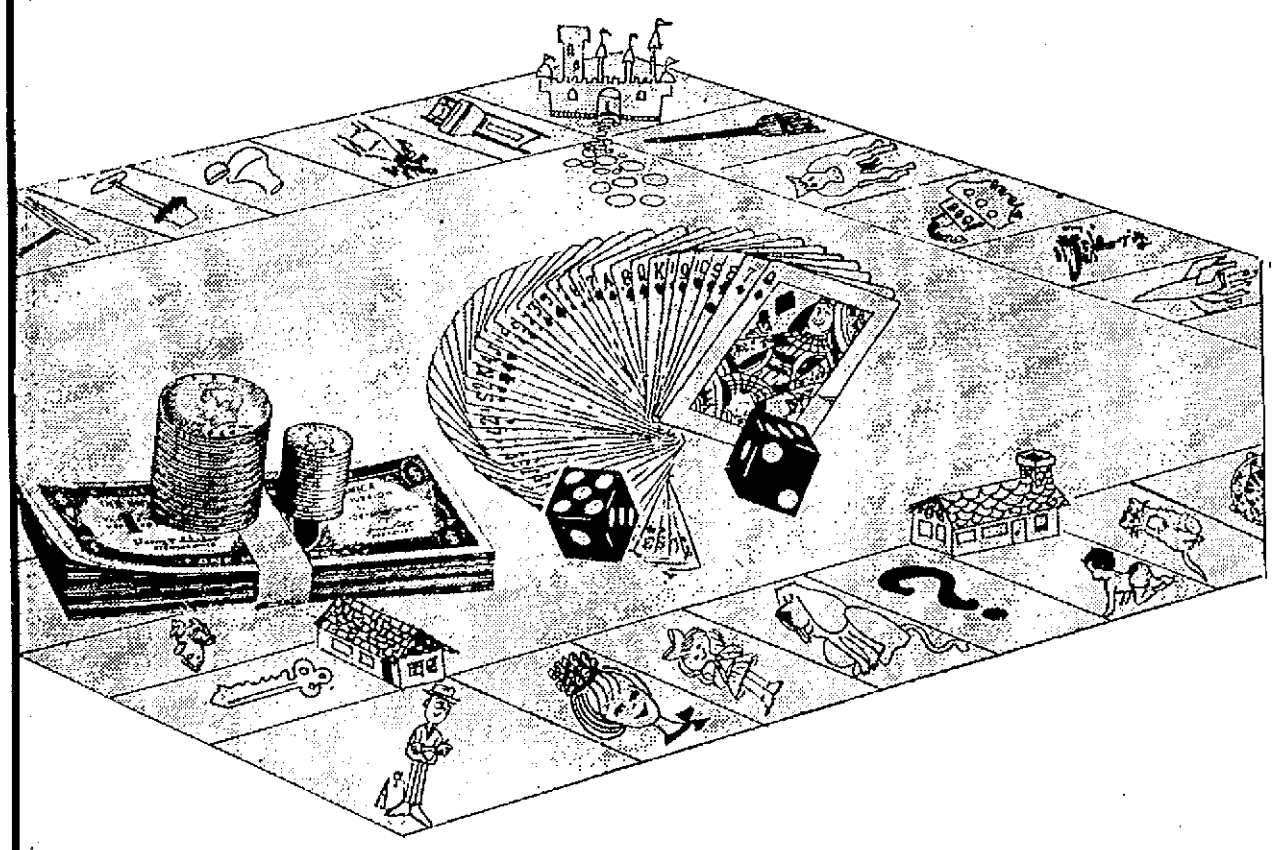

The President budgeted only $41.1 million for bilingual education, the congressmen said, and only an amendment attached by them added $18 million to the bilingual bill, which Nixon then voted. The bilingual budget remains at $35 million, they said.

The record commends a 42-per-cent increase in the Cabinet Committee's own budget to enable it to better serve the Spanish speaking, they said.

"As you well know, both presidential vetoes of the Labor Health, Education, Welfare appropriations also killed the Cabinet Committee's 42-per-cent budget increase which you erroneously cite as another important achievement for the Cabinet Committee," the congressmen said.

SMOG REPORT

The Air Pollution Control District predicts widespread light eye irritation from smog today in Los Angeles County.

The APCD issued the following forecast for atmospheric conditions:

OZONE — Maximum levels of .10 to .15 parts per million in most areas of the county, except the south and southwest coastal areas, where .05 ppm were predicted.

EYE IRRITATION — Light throughout the county.

VISIBILITY — Minimums of 2 to 3 miles, except the San Fernando Valley were minimums of 4 to 5 miles were predicted.

The APCD said a strong, low inversion layer and light morning winds will cause a sharp increase in smog effects throughout the county.

Rescuer rescued

An icy drama unfolds in the freezing waters of this artifical lake in suburban Hickory Hills near Chicago where Zoltan Gottwald, 49, drowned after rescuing a 3-year-old girl. The fireman who tried to rescue Gottwald Friday is shown being pulled from the water after he nearly drowned. Gottwald's body was recovered later by firemen.

TAX-SCHOOL AID PASSES

go a long way in providing relief that the taxpayers need and deserve."

He said the rest of the budget surplus could finance income tax cuts, adding: "I don't believe in government surpluses."

The bill raises the state sales tax another one cent per dollar — to six cents — beginning next June 1. It provides major cuts in property taxes for homeowners beginning in the fall of 1973 and prohibits future property tax increases except with voter approval.

It aslo boosts the state's share of the cost of local schools from the present 32 per cent to 43 per cent next year and to 50 per cent by 1978.

That is achieved by giving local schools the biggest single increase in state support in California history — a whopping $561 million next year.

THE SENATE vote was delayed from hour to hour and day to day all week as backers tried to crack a coalition of 10 Senate Democrats and three Republicans who opposed the plan.

Their opposition — based on a wide variety of complaints summarized in an "11 major flaws" statement on Wednesday — had stalled on the tax bill at 26-13, one short of the 27-vote two-thirds majority needed for final passage.

Reagan lost his last major tax reform proposal in 1970 on a 26-13 Senate vote the last day of the session. Backers of the 1972 bill said privately during the week they feared 1972 would end the same way.

The property tax cuts — worth an estimated $128 a year for the average homeowner — and the limits on future property tax increases by local governments were the key provisions sought by Reagan. He said last week he thought the increases in local school support won by Democrats might be too generous.

THE ASSEMBLY gave its final approval to the Reagan-Moretti bill — SB 90 — on a 64-8 vote Wednesday.

Senate Democratic floor leader George Moscone of San Francisco led opposition to the end. He condemned the intense pressure from educators for the tax bill, which he called "a rather cheap, but nonetheless effective . . . lobbying from the outside."

Moscone said he still opposed the bill because it really didn't solve school finance problems and wasn't a true tax reform.

He said of the lobbying effort by teachers and school administrators: "They have been very cleverly starved into a position where they can't see the forest for the trees."

But Senate President pro tem James Mills, D-San Diego, who with Moscone was one of the most vocal critic of the Reagan-Moretti compromise, was one of the three Democrats to switch his vote.

"I WAS in a position of trying to get every concession I could. I changed because I decided on the very last day there's no more time to make changes," Mills said. He added the final bill "is a little better than it is bad. Sometimes that is all you can do."

But Roberti, who was the first Senate foe to announce his intention of switching was, in effect, the 27th vote that broke the opposition. Sen. Walter Stiern, D-Bakersfield, was the third long-time foe to switch.

On the final roll call, 16 Republicans and 13 Democrats voted for the bill. Seven Democrats and three Republicans voted no.

"I can't say aything magical happened," Roberti explained when questioned about his change of heart. "I changed my mind. I'm glad to say I voted no the first two times the Senate defeated the bill. I am glad I held out. I'm glad there are changes in the bill so that I can vote yes," he said.

OTHER Senate foes said they still opposed the bill despite the big increases for schools because it doesn't go far enough toward meeting the State Supreme Court's order to end the spending inequities between rich and poor districts.

Sen. Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland, predicted the high court would decide the measure doesn't do enough to end inequities, and said another tax hike will be needed to accomplish that goal.

Foes also complained that benefits for renters—tax credits ranging up to $45 a year — weren't as big as benefits to homeowners, that the bill ignores tax loopholes for big business and that local government will be damaged by the tax rate lid.

2 Yanks, Saigon general, among 7 slain in air crash

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese general, two U.S. officials and four other Vietnamese were killed Friday when a military plane taking them on a visit to refugee camps crashed on the central coast northeast of Saigon.

The plane carried 22 persons, the Vietnamese-U.S. refugee team of 18 and a four man crew. The 15 who survived, including three American employes of the U.S. Agency of International Development were unjured.

THE DEAD Americans were identified by AID officials in Washington as Bruce Bailey, 43, a social welfare adviser from San Diego, Calif. and Luther A. McLendon Jr., 53, a relief and rehabilitation adviser, formerly of Atlanta and Decatur, Ga.

Injured were Curtis C. Andersen, 44, a sanitation and public health service expert of Lake Norden, S.D.; Clifford T. Harmon, assistant food for peace officer, 49, of Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Roger L. Russell, 33, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, a general engineer adviser for AID.

The general was Maj. Gen. Tran Thanh Phong, deputy commander of the military region that comprises the Central Highlands and coast north of Saigon. Phong, the seventh South Vietnamese general to die during the war, formerly headed the pacification program and the national police.

OFFICIAL informants said the South Vietnamese air force transport plane was attempting to land in bad weather at Tuy Hoa Air Base, 235 miles northeast of Saigon when they crashed 500 yards short of the runway. They said the cause of the crash had not been confirmed but it was believed to be an accident with weather a contributing factor.

Elsewhere in Vietnam, the logistics war dominated action reports as each side sought to blow up supplies the other has gathered to bolster its peace bargaining position.

U.S. B52 bombers dropped about seven tons of bombs around mountain passes in North Vietnam's southern panhandle in an effort to bottle up arms convoys. The bombs were dropped in an 18 hour period beginning at noon Thursday.

Enemy gunners fired 30 high explosive rockets Friday into Bien Hoa air base, 15 miles north of Saigon where the United States has rushed scores of planes and helicopters to beef up South Vietnam's air force before any case fire agreement limits American aid.

FIELD sources said one of the 100 pound rockets scored a direct hit on an air freight terminal and others damaged five South Vietnamese Skyraider fighter bombers and one helicopter and wrecked a maintenance hangar.

Terrorists struck twice in and near Saigon, and unconfirmable reports circulated that a new surge of terrorism was in prospect.

Ground action continued light and scattered. The Saigon command listed nine skirmishes in its evening communique and claimed 88 enemy were killed at a cost of two government troops killed and 34 wounded.

PEACE

ficials in Washington said there was nothing in two days of earlier talks between Kissinger and Duc that would indicate a Vietnam cease-fire would not be possible by Christmas, or sooner.

The substance of the Friday's meeting, however, was not disclosed. Duc asked for the meeting, apparently in a final effort to get a pledge for conditions Saigon wants included in the settlement. Chief among those is a specific assurance that North Vietnam will pull out at least some of the thousands of troops it has in the South.

In Paris, Saigon delegation officials said reports that their government has scaled down its peace demands, as reported in some Western newspapers, were untrue.

The report said South Vietnam's peace negotiator, Pham Dang Lam, in his presentation at Thursday's regular Vietnam conference session, virtually whittled the demands down to a call for the total pullout of North Vietnamese troops.

'Coordinator of economic policy'

Nixon gives Shultz dual role

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon announced Friday he is retaining three key economic advisers for the second term and will place Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz in a powerful and unusual dual role as coordinator of all economic policy.

Thus, Shultz will take on a role in the economic area comparable to the high level adviser responsibilities that Henry A. Kissinger has in the field of national security affairs.

"Shultz will be the focal point and the overall coordinator of the entire economic policy, decision-making process, both domestically and internationally," Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said.

Shultz, a 51-year-old economist and former professor of industrial relations, will be presidential assistant in charge of a new Cabinet level Council on Economic Policy that will operate in both domestic and international areas.

He will continue to serve as Treasury secretary with no additional salary.

Also keeping their posts are Herbert Stein as chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers and Peter Flanigan as director of the Council on International Policy.

In making the latest announcements of top level personnel for the next four years, Ziegler said:

"President Nixon feels that with the single exception of national security and defense, he has no higher obligation to the American people than that of providing the leadership to insure a healthy, prosperous economy in the United States, an economy which will make a better life not only for all Americans, but will contribute to a healthy economy throughout the world."

He added: "The President is determined to carry the very significant progress of his first term forward in the second term" and feels Shultz has "exceptional leadership capability to do that."

Shultz, who held a news conference after the announcement, declined to give any hints on the fate of wage-price controls after April 30, when they are scheduled to expire.

When asked whether his new White House roles would provide him with executive immunity, Shultz said he would continue to testify before Congress as he has previously as Treasury secretary.

Shultz explained the new arrangement as an effort by the President to have one person identified with the specific responsibility for all aspects of economic policy.

A native of New York City, Shultz began his career as an economics teacher and came to the Nixon administration in 1969 from the University of Chicago, where he was dean of the graduate school of business.

He is one of the original members of Nixon's Cabinet, but one who has had more posts than any other. He served first as secretary of Labor, then moved in 1970 to head the newly created Office of Management and Budget. He replaced John B. Connally in the Treasury post last June.

YULE PARADE CRASHED

ries and possible fractures of knee.

Laura Messick, 16, no address available, multiple abrasions, treated and released.

Michelle Loupis, 14, no address available, possible fractured pelvis.

Another injured youngster, Nicholas Griss, 15, was given emergency treatment at Pacific Hospital and later transferred to Kaiser Hospital, Norwalk.

Treated and released at Memorial Hospital were:

Patricia Martell, 17, of Long Beach; Monica Sullivan, 15; Richard Barrett, 12, and Phyllis Koehn, 13, whose addresses were unavailable.

The hospitals said most of the injured children were from St. Anthony's.

The screams and cries of the 50,000 spectators faded into the bright, clear December night and the silence of the shocked and the stunned fell over the crowd.

It was the inaugural running of the parade, sponsored by the West Long Beach Lions Club. The police were skeptical about having the parade. Capt. Everett Smith explained:

"The city was very reluctant to grant a parade permit."

Smith said the parade organizers had sought the permit only a few days before the march.

An eye-witness to the accident was Ed Fite of Compton, one of a crowd watching the parade from a trailer park at 233 E. Willow St. He said:

"The car came careening down the street and started hitting those people. About every 10 feet somebody got hit.

"The car swerved way over to the south side of the street, like she was trying to avoid the crowd on this corner. All of a sudden you saw those people on the other side of the street flying."

Some witnesses estimated the car's speed at 40 mph and accelerating.

Harmon said the Belanger car was westbound on Willow when she got to Locust. He said she was told to turn south by two motor officers. Harmon said Mrs. Belanger disregarded this instruction and told the motor officers she thought they were directing at a road construction site. He said she began to proceed throu t the intersection. Then, he said, she struck the southbound car driven by Mrs. Patty Chambers, 39 of 226 E. 56th St.

Harmon said Mrs. Belanger apparently panicked, hit the accelerator and proceeded westbound into the eastbound lanes of Long Beach Boulevard. This is when her car struck six or seven children standing around a barricade, watching the parade

The 66 marching units—minus the St. Anthony's drill team—reached Christmas Tree Lane at Daisy Avenue between Pacific Coast Highway and Hill Street. Mayor Edwin W. Wade threw a switch to illuminate the lane.

But the light couldn't rout the darkness that fell over Willow Street and Long Beac Boulevard shortly after 8 p.m. Friday. All it could do was illuminate the pain-wracked faces of 11 children whose dream of Christmas had become a nightmare.

Witnesses to the accident paid special tribute to the work of the Long Beach Fire Department's paramedic teams, the Long Beach police and the Long Beach Search and Rescue unit.

"The kids were in ambulances and enroute to the hospital in less than 10 minutes after the accident," said one woman.

Astronauts get doctors' OK

CAPE KENNEDY (AP) — Doctors gave the Apollo 17 astronauts their final major physical examination Friday while 60 workers threatened a strike which could postpone Wednesday's moon launch.

The spacemen spent more than four hours with a space agency medical team headed by Dr. Charles Lapinta. Then, Eugene A. Cernan and geologist Harrison H. Schmitt rehearsed moon walking preparations and Ronald E. Evans boned up on command ship computer procedures.

KENNEDY Space Center officials were optimistic the astronauts will be launched on schedule even if a strike by documentation workers occurs. But for the first time since negotiations began, they acknowledged there was a possibility of delay.

Dr. Kurt Debus, center directors said: "We are proceeding with the countdown for Apollo 17. If a strike should occur, as one union has threatened, we expect all personnel to continue the preparations."

He said the documentation workers were not essential to the launch but "if substantial numbers of the launch team, such as those perparing an entire stage or equivalent, chose to abstain from work, the launch might be postponed."

Double previous year's total

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Oil and gas revenue to the City of Long Beach and the State of California for the 1971-72 fiscal year totaled $63.9 million, an increase of more than 100 per cent over the prior year, the annual report of the Department of Oil Properties said Friday.

Th increase came principally from the fact that Thums Long Beach Co., field operator on the Long Beach Unit of the tideland field, went onto a net-profits basis in September, 1971, and paid $32.5 million to the city and state during the year.

The State of California received $44.9 million in oil and gas revenue from Long Beach operations, which is more than double the $17.1 million it received in 1970-71, the report said.

The $44.9 million from Long Beach is almost three times the total revenues received by the state from all other state oil and gas leases, according to Leonard W. Brock, director of oil properties.

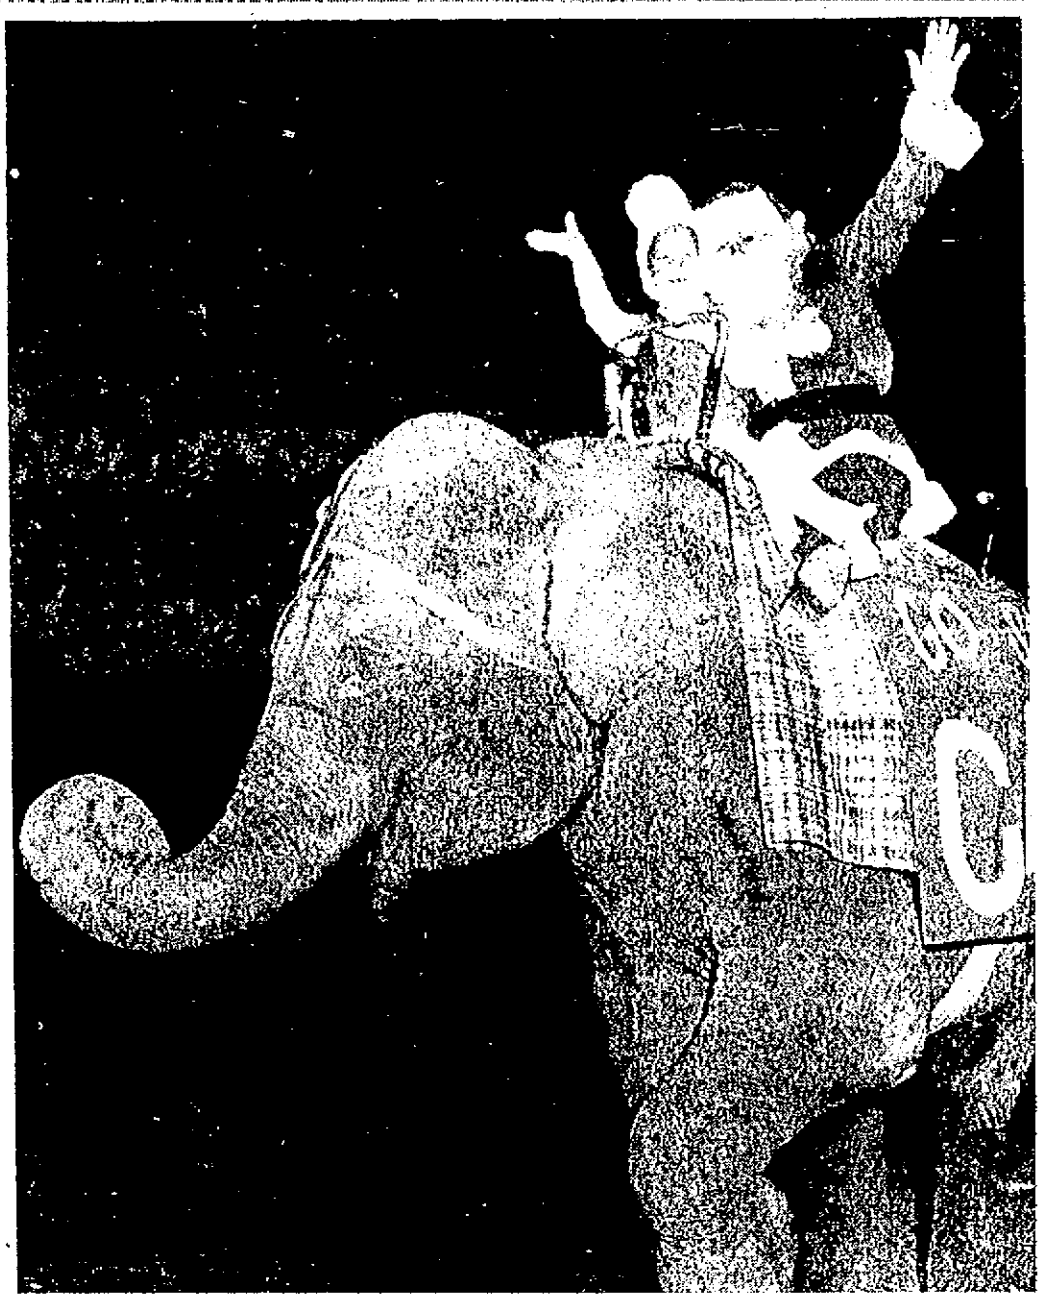

Revenues from Parcel A of the local tidelands rose from $4.6 million in the 1970-71 fiscal year to $6.2 million for the year which ended last June 30, the annual report said. The 1971-72 total included a $4.4 million bonus payment from Powerine Oil Co., which was the successful bidder on the new 17-year contract on Parcel A.

Revenue from Long Beach Oil Development Co. operations was down $3.8 million, but this was almost offset by a $3.4 million increase in revenues from Long Beach Unit non-operating contractors.

Net oil production was off "moderately" on all leases, reflecting the normal decline in already developed areas of the field, the report said. Tideland production averaged 134,640 barrels daily in fiscal 1971-72, which is an 8 per cent decrease from the 1970-71 daily average of 146,862 barrels.

As of the end of the fiscal year, the number of active producing wells was 1,019, and there were 281 injection wells. Average daily water injection in June, 1972, was 868,325 barrels, a 5 per cent increase over the June, 1971, daily average of 827,493 barrels.

Brock said the only new drilling during the 1971-72 fiscal year was by Thums, which drilled 11 new oil wells. Eighteen oil wells and seven water injection wells were redrilled.

Safest, cheapest dental care

Health officer answers critics of fluoridation

Fluoridation is the "safest and most economical" method of preventing tooth decay, Dr. I. D. Litwack, city health officer, said Friday in giving his "unqualified recommendation" that fluoridation of Long Beach water supplies be continued.

Litwack's recommendations are contained in a nine-page summary of a half-inch thick report, which will be submitted to the City Council on Tuesday.

The report had been ordered by councilmen in September after they had received a letter from Mrs. Nelia M. Dosser, 5461 Orange Ave., and Mrs. Bernice Thompson, 3615 Elm Ave., submitting material in opposition to fluoridation.

Litwack said his staff "reviewed the material thoroughly," but said it contained "nothing new to substantiate the claim that fluoridation is detrimental to health."

"Through the years, public health officials and environmentalists have accepted fluoridation as a means for the prevention of dental disease," Litwack said. "No one can realistically deny the money savings accomplished and suffering avoided through this preventative approach."

"Fluoridation is perhaps the most thoroughly researched and documented public health measure in history," the city health officer said. "Test after test, study after study, have shown conclusively the safety and effectiveness of water fluoridation."

Since Long Beach began fluoridating its water supply on June 22, 1971, Litwack said, the Health Department has had "absolutely no indication or reports of any adverse effect on the morbidity or mortality of the citizens in the community which could be attributed to the addition of fluoride ions."

Litwack said the subject has been "thoroughly researched" both nationally and locally since 1957, with many reports substantiating the value of fluoridation.

"Therefore, we feel that further investigation in the evaluation of fluoridation would be repetitious and serve no useful purpose," he asserted.

UAW strike vote due at Robertshaw Controls

A strike vote will be taken Sunday by the 1,384 members of Local 805, UAW, employed by the Robertshaw Controls Co., 100 Victory Way.

Balloting will begin at 2 p.m. at UAW Local 148 Union Hall, 3971 Pixie Ave., Lakewood.

The vote will be on whether to accept or reject the company's final offer, according to George Ramirez, president of Local 805. The union is seeking an 8 per cent wage increase and a 3 per cent overage on increases tied to the cost of living, retroactive to Sept. 11.

ILWU DIFFERENCES RESOLVED

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Maritime Editor

Differences over the registration of terminal warehousemen and the payment of a per capita tax have been resolved by Local 13 and Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

Curt Johnston, president of the local, which is headquartered in Wilmington, said Friday his executive board Thursday night acted to rescind its previous decision to withhold a payment of $5,000 to the international. The money involved is the per capita tax of $1.75 the local pays each month to the international headquarters in San Francisco.

Johnston termed the international-local squabble "old hat."

"I talked with Bridges and explained the position to the board. The board then elected to rescind its former action to withhold the payment of the per capita tax."

He said the local had not suspended payment of dues as had been reported.

"The suspension of the payment of the tax had nothing whatsoever to do with any issue regarding a merger with the East Coast International Longshoremen's Association or the Teamsters," Johnston said.

He declined to discuss the details of the agreement betwee the International and the local over the registering of Class B terminal warehousemen.

"I told the executive board of my conversation with Bridges. They thought Bridges' explanation was proper and decided to forward the tax money we had withheld," Johnston said.

11 jurors give guilty verdict

By VINT MADER
Staff Writer

Eleven jurors were in a Long Beach Superior Court jury box Friday, but the 12th was in a hospital coronary-care unit when a second-degree murder conviction was returned at a hearing that is believed to set a courtroom precedent.

In St. Mary's Hospital at the time was Mrs. Myrtle D. Marshburn, 62, who suffered a heart attack Thursday afternoon as the panel completed its second day of deliberations.

Jury foreman Alex C. Patterson told Judge John A. Arguelles that Mrs. Marshburn "participated in a secret ballot" before she was stricken as testimony was read to the 12 who heard the trial of Billy Ray Steward, 20.

"I COLLECTED 11 written ballots" that included Mrs. Marshburn's vote for conviction "and after the rereading of the testimony I had one verbal," the foreman said.

Patterson handed in verdict forms signed by him and dated Thursday that convicted Steward, of Los Angeles, of killing Willie B. Roberson, 23, of 2075 Lemon Ave., and found he used a firearm in committing the May 30 crime, a ruling that can add another five consecutive years in state prison to a sentence of five years to life for the murder.

Expert gets lesson in U.S., China differences

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

Louis A. Greenbaum, a Hughes Aircraft engineer who helped set up the communications system for President Nixon's historic China visit, got a lesson in the difference between the U. S. and the People's Republic in a conversation with a Chinese worker.

"If anyone in your society can say whatever he wants, how do you know what is true?" the worker asked Greenbaum as they watched American newsmen sending differing dispatches home.

"HOW DO you know the one voice you hear is true?" countered Greenbaum, citing the ever-present information apparatus of Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

"But the voice we hear IS true," the worker replied.

Greenbaum, who spoke to Long Beach State University engineering students Friday, said the people's faith in the words of Mao has been the major factor in the transformation of Chinese society.

Greenbaum came away with complete admiration for the technical aspects of that transformation, he said.

"The Chinese are technically our equals," he said flatly. "They are thoroughly competent in all our technical disciplines—even satellite technology."

LOUIS A. GREENBAUM
'Voice Is True'

"But they don't yet have the hardware to put much of their knowledge into practice."

Greenbaum termed the Chinese "the most organized people in the world."

"Don't ask them to do anything unless you really want it done," he said.

Greenbaum said that a diagram of the communications facilities that the U.S. entourage needed had been transmitted to the Chinese before the Americans arrived.

They followed it to the letter, even though carrying it out required tunneling under a road and placing some diesel engines on the other side of the road, he said.

He called his five-week stay in the People's Republic "like a high school trip to Washington. The Chinese were our teachers. Every moment was planned.

"The Chinese were probably the most gracious hosts that I've ever been with," he said.

When the American entourage would travel, Chinese women held their small children out in front of them so they could see the Americans, he said.

"AS I'VE traveled throughout the world I've learned that that's a good sign," he said. "If they snatch the kids away, you know you're in trouble."

A major problem was disposing of rubbish when the Americans had the communications unit taken down and prepared to depart, he said.

"We had a hard time convincing the Chinese that we really wanted to throw a lot of our stuff away," he said. "They save everything. I had to go through the trash ceremoniously half a dozen times before they were convinced I wanted to leave it behind."

IMMUNIZATION CLINICS SET

The Bellflower Health District has scheduled evening family immunization clinics next week in Cerritos and in February in Hawaiian Gardens.

The announcement was accompanied by a detailed explanation of immunizations available and those required for children who will be entering school.

Next week's clinic will be Thursday at Cabrillo Lane School, 20122 Cabrillo Lane, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

THE CLINIC in Hawaiian Gardens will be Feb. 22.

Health District officials said a 1972 California school admission law mandates that children entering any school, public or private, must be immunized against diptheria, tetanus, whooping cough, polio and measles.

Immunizations for diptheria, tetanus and whooping cough, called DTP immunizations, will be available at the clinics for children over two months of age.

The beginning series consists of three injections given one month apart. A first booster is given a year later and a second booster at about age five.

The polio series begins with two doses of oral vaccine given two months apart. A third dose is given eight to 12 months later, and a final dose at the time of entering school.

One injection of 10-day measles vaccine provides life-time protection and is given from age one to 18.

The Los Angeles County Department of Health Services, which operates the clinics through its health districts, offers a combined vaccine for both the ten-day measles and rubella, or three-day measles. The rubella protection is not required for school admission but is advised for children from age one to puberty as a way of protecting pregnant women from the disease, Dr. Earl Kendrick, district health officer, said.

THE CLINICS will also offer adult immunizations for diptheria and tetanus for adults. Persons under 18 must be accompanied by a parent or guardian to receive immunization. And parents are advised to bring immunization records to better determine their children's needs.

Club Mariner gets 6 p.m. closing order

The enlisted Men's Club Mariner at Long Beach Naval Station, where black sailors battled white seamen in a series of fights late Thursday night, will close at 6 p.m. each day for at least a week, the station commander announced Friday.

"Tensions and disorderly conduct in the club have prompted my closure decision," said Capt. Donald A. Smith. The club's new hours are effective immediately, he said.

Smith said a full investigation of the incident at the club already was underway. The series of fistfights inside the club Thursday night resulted in minor injuries to two enlisted men, but no arrests were made by shore patrolmen who ended the confrontation.

CAPT. D. A. SMITH
Brawling Probed

Smith said five other sailors were injured during a pushing-shoving match outside after Club Mariner manager Bill Casey closed "just a few minutes early" at 11:30 p.m.

The injured, most of whom suffered cuts and abrasions, were treated on the hospital auxiliary Repose and released, another Navy spokesman reported.

Despite the week-long closure order, Smith again said the fights were more the result of high spirits on payday rather than racial tensions.

Thursday night, the station commander said that "in my evaluation, it was payday night. It's the kind of fracas you have once in a while."

Rites set for crash victims

Services have been set for Monday for three elderly women who were killed in a collision with a Harbor Division police car in Wilmington Thursday.

The accident is under investigation by the Harbor Division's investigation unit, the police internal affairs division and the city attorney's office.

Police said it appeared that the vision of both drivers was obstructed by a parked truck at the intersection, Milmington Boulevard and Opp Street, when the accident occurred.

Services for Dena Davis, 74, of 1427 W. 254th St., Harbor City, and Faye Davis, 68, of 828 Hawaiian Ave., Wilmington, will be held at 2 p.m. by Ganby's Mortuary. Location of the services is still undertermined.

Services for the third woman, Jaennetta Pay, 74, of 828 Marine Ave., Wilmington, will be held at Wilmington Cemetary at the same time.

The two officers in the police car, Norman Honadle and Milliam Forman, were uninjured.

STEWARD GUILTY

men and five women in the jury box all concurred in the decision.

But the judge then noted that "it is necessary for the 12th juror to be polled" if the verdict is "to be final and to be recorded i nany degree of finality."

Timing of that final step will depend on when she is "physically able" to come to court with medical approval, he said, and left open the question of whether he will require the other jurors to return then. The hospital reported her in critical condition Friday.

Arguelles tentatively set Jan. 9 for the 11 to return and ordered them meanwhile "not to have any further contact with Mrs. Marshburn," whose personal accord with the verdict must be polled to avoid the case being declared a mistrial.

SCARLETT, the prosecutor, Dep. Dist. Atty. Allen D. Field, and other attorneys who observed the proceeding said it is unique in their knowledge of the jury system. "I've been practicing for 20 years, and it's the first time I've ever heard of just that exact situation," the defense lawyer commented.

Field said legal research showed "there was no precedent for this kind of development, but I think it's appropriate to the intent of the legislature" under terms of the California Penal Code.

"Please don't discuss this case with each other now," and please don't discuss this case with counsel or with any other persons." Arguelles told the panel as he allowed them to go home.

He said he will have the jury commissioner "declare the 11 of you unavailable for any other trial" pending the last step.

"I thank the jurors, I'll excuse them, and I hope you have a pleasant holiday season," he concluded.

As the panel left to collect their belongings from the jury room, bailiffs led away Steward, who has been held in county jail without bail since the shooting of Roberson in an argument over an 18-year-old woman in the 1000 block of Salt Lake St.

Teens to get trip to Lion Country

Because some Long Beach State University students cared, 25 youthful residents of a halfway house for troubled teen-agers will get a tour of Lion Country Safari in Orange County today.

The teen-agers have been placed at Trailback Lodge in Long Beach by their parents or juvenile authorities. Most haven't seen anything wilder than an angry house cat.

The students, volunteers in the college's Educational Participation in Communities program, spend three to seven hours a week working with the Trailback youths.

Bob Snyder, an EPIC volunteer coordinator, said the students take the teen-agers to places they ordinarily couldn't go—shows, the beach, a museum.

THEY ALSO DO some tutoring in reading, writing and basic crafts skills.

Perhaps most important, they serve as big brother or big sister to teen-agers who have few people to listen to their problems.

The EPIC students also get a chance to gain professional experience. Many are going into fields such as psychology and sociology.

EPIC is providing the bus for the excursion. Lion Country Safari has agreed to pay for the tickets, Snyder said.

Gardening

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

You can be sure that if the largest wholesale nursery grower, Monrovia Nursery Co., lists Saxifrage Bergenia cordifolia perennial plants in their wholesale catalog which mainly features shrubs, vines and trees, those plants must be exceptionally good ones for the shade garden. And, they really are. The water lily-like tough lobage in rosettes tolerate cold from five to ten below zero. The taller flower stalks furnish clusters of attractive pink flowers.

We've seen them growing in full sun in milder sunny areas, in dense shade and also sun and shade combination exposures. They're excellent edging plants for flower beds, in front of hardy shrubs, and in flower beds for seasonal color. They usually start flowering in December and continue through most of spring season.

Container grown plants as well as those from flats of pony packs, can be set out in the garden any time of the year, except in an exceptionally heavy rain spell or when the soil is saturated. Plants can be set out a few days later as the soil dries.

Gardener will always help plants get a better toehold by setting them out in prepared soil even if only with some organic material in the plant hole.

THE Choose and Cut Christmas Tree Plantation Guide for 1972 is available free from Christmas Tree Growers, 2655 Telegraph Ave., Berkeley 94705. The guide lists names, addresses of local growers, types and sizes of trees available, also prices of all growers who report their trees ready for harvest. Write quickly for the guide, then look up the nearest grower to you and choose the live Christmas tree to cut later this month and have it fresh for holiday season decoration.

Here's an inspirational thought we read somewhere . . . when at times you find gardening a heavy task just remember -- during the course of about 23,000 times we inhale and exhale every day we take in about 35 pounds of oxygen which we get all from green plants on land and vegetation in the sea. Your garden not only provides beauty, but better health.

DECEMBER gardening additionally means the dormant deciduous fruit trees must be sprayed right away, harvesting camellia flowers, feeding azaleas and annuals that were set out several months earlier, preparing plant holes for bare root roses, fruit trees, and deciduous fruit trees to be planted out later.

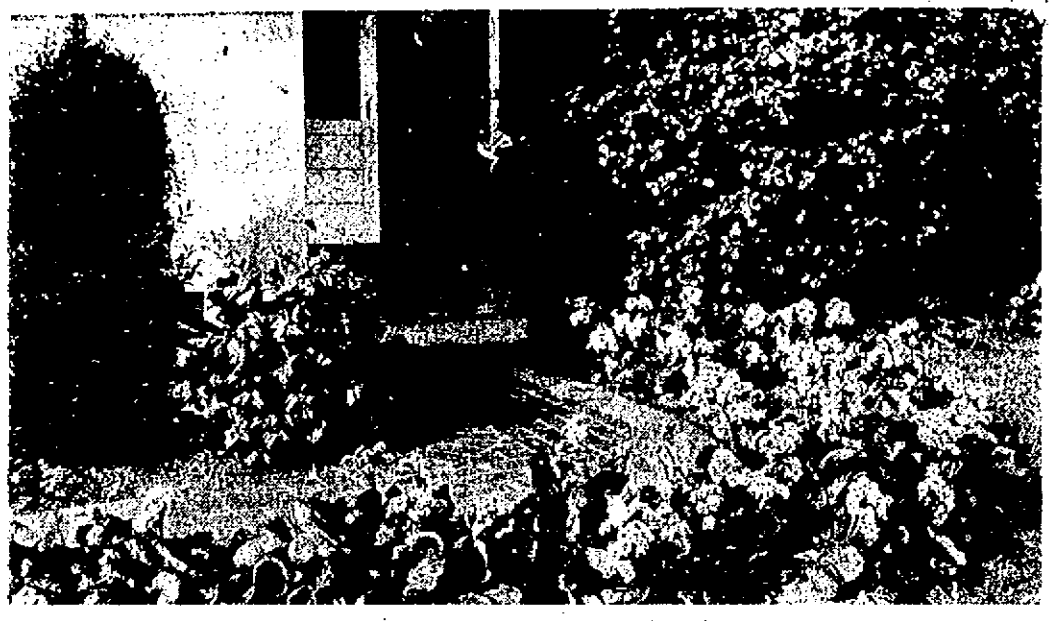

Spray the deciduous fruit trees with a "dormant clean up spray" which is the handiest way to do it because it contains insecticide and fungicide sprays combined together in right proportions in one container.

This saves you the bother of having to use the separate sprays. The insecticide spray controls the over-wintering pests, the fungicide spray for peach blight or also called shot-hole disease. The twigs have small brownish spots that develop into sunken areas called cankers, and as they spread the twigs or fruiting wood dies. This disease also causes leaves of peach and nectarine generally to have round spots of dead tissue which drop out and look as though someone shot the tree with buckshot. Spraying now is the most important for effective control.

Spray for aphids which may be found on new developing stocks foliage, also cinerarias, pansies, violas, and possibly other plants too.

Scatter the snail-slug bait periodically to control those damaging pests. The bait that has a magnet-like attractant as though perhaps of Chanel No. 5 perfume that entices those pests, does the best killing job. As the snails and slugs crawl over it, or eat it, the material paralyzes them, slowly dehydrates them, then disintegrates them. That's why you'll rarely find the slugs, and only the empty snail shells.

CAMELLIA flowers should be cut with a leaf or two remaining on the stem. Look for a slight knuckle-like swelling below the blossom on the stem. Count up two leaves above the swelling and you've generally cut the flower with some stem, yet cut it properly.

Q. Enclosed leaf of tree grew voluntarily off our old apricot tree. We'd like to save it. Why are the leaves burned and what is the remedy? Azaleas and fuchsias grow in same area. Could it be too much acid fertilizer? Mrs. Joseph Kenway, 3634 E. 6th Street.

A. — The burned symptoms of the apricot leaf indicate a salt alkali burn rather than an acid fertilizer burn. The several top inches of the soil kept constantly moist is the cause. The tree if mature — say around a 5-inch diameter tree trunk — should be watered four to five feet deep.

Q. — Enclosed is leaf from my rubber plant in a 16-inch redwood tub. Plant is 36 inches tall. All lower leaves have fallen off leaving an empty stem. Top still is getting new leaves. Is there anything I can do so as not to lose this plant. Also is there any way one can successfully grow a rubber plant from a cutting? J. Novak, 1200 Ocean Blvd.

A. — Yes, assuming the container plant is protected from the ocean winds, grown in sun (you didn't say whether it is growing indoors or outdoors). Don't keep the soil constantly wet. The bottom of the tub if sitting in a large saucer or on top or hard ground should not be constantly standing in water. Let the soil dry in the tub and water it again. If soil is loose, finger firm it and add more to level of the root ball. Water must not gush through the soil as soon as it's applied. Water should take several minutes before it disappears. Yes, you can air layer it. Cut through the bark in a circle about 10 inches down from the tip of the branch. Moisten enough sphagnum moss to cover the cut portion of the branch forming the diameter size of salami about three to four inches long. Cover it with strong colorless plastic and tie it firmly at each end. Cut the rooted branch off. Carefully remove the moss without tearing off any roots. Plant it in a potting soil organic mix.

Not enough hedging in garden of Worts

NORWICH, England (AP) — Walter Worts was fined 50 pounds — $120 — Friday for having sexual intercourse with his wife in their yard.

Only a row of flowers separated the loving pair from the garden next door, and the neighbor's two young children saw them. They told their mother, who telephoned the police.

"I love my wife and I cannot see why we should not show some affection to each other," said Worts, 39. "The children may have seen us, but it was not intentional."

Prosecutor John Bates argued that an Englishman may do what he likes in his castle, but it shouldn't be necessary for his neighbor to put up a fence to avoid seeing him do it.

The magistrates convicted Worts of indecent exposure. His 33-year-old wife was acquitted — on condition she doesn't do it again — on a charge of aiding and abetting her husband.

Briefly . . .

RELIGION

'Tis the first Sunday in Advent, which embraces the four Sundays preceding Christmas. The word "advent" means an important arrival, which definition in this case might be called the understatement of the centuries.

Since Christmas is associated in the mind with year's end, Rev. Ray Wirth of Grace Methodist makes this point: "This is actually the first Sunday in the Christian year. The Christian year is designed as a whole to dramatize God's initiative and man's response with the dominant theme of the first half year being that of divine activity followed by an emphasis upon human response in the second half. The year begins with a season called Advent because it is a time set aside for preparation looking toward the coming of God to earth in the birth of Jesus."

The Advent season's deepest meaning is, hopefully, a season of spiritual preparation for better personal appreciation of the great day. In this sense, those who say "Keep Christ in Christmas" have a point. When that slogan is used to blast the custom of exchanging and just giving gifts, it seems like an oversimplification. While obviously, there is a lot of commercialism and bad taste in Christmas merchandising, when after all does imperfect man do anything perfectly that one can notice? There is absolutely nothing alien to the spirit of Christmas in buying and giving gifts, and being a little nicer to one's family, friends and neighbors. We have observed that some of those who agree most heartily with the periodic charge that the whole thing is a pagan disgrace, haven't been near a church in years.

TWO AREA pastors just back from some of the lands of the Bible will be reporting on what they saw. Rev. Virgil Bjerke of Our Saviour's Lutheran was in Cyprus, Turkey, Lebanon, Syria and Israel and will incorporate his impressions into his sermons during December. Each week a different display of artifacts will focus on one particular city or sacred place.

Rev. V. William Durbin of Glad Tidings Assembly of North Long Beach covered some of the same ground with Mrs. Durbin and four members of the congregation. He notes "After preaching the events that occurred in the Bible lands for more than 30 years, it was a real inspiration to walk where history was made."

THREE DAYS of public hearings on the ethics of mood-altering drug advertising practices, sponsored in Washington D.C. by the National Council of Churches, have triggered a "deluge of calls" for more information.

Cynthia Wedel, president of the NCC, said the proceedings demonstrated that "the facts surfacing here should become more widely known by the general public. Individuals and groups such as the local churches must be informed in such a way that effective action concerning the production of mood-altering drugs can be taken."

The panel heard 20 hours of testimony from all sides, including top people in advertising and the drug industry, government people, the A.M.A., Nader's Health Research Group, and the academic community which has done research in this field.

Says Rev. Thomas E. Price, chairman of the NCC's Committee on Alcohol Problems and Drug Abuse: "First, the religious community has raised the issue of the social responsibility of the drug industry in regard to its promotional efforts. Second, we have begun a dialogue with the drug and medical community on how the issues may be confronted directly."

"MOM AND DAD we love you, please understand us" is the theme of the teen-agers of Holy Family Catholic Church of Artesia as they serve an Italian dinner tonight at 6 in the church, 18708 Clarkdale Ave., with donation of $1 for adults, 75 cents for those 13 and under. Proceeds will benefit the Indian and Mexican missions.

WHILE 3,000 persons listened outside to dedication ceremonies for the new Melodyland Drug Prevention Center and Hotline, inside a Hotline worker was fielding a call from a youngster who began "I'm going to kill myself." He talked the caller out of it.

IS THE CHURCH dying in the Scandinavian countries? Not so you can notice by the membership statistics just compiled by the World Lutheran Federation.

The Church of Sweden gained three quarters of a million so far this year over 1971, with a current membership of 7,776,000. In Denmark the figures for the Evangelical Lutheran Church show a 200,000 gain this year to 4,700,000. Finland gained 9,000 to 4,659,662 and the Church of Norway reports 3,800,000 current members, some 350,000 more than in 1971.

PHILIPPINE MISSION HEAD

Rev. Leslie Hill, a leading Southern Baptist missionary to the Philippines, will speak Sunday, 7 p.m. in Truett Memorial Baptist Church, 3435 San Anselmo Ave. He is here with Mrs. Hill on furlough from Davao, Mindanao, where he is academic dean in Baptist Bible School, and has been chairman of the Philippine Baptist Mission.

Mormon woman leader says lib helped, but has many dangers

(Associated Press)

The leader of Mormon women, whose pioneer forebears threw themselves wholeheartedly into the struggle that early in this century won women the right to vote, says the modern extension of that movement sometimes goes too far.

"Anything that gets out of control becomes a hazard, whether it's fire, flood or women's lib," says Belle S. Spafford, president of the world-wide women's auxiliary of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

"But if properly controlled, these things mean power for us. We've reached the point in women's liberation where we need to look at ourselves objectively and see what we can do that's reasonable. We need a steadying hand."

Asked if it wasn't somewhat paradoxical for the leader of a heritage that took such a vigorous part in the women's suffrage movement to have misgivings about its present-day counterpart, she said in an interview:

"Any good movement can become distorted. You can abuse any privilege and freedom can become license. That's not good."

Mrs. Spafford, a warmly good-humored, silver-haired woman of 77, said she sees dangers in some aspects of women's lib, such as tendencies in it to blur sexual identity and reject distinctive endowments of women and men.

"We want to preserve the nobility, dignity and femininity of women," she said. "There's a danger of some of that being lost. But I think we have too many common-sense women for that to happen."

The 450,000-member body of church women that Mrs. Spafford has headed for 27 years is formally titled the Relief Societies of the Church. It carries on extensive education programs in home-management, child-rearing and cultural development, as well as large-scale service in nursing care and home teaching visits.

It has taken a "long pull" for women to gain their just status, Mrs. Spafford said, adding that much of the continued effort for women's rights is good, including the insistence on equal pay for equal work.

She said women also should have equal opportunities for top positions in government, industry and education if they are qualified and they're free from other responsibilities.

"But the primary role of women is in the home and family," she added.

Church study sees TV discrimination

Seventy-seven per cent of commercial television stations are "pure white" in managerial positions, according to a study released by the Office of Communications of the two - million - member United Church of Christ.

Fifty per cent employ no racial minorities — defeined as Black, Oriental, Spanish-surnamed or American Indian — in professional capacities, 55 per cent do not employ minorities as technicians and 81 per cent hire only whites as sales personnel. Thirty-four per cent — one in three — employ only whites in any of these four capacities, the study revealed.

The New Hope Baptist story

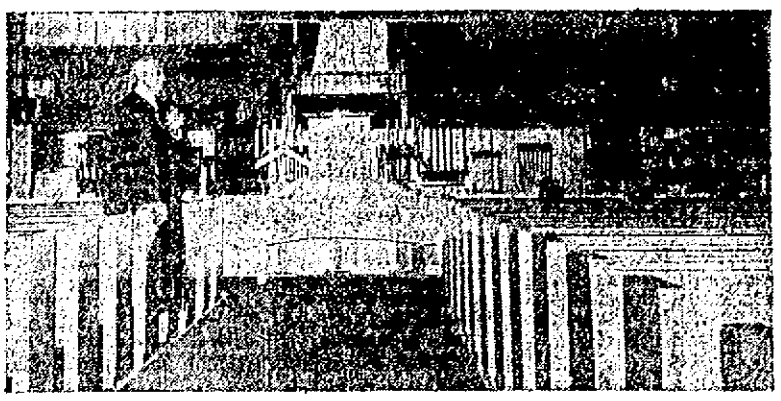

Handsome new church, sensational old music

By LES RODNEY

New Hope Baptist's music sounds just as good in the handsome new church at New York and Alamitos as it did for so many years in the outdated old structure at 10th and California.

But instead of standing along the sides, as some latecomers did in the small, turn-of-the-century building, worshipers and visitors can now find seats in the new sanctuary.

For the time being, anyhow! Attendance is up since the move, reports the pastor, Rev. Nathaniel J. Kirkpatrick, and new folks are joining the congregation each week.

PASTOR N. K. KIRKPATRICK IN NEW SANCTUARY

A VISIT TO the recently completed facility this week showed a 520-seat sanctuary which combines unostentatious dignity with the warmth of high wooden cathedral ceiling and birch paneling over the pulpit and choir area. A large hand-made wooden cross completes the natural look. Cheerful modern classrooms and working space for the pastor and his staff are among other welcome changes wrought by the $450,000 building, a triumph of determination and planning by the downtown congregation and its leadership.

"How do our people feel about the new church? They're just bubbling over," said Rev. Kirkpatrick.

The move puts the church next door to New Hope Home, a high-rise, low-rent project sponsored by the church. Both, incidentally, are integrated. While the church congregation is predominately black, there is more than a "token white" membership. And, notes the pastor, white Christians are to be found alongside their fellow Christians of darker skin color on the boards of deacons and deaconesses.

Kirkpatrick doesn't make too much of this, mostly because it is the way he has always felt things should be.

"I am a minister of all the people," he says. "I would just call myself a baptized Christian. I love people because I love the Lord. And not just one kind of people."

THE TALL, 64-year-old Texan has made his presence felt in Long Beach since starting the New Hope church in 1943. While understanding of the wrongs that have bred anger, he sees his calling as one of reconciliation, love and hope.

"I preach the gospel," he says, "and our church seeks to help all people. The elderly to live out their years in some comfort and dignity—that's why we worked so hard to make the Home a reality. And to try to help the young to come up the right way."

The church's Leanna Foundation, named for Mrs. Kirkpatrick, is designed to help youngsters into and through college. It is part of the church's influence in the community of which the pastor and his assistant, Rev. D. Richard, are proud.

Rev. Kirkpatrick is also known for his golden voice. His "Sermon in Song," along with samples of New Hope's excellent soloists and choirs, have been captured in a new recording.

"WE'RE A singing church," says the pastor with a smile. You'd better believe it. There's a senior choir of some 75 voices, and even larger childrens' and young adults groups.

By all accounts of those who have attended, both at the old location and the new, New Hope Baptist is a church where one can get a lift. Which surely can't be the worst thing one can say about a House of God.

"When I come out of of my study at 11 a.m. on Sunday and walk up to the pulpit," said the pastor, "it would be a sad day in Zion if I didn't see before me a well-filled sanctuary, with a beautiful bouquet of black and white ..."

Local Adventists join world drive

Area Seventh-day Adventists today began participation in the denomination's 69th World Service Appeal, which has a goal of $11 million for many educational and humanitarian projects, says Pastor Frank Vessels.

Young people will join adults in door-to-door contacts, with Christmas caroling, in the next three weeks, distributing 10,000 copies of These Times, which explains the appeal. The 2.1-million-member denomination is said to maintain the largest foreign mission program of any Protestant church, as well as the largest worldwide school system.

National Council weighs its future

DALLAS, Texas — What lies ahead for America's churches? Can they find ways to heal the spiritual wounds of troubled people in a deeply troubled time? Should they call a halt to construction of new buildings — and throw their resources behind efforts to help the poor and the powerless? Should they bring their moral weight to bear on such social issues as abuse of the environment, the Vietnam war, racial injustice — or leave it up to others?

Questions and issues like these, as well as evangelism and renewal, and election of a new president, will be raised and dealt with at the ninth triennial General Assembly of the National Council of Churches, at the Fairmont Hotel here, Sunday through Thursday.

Some 800 voting representatives of the 33 Protestant, Orthodox and Anglican denominations in the Council will join with several hundred fraternal delegates, consultants, observers and visitors for the five-day sessions.

ON CREATION

Dr. Henry M. Morris, director and president of the Institute for Creation Research, based in San Diego, will speak Sunday at the 10:45 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. services in Bethany Baptist Church, 2250 Clark Ave.

Largest Christian book store

New Lighthouse shop on Spring

A new Lighthouse Christian bookstore, opened this week in Long Beach. Largest of its kind in Southern California, it is located at the corner of Spring Street and Bellflower Boulevard and will carry the same lines of books, Bibles, music, gifts and cards as the present store at 1001 Pine Avenue. Both stores are open now but in January the Pine store will be razed to make room for a new senior citizens retirement apartment building.

The Lightouse store has been in Long Beach for 26 years, begun by the late Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McCall. Their daughter, Ruth, is presently a student at Long Beach State Univeristy.

Bruce Bartel is now the general manager of the Long Beach stores and the other two stores in the chain, one in Glendale and the other in Covina. Over the years, the Lighthouse store in Long Beach has grown to its present 5000 square foot size, so the new store, with 7440 square feet, will be half again as large.

The present store staff includes 16 men and women.

Black churchman ask King holiday

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Committee of Black Churchmen has declared Jan. 15, the birthday of Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., a religious holiday.

"It is a holy day," said Rev. Ralph Abernathy, who succeeded King as pesident of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Peale hits apathy, defends U.S. system

EDITOR'S NOTE: Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale wrote his last "Confident Living" column last week. In this interview, he sums up his feelings about the way things are.

NORMAN V. PEALE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, one of America's most influential Protestant ministers and authors, sees a new spiritual vitality expressing itself as a challenge to the apathy and depression abroad in the land.

"The greatest psychosis of our time is the feeling of meaninglessness in life," said Peale, who recently observed his 40th anniversary as the pastor of New York's Marble collegiate Church. "But I know a lot of young people who think life is terrific."

Peale indicated in an interview that morally and spiritually America may have "hit bottom" and a regenerative process set in.

Voicing irritation over a new coarseness in the manners, speech and dress of younger Americans, Peale, 74, an intimate of several presidents, said there are even some manifestations of the "Back to Jesus" movement that were not to his liking.

"THERE MAY be some things about the Jesus Freaks I don't like to see but any move in that direction—in the direction of Christ—is wholesome," he said. "My magazine Guideposts did a study on the Jesus Movement and found the central core had validity and is creative. and aside from this movement, I find a new interest in Christ in all kinds of people, with Bible study groups springing up like flowers in May."

Parallel to this is a sweeping interest in the occult, even witchcraft and a belief in demonic possession, Peale said disapprovingly. He blamed this on the failure of the "modern" church to deal with the "mystical element" in man.

"The church has been too preoccupied with social action to balance it with the mystical element in religion," he said. "The human animal wants to find peace in himself. The churches don't need ecumenicalism as much as they need a greater infusion of spiritual life. If people don't find this in the church, they'll look for it elsewhere."

Peale spoke with stinging scorn of "a certain class of intellectuals, often teachers" who sour the natural idealism of youth by taking a negative attitude toward the whole American system.

"There are teachers who say everyone in business and in science is bad. But it is business, advertising and salesmanship that has produced the greatest number of goods at the lowest prices. I believe that if business is honest and it gives good decent products, it is a success. The phonies and dishonest people fail.

"THIS DEGRADING of the American businessman and suspicion of everyone who is trying to make a living is one of the most serious things we face today. Wouldn't it be great if we were all artists and writers? You can bet we'd soon miss all the conveniences that the business man provides."

Peale said he preferred not to discuss the theological controversies of the day, such as those that are sweeping the Roman Catholic world, because "I'm not too conversant with the religious field any more—I lead a strange life."

"The church isn't my main business now," he said, somewhat wistfully. "I go to preach at Marble Collegiate only once a week and I have almost nothing to do with the administration of the church, but I don't plan to retire. The rest of the time I spend addressing conventions, big gatherings of sales personnel, and community groups. My theme is 'you can if you think you can'."

FROM THE PULPIT

Dr. Frank Collins

So many of my friends have commented on my article of a few years ago on the Significance of the Christmas tree and have asked for copies that I have decided to print it again.

Many people criticize the commercialization of Christmas and others (usually religious groups) believe that we should have no Christmas at all. Personally I deplore the commercialization of Christmas, but love the season of emphasis on the Birth of Christ, and some of my fondest memories center around the fellowship of friends and family at Christmas time.

Here is the oft-asked-for article:

THE SYMBOL OF THE CHRISTMAS TREE

Though the origin of the Christmas tree is shrouded in obscurity, there is a certain symbolism in it which gives it a definite place in the Christian home, and in the festivities of the Christian Church. At every Christmas time the Christmas tree beautifully symbolizes Jesus Christ our Lord and Saviour in five respects.

1. It points upward and because God gave John 3:16, the first Christmas gift we ever had was hung on a tree, Cross of Calvary 1 Peter 2:24, who His own self bare our sins in His own body on the tree.

2. It is evergreen, reminding us of Everlasting Life, and this is the message Christ came to bring to a dying world. The message of Life Eternal to all who believe in Him, John 17:3.

3. It gives forth light. Jesus said, I am the light of the world.

DECORATIONS

The colored lights on the tree symbolizes most beautifully the Lord Jesus Christ who is the Light of the world. The star at the apex reminds of the Star of Bethlehem. The red holly berries speak of His blood that was shed for us. The white decorations speak of His purity and sinlessness. Blue speaks of His Heavenly origin. Green speaks of Everlasting life. Gold of His absolute Diety. The purple speaks of His Royalty. So as you sit this Christmas season in the warm glow of the Christmas tree in your home, think of these things.

Next it satisfies and cheers, How often do we turn out all the lights and just sit with the tree lights? How cheerful and comforting! Reminding us again of the one who is Altogether Lovely, the Rose of Sharon, the Lily of the Valley and the Bright and Morning Star.

Lastly, it was cut down for us. It was not left to grow into ever increasing heights, that it might become one of the spires in the forest, but early it was made a sacrifice for us that it might minister to our happiness. Our Lord was sacrificed for us at the age of 33.

Thus a Christmas tree can be more than an ornament in our homes. Like Him it points upward, assures us of Life everlasting. It gives forth a message of light, it satisfies and cheers and it was cut down for us. Each year as we give it place in our homes we refresh our memories of its symbolism and Christmas takes on added joy. The mute witness from the forest reminds us "That unto you is born this day in the City of David a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord."

Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

GOINGS ON

Robert Hale and Dean Wilder, famed opera stars, return to Long Beach for one of their popular dual concerts Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. in North Long Beach Brethren Church, 6095 Orange Ave.

A Christmas organ recital will be presented Sunday, 8 p.m. in First Church of the Brethren, 3332 Magnolia Ave., by Lydia Sabacka, on the Allen Digital Computerized Electric organ, including some old Czech Christmas numbers. Guest tenor soloist will be Guy Glimpse of Pacific Christian College.

Al Hopson will tell how he "was delivered from a life of drugs and desperation to a new life of joy and meaning, through the revolutionary power of Christ," when he speaks Sunday, 2:30 p.m. in the Living Word Mission, 1473 Atlantic Ave.

Rev. Don Driscoll, retired Navy chaplain and campus minister at Long Beach State, will be guest speaker Sunday, 10:30 a.m. in Westminster Community Presbyterian, 2474 Pacific Ave. ... Missionaries and evangelists will take part in "Adventures in Missions" Sunday through Thursday at Glad Tidings Assembly, 1900 E. South St. ... Mrs. Camille Svensson will speak on "The Crest Jewel of Wisdom" Sunday, 3 p.m. at Theosophical Society, at YWCA, Sixth and Pacific.

Harbor Baptist Church, 2300 W. Wardlow Road, will hold its annual observance of God and Country Day Sunday, 11 a.m., with a color guard and special recognition for Gold Star Mothers and dads, many of whom are members of the church ... The Christian Drama League of America will present "No Greater Love," a comedy-drama by John French, Sunday, 6 p.m. in the Salvation Army, 455 E. Spring St., with the public invited.

Bahaii human rights awards

The Bahaii Spiritual Assembly of Carson will present its second annual Human Rights Award program Sunday, 2 p.m. in the new county regional library on Carson Street near Main Street.

A spokesman explained that Bahai celebrates the United Nations holiday, Human Rights Day, to help bring to public attention laws brought to the world by the founder of the Bahaii faith, laws calling for the elimination of all prejudice, racial and economic, and for complete equality of men and women.

Awards will be made Sunday in the Carson event to the man and woman of the year, senior citizen and youth of the year. There will be a U.N. speaker.

LIBERATION

Scientific Christianity as a vital force in the liberation of men and nations will be the theme of a Christian Science lecture next Saturday, Dec. 9, by Howar H. Irwin, who served with U.S. Military Intelligence during World War II. He will speak at 3 p.m. in Sixth Church of Christ, Scientist, at Studebaker and Wardlow.

Why sickness? John 11:3 days, "Lord, behold, he whom you love is sick." Two women said this about their brother. Their faith was child-like. They went to Jesus as a child goes to its mother. Notes "He whom you love." It was not, "he who loves you". Our love to Christ is unsatisfying. His love to us is peace. So, sickness is a blessing. "All things work together for good, to them who are the called according to His purpose." Romans 8:28. "All things are yours; life, or death, or things present, or things to come; and ye are Christ's; and Christ is God's". I Cor. 3:22,23. Do you belong to Christ? Then illness is blessing.

Christian Science

Can a child prove God's care for himself?

Yes, if he's learned that God, divine Love, is present to help him in everything he does.

Christian Science teaches children how to pray effectively for themselves, their families, and the world. This is why there are already three and four generations of Christian Scientists who have grown up relying fully on scientific prayer for healing.

Your children will be warmly received in our Sunday School. Bring them this week.

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Financial Editor

The nation's energy "honeymoon" is over, an international investment banker says, and "prices are going to have to rise to reflect the real costs of energy supply and delivery."

In an article in American Petroleum Institute's magazine, Petroleum Today, Edwin L. Kennedy, managing director of Lehman Brothers, Inc., outlines the ever-increasing demand for energy and the steps that should be taken to meet that demand.

According to Kennedy: "Mankind has consumed more energy in the past 30 years than in all history before 1940, and in the next 30 years, mankind will use far more than that."

With regard to energy, Kennedy says, the United States now has three courses open — it can do without energy, it can increase its dependence on Middle Eastern oil, or it can take steps to increase its domestic supply.

Though the nation "probably cannot avoid some increase in energy imports," Kennedy believes we must not become overly dependent on overseas sources. "The steady availability of foreign oil is open to question," he said.

The investment banker advocates pursuit of the third course of action. He thinks that maximum efforts should be made to increase domestic supplies.

Such a course of action, Kennedy says, will be costly. He cites estimates that the energy industries will require some $475 billion for domestic exploration and research, plus another $75 billion for working capital and debt amortization over the next 14 years.

"These estimates," says Kennedy, "may be too low ... I feel strongly that another $50 billion should be spent" on domestic oil and gas exploration and development.

To generate such enormous sums, Kennedy asserts, there "must be an immediate, graduated price increase" for oil and gas — "an increase that is still less than I believe we are going to have to pay abroad for insecure sources."

At present, petroleum (oil and natural gas) accounts for 77 per cent of our total energy consumption.

Coal accounts for 19 per cent, and hydropower for less than four per cent.

Nuclear power, already commercially feasible, is expected to grow from its present share of less than half of one per cent to more than 17 per cent in 1985, Kennedy believes.

"The greatest portion by far of our energy supply now and through the end of the century is expected to be provided by petroleum," he adds.

Then, this point: "Yet exploration for new oil and natural gas fields in the U.S. has declined sharply. Some of the slowdown is a result of restrictive environmental regulations; some is because the U.S. has discouraged exploration by unrealistic and uncoordinated policies affecting energy supply."

Reviewing other sources of energy, Kennedy noted:

"We have not yet developed the technology to harness on a large scale such plentiful energy resources as solar energy and ocean power. Nor is it likely that we can before the year 2000.

"Serious exploration for geothermal steam resources began only recently. Natural steam fields of commercial size seem to be limited to the western third of the U.S. Even if large fields are discovered today, development probably will take a decade or more.

"We have almost run out of available dam sites for hydroelectric generation. The few new sites that have been proposed are under attack for environmental reasons.

"Construction of nuclear power plants has been halted — again for environmental reasons — and nuclear power, once regarded as a clean and economical source, is not expected to provide a large share of the energy supply before 1985.

"Our ability to use coal, a plentiful fossil fuel, has been reduced by environmental controls. Even so, coal will remain an important energy source, accounting for about 17 per cent of our energy supply by 1985."

Carl E. Bagge, president of the National Coal Association, contributes an article to the magazine in which he says that "the most promising innovation for coal's future is converting it into gas. Four pilot plants are already under construction, and experts predict that gas will be produced commercially from coal by the 1980's."

Over the past 30 years, per capita use of energy has doubled, and as each individual strives to improve his living standard, energy consumption will continue to grow.

"Energy," Kennedy said, "will be needed to solve important social problems — to improve the living conditions of the underprivileged and to rebuild slum areas. Vast amounts of energy will be needed to clean up our environment and keep it clean.

"By 1985, our total consumption of energy probably will be twice what it is today."

Alcoholics

Many companies are working to rehabilitate alcoholics on their payroll instead of firing them.

A generation ago it was typical company practice to call the employe into the boss's office and hand him his final check — probably with predictable results as to how it would be spent. After all, he had just been fired.

Managers knew alcoholics were substandard employes who cost their employers, in aggregate, between $8 and $10 billion annually in absenteeism, botched work and related costs.

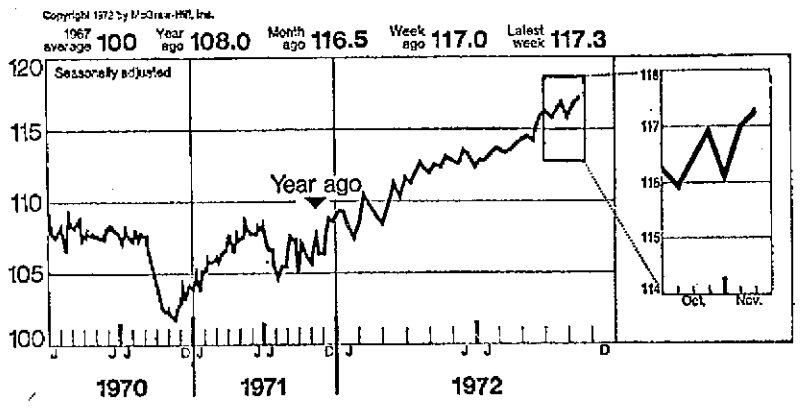

Now, according to Business Week magazine, "many companies have adopted a different approach to alcoholism — one based on an old awareness of their enormous stake in the problem and new knowledge of their special ability to tackle it successfully."

At United Air Lines, Inc., Dr. George Kidera, the medical director, points up the major cudgel employers can use to deal with alcoholics. "Job security," he says, "is the alcoholic's overriding concern. The alcoholic's health or his wife and children are secondary."

A few companies have used this knowledge for decades to help rehabilitate problem drinkers. Du Pont and Eastman Kodak Co. are examples.

But more and more companies are trying to work with their chronic drinkers. New programs have been put into gear at the Los Angeles plant at Lever Bros., the Electric Boat Dv. of General Dynamics, Merrill Lynch, United California Bank, Fireman's Fund of America, American Motors and American Airlines.

Instead of firing the office drunk out of hand, the new approach is to steer the employe into treatment, while keeping him on the job, if possible, and offering psychological support. The employe is told that chronic alcoholism will not be tolerated indefinitely.

The index posted a small gain, following a large increase in the previous week. Auto and truck assemblies rose as Saturday overtime offset brief strikes against GM. Minor gains occurred in paper production, intercity truck shipments, and rail freight. Steel output held steady, while coal, lumber, electricity, paperboard, and crude oil refinery runs declined slightly.

INDUSTRY WEEK

High Steel Shipments Seen

Steel company forecasts hint that steel shipments form U.S mills in December will equal or perhaps exceed those of the second best December on record, Industry Week reported.

The only December that will have been better was that of 1959 when mills were trying to catch up with customers' needs shortly after a 116-day strike of steelworkers, the magazine for managers said.

Steel company marketmen are saying that U.S. mill shipments in December will be 7.7 million to 7.8 million net tons. Except for December 1959, the highest December shipments were those of 7.7 million tons in 1964 and 1969.

The strong December performance this year will occur despite seasonal depressants on demand for shipments of steel that month. Ironically, much of the slack will come from the current largest user of steel, the automobile industry, which is enjoying a business boom.

Under their contracts with the auto industry, the autoworkers are entitled to a yearend vacation. For it, General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. will be closed from Dec. 22 to Jan. 2 and Chrysler Corp. will be down from Dec. 22 to Jan. 3.

HOLIDAY CLOSINGS WILL EXTEND BEYOND THE AUTO INDUSTRY. The practice has been spreading and more steel consuming plants will be affected this year than in the past.

Also holding down December mill shipments of steel are some users' desires to have as little inventory as possible at the end of the year. Small inventories help reduce tax liabilities in states where yearend inventory taxes prevail. In some cases, users want inventories to be small for yearend balance sheet purposes.

Some of the seasonal slack will be offset in December if steel producers follow U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest steel producer, in price increases averaging 2.7 per cent and some consumers try to get deliveries made that month to beat the Jan. 1, 1973 effective date of the boosts on many of the products.

DECEMBER MILL shipments will be large enough that added to those of a near record October and a record November they will make a record fourth quarter of 23.9 million to 24.1 million net tons. Steel company analysts figure that 8.2 million net tons were shipped from U.S. mills in October.

The only other October that was bigger was the one in 1969 when 8.4 million tons were shipped. These analysts expect shipments this month (November) to be a record for the month — 8.1 million to 8.2 million net tons, the business magazine noted.

The momentum is expected to carry into the first quarter of 1973 because of strong sales of automobiles and some improvement in demand for capital equipment. Steel company market analysts look for U.S. mill shipments to continue to average at least 8 million net tons a month during the first three months.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Obtain your own hospital

By Dick WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Harper's magazine has an article on "chain hospitals," which are described as "the logical culmination of America's franchising boom."

According to Harper's, several nationwide motel chains are now involved in hospital management and you can acquire "your very own hospital franchise equipped with everything from 'sign to pills.'"

"No previous medical management experience is required," the magazine adds.

It quotes one hospital chain tycoon as saying the growth potential in this field is "even better than Kentucky fried chicken."

So now if you hear that Colonel Sanders has enrolled in medical school, you'll know the reason why.

"Hi, good neighbors. This is Ol' Doc Sanders inviting you to visit your nearby franchised hospital and try one of my Southern-style hernia operations. My special anesthetic recipe has a secret blend of 12 different chloroforms and ethers. It's pain killin' good, folks."

The celebrity tie-in would appear to be the most likely gimmick.

Joe Namath, the football star who has undergone several knee operations, would make an ideal "front" for an enterprise of this sort.

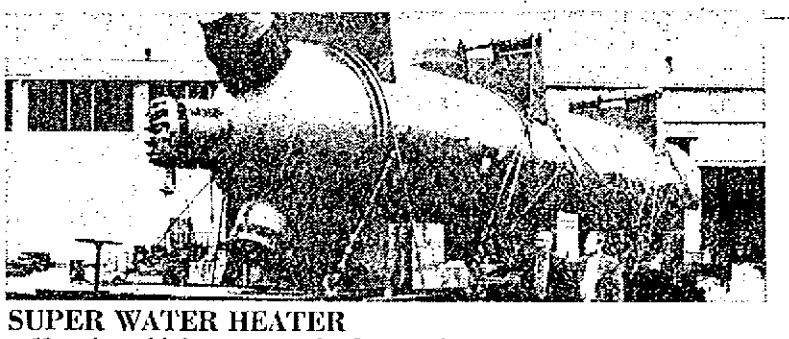

I have in mind a nationwide chain of "Broadway Joe Orthopedic Clinic" franchises. The potential is even better than Roy Rogers roast beef.

Every high school and sandlot quarterback in America strives to emulate Joe Namath. And since the majority of them get hurt at some point, they provide a solid nucleus upon which to build the business.

The non-athletic spinoff will then be pure gravy. For any kid who sprains his knee on the paper route or turns an ankle watching television is going to insist that his parents take him to a Broadway Joe Orthopedic Clinic for treatment.

Land laceration coming to end?

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The symbol of ecological devastation is still the scarred landscape, slashed and torn by man in his quest for the natural wealth of the earth. But someday that laceration might not be so obvious.

Prodded by criticism and threatened by legislation, companies which mine the earth for coal or ores or simply for new highway fill, are attempting to restore a natural appearance after they leave.

And now there is developing another incentive, one that business understands better. The profit motive, that is, may yet prove to be the ecologist's friend after all.

Between Dallas and Fort Worth, for example, a wildlife park exists on the reclaimed land of an old Gifford-Hill & Co. gravel pit. Near Indianapolis, an abandoned American Aggregate pit is the site of new housing.

In some instances the companies that did the digging are also responsible for converting the land to new uses, such as golf courses, lakes and shopping centers, but most do so with the aid of specialists.

TO DATE, those specializing in land reclamation are even further fragmented into different aspects of the industry — in market research, financial feasibility studies, utilization planning and the like.

Howard Hoffman claims to be the forerunner of a new type of enterprise, an organization that handles all aspects of the job: the studies, tax analysis, zoning changes, community relations, reconstruction, managing.

"We take surplus corporate assets — vestigal organs — and make money with them," he says.

Well before ecology became a central consideration for corporations, Hoffman was trying to sell them on using idle assets in imaginative ways, not only as a contribution to community appearance but to profits as well.

A former investor-developer who failed three times before making the grade, and who thus believes he finally knows his subject, he spent two years goading prospects to "get off your assets" before he landed a customer 10 years ago.

IN New Jersey, the Flintkote Company owned 50 acres of land and older buildings it had nearly abandoned because a buyer couldn't be found at a respectable price.

Working with the company, Hoffman helped divide the property into nine plots, tore down the ramshackle structures on four of the plots and made minor repairs to buildings on the other five.

It was, he said after helping to sell it for a sizeable sum, as good as a brand new industrial park, except that it cost much less, mainly because the roads and utilities already existed.

In Olympia, Wash., the St. Regis Paper Co. had idled a waterfront logging plant. With Hoffman's help it was subdivided for nine different tenants and then sold to the Port of Olympia for $2 million.

WORKING with Burlington Mills, Hoffman and his associates have developed a master plan for what originally was a mill town at Cramerton, N.C. Excess land is being readied for industrial, commercial and residential tenants.

"Corporations don't understand real estate," he maintains. "It's a feel, a technique, an art, a creative feeling. The corporations have no expertise, no knowledge. No business school can teach you this business."

The problem for the corporations, he claims, is that they continue to think as corporate officials rather than real estate developers.

"They have to think as entrepreneurs — and they can't."

As he explains it, the tough part is not drawing up the plans, but in completing the nitty gritty work of rezoning, conducting engineering studies, obtaining rights of way and finding a builder-developer or investor to participate in a joint venture with the corporation.

Aer-O-Lite contract in Orlando

Aer-O-Lite Draperies, Inc. of Garden Grove has been selected to manufacture and install draperies and window coverings for the new 18-story Travelodge Tri-Arc Hotel near Orlando, Florida, announced Maury Silverman, president of the 50-state drapery firm.

Silverman said the drapery project involves approximately 18,000 square feet of draperies for 332 guest rooms and suites, the hotel's lavish banquet room, entrance lobby, several hospitality suites and the 18th floor panoramic view cocktail lounge.

A SPECIAL run of multi-striped 100 per cent Dynel fabric is being used for the outer draperies. Blackout underdraperies will be flame-proof, Silverman said.

The drapery executive reported about 13,000 linear feet of traverse rods will be measured, manufactured and installed in the hotel.

Silverman said Aer-O-Lite uses enough drapery fabric each year to cover 3,750 football fields. The Orange County firm recently doubled its manufacturing capacity.

Banks in U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — There are about 14,000 commercial, state and national banks in the United States, employing a total of more than 1 million persons.

Mexicans clarify role of capital

New York Times Service

MEXICO CITY — The Mexican government is making it clear it will want greater participation with foreigners who want to invest here.

But after several weeks of major policy statements to that effect, key American business spokesmen say they still think Mexico remains an attractive investment possibility.

Indeed, a review of the situation strongly suggests that Mexican businessmen are more concerned about new government policies than are foreigners.

As for the Americans, some of them have questions about technical details, but they tend to be unsurprised — almost relieved — at recent government statements clarifying Mexican policy.

Recently, the Mexican economy has seen the following developments:

—President Luis Echeverria Alvarez signed a decree that requires 60 per cent Mexican ownership of auto parts manufacturers, set limits on component production and set restrictions on the number of models that could be produced for each line.

—On Nov. 3, Echeverria sent a bill to Congress to limit the amount of foreign technology that can be purchased by companies in Mexico. The bill is certain to pass and will require all contracts for foreign technology to be registered with a department that will be established in the Secretariat of Industry and Commerce.

Echeverria said although foreign technology has been useful to Mexico, he felt the country had to develop as much of its own as possible "for economic independence."

—On Nov. 4, the government announced it was ending foreign dominance of the tobacco industry with the formation of Tabamex, a company 52 per cent owned by the government. The government is permitting the remaining 48 per cent to be held equally by tobacco concerns and farmers.

The Mexicans call this the "Mexicanization" of the tobacco industry and predict it will provide about $24 million more in yearly earnings for 30,000 tobacco farmers and their families.

Payment for the takeover will largely be to American and British interests and negotiations are under way.

EARLIER this year, the government acquired a majority control of the telephone company and took over Azufrera Panamericana, a subsidiary of the Pan American Sulphur Co., a U.S. firm.

Government control of the telephone company was achieved by increasing the government's already substantial holdings and Pan American Sulphur was not unhappy with the deal it made to divest itself of its Mexican holding.

However, with the three latest developments, a drift toward greater government control was underscored. There was speculation in the press both here and abroad that it would weaken investor confidence in Mexico.

As yet, this has not happened.

None of the businessmen in a recent survey wanted to be quoted by name. But although there were exceptions in both camps, American businessmen were at the very least cautiously optimistic while their Mexican counterparts tended to have a foreboding about what the future held for them.

"I THINK the Mexicans are saying they've made mistakes in the past," said one American. "They haven't really had civic responsibility. Too many of them have been saying, 'I'm out for me and you go to hell.' That's what Echeverria is out to change and I don't blame him at all."

Another American said, "The private sector is going into an obvious decline. But I think the Mexicans honor their commitments and welcome foreign investment, provided you first reach an agreement with the government and know clearly where you stand."

"Comparatively speaking," he continued, "I consider Mexico a place where you can get a reasonable return with low risk. You can make more money in Brazil but that's a military dictatorship and surely it is a higher-risk situation."

A large number of the more than 200 auto component firms here are already owned by Mexican interests and the new requirements of 60 per cent "Mexicanization" were reportedly not of concern to the American companies since they had already met or come close to that requirement.

MOREOVER, limitations on component production would not appear to be a threat to the Americans or, for that matter, the Germans.

Ford, for example, produces tooling here that is exported to the United States. Volkswagen makes parts here that are exported to various places.

Chrysler's new $5 million plant near Mexico City would also be unaffected since the air-conditioning components it produces are totally for export and therefore in compliance with the new rules.

"Frankly, some of us want government participation," said one American. "We know that once we have a deal, it is easier to get money, easier to get import permits for capital goods, easier to get appointments, easier to get roads, electricity, sites in industrial parks — easier to do almost anything."

BUT A reporter who tried could not find a Mexican businessman with this kind of optimism.

"It is unfortunate, that Mexican businessmen are accustomed to excessive profits and tax loopholes," said Fausto Zapata, under secretary of the presidency and close adviser to Echeverria. "We want to change that."

He said the Mexican economy retains "intolerable characteristics" of inequity. He said that 70 per cent of Mexico's gross national product is in the hands of 30 per cent of the population.

Zapata was interviewed not long after a speech by Robert H. McBride, the U.S. ambassador to Mexico, to Mexican and American businessmen. McBride said he noted an attitude "not of alarm but of definite concern."

HOWEVER, the subsecretary of Industry and commerce, Jose Campillo Saenz, later asserted Mexico wanted more economic independence from the U.S. — which now buys 70 per cent of Mexico's exports — and that "we invariably seek foreign investment in accordance with the economic priorities of the country."

In any event, the furor caused by the new economic policies seems to have boiled down to a single word. Last April, the U.S. Department of Commerce's economic trends report said that "Mexico welcomes selected foreign investment."

In the latest report the headline was changed to "Mexico accepts foreign investment selectively."

RETIRED FROM UNION OIL

Vaughan elected to Petrolane directors

The retiring president of the oil and gas division of Union Oil Company of California has been elected to the board of directors of Petrolane Incorporated (NYSE, PCSE).

Kenneth C. Vaughan, who announced his retirement from Union on Oct. 31, 1972, joins the 12-member Petrolane board immediately.

He fills the vacancy created by the resignation of P. E. Foote, who has been subsequently elected director emeritus.

Announcing the board election, Chairman R. J. Munzer said Vaughan brings to the position more than 39 years' experience in the petroleum industry.

He joined Union in 1933 shortly after graduating from the University of Southern California with a degree in petroleum engineering.

He progressed through a number of engineering, operating and supervisory assignments including the appointment as manager of field operations for the Pacific Coast in 1950, manager of natural gas and gasoline in the Los Angeles head office in 1954 and manager of operations in Union's Houston office in 1959.

K. C. VAUGHAN

IN 1962, he was elected as vice president of Union's Gulf division and in 1964 became senior vice president, director and a member of the company's executive committee.

From 1969 until the time of his retirement Mr. Vaughan served as president of Union's oil and gas division, a position in which he was responsible for the company's total domestic exploration and production activities.

Petrolane is a diversified international marketing and service organization.

The company's primary activities include marketing LP-gas in North America and in several European countries and furnishing specialized offshore services and equipment to the petroleum industry.

Independent Paper Stock plant open

A new Long Beach plant which has the capacity to handle 30,000 tons of paper and paperboard products annually and prepare the materials for recycling has been placed in operation by the Independent Paper Stock Co.

The paperstock gathering and processing center has four times the capacity of the 60-year-old facility it replaces. The increased capacity is necessary to meet the growing demand in Southern California for recyclable fibers, a spokesman said.

Located at 2485 E. 68th St., the paperstock plant also is the first in Southern California to have a fully enclosed work area.

According to plant manager A. W. Neumann the old plant accepted only newspapers, most of which were sold by local residents to the firm. Newspapers, old corrugated boxes, computer tab cards and other grades of paper materials will be processed at the new location.

Independent Paper Stock Co., a division of Fibreboard Corporation, San Francisco based forest products company and paper recycler, provides paperstock to the major paper recycling operations in the West.

It operates 11 other Pacific Coast plants.

Wilson branch for L.B.

Charles E. Hanley, president and chairman of the board Thomas C. Wilson, Inc., Long Island City, N.Y., has annouced the opening of a branch office in Long Beach.

The new office, at 1860 E. Fourth St., has been established to service the process industries and the West Coast marine industry, he said.

The company is a major U.S. manufacturer of expanders and cleaners for the repair, maintenance and construction of tubular products such as condensers, boilers and evaporators.

In addition, Wilson manufactures a wide range of pneumatic tools including saws, drills, screwdrivers, needle and flux scalers, grinders and pneumatic safety valves for the manufacturing and construction industries.

According to Hanley, "our Long Beach office, which will be managed by F. A. Fredella, will maintain an inventory of tools and supplies manufactured by Wilson. With a local branch we will be able to provide special attention and service to the rapidly growing industries on the West Coast."

Drew to devote full time to new magazine

Walt Drew, associated with the advertising department of the Independent, Press-Telegram since 1959, has resigned to devote full time to his publication, Antique Motor News.

WALT DREW

A Long Beach resident since 1943, Drew's service with the newspaper was continuous with the exception of 18 months during which he was director of public relations for the Episcopal Diocese of Los Angeles.

During that period Drew also was editor of the diocese monthly paper, The Review.

Antique Motor News was started as a hobby, Drew said, in 1965. Since then, he has acquired several smaller circulation magazines in Fresno, Kingston, Mass. and Woodstock, Ill.

Circulation of the Antique Motor News is nearing 6,000. Drew's headquarters are at 5406 Village Road, Long Beach.

ACC to increase L.B. output

American Chemical Corporation, a joint venture of Atlantic Richfield Company and Stauffer Chemical Company, has announced plans for expansion of its polyvinyl chloride resin plant in Long Beach.

The expansion will add 40 million pounds per year to the plant's production capacity, said Herbert J. Kandel, vice president and general manager. The addition is scheduled to be fully operational by the third quarter of 1973, he added.

American Chemical's plant produces high-quality polyvinyl chloride (PVC) resin used in the manufacture of plastic pipe, wire insulation, upholstery fabrics, floor tile and other vinyl products.

Kandel said this is the second addition to the PVC plant in less than three years. In 1971, a major addition was completed.

Dilday firms chosen by Order of Golden Rule

The Order of the Golden Rule has announced that Dilday Family Funeral Directors, 1250 Pacific Ave., and Dilday Lakewood Mortuary, 3936 Woodruff Ave., have been accepted for membership the ninth consecutive year.

To retain membership, a funeral directing firm must prove annually it has continued to uphold high ethical and professional standards.

In making reacceptance, Roger Ytterberg, executive director of the Order, said: "The Dilday Family firms have been carefully evaluated, leaving no doubt as to their sustained worthiness of membership in the Order of the Golden Rule. We are very proud that these firms will continue to display our emblem in this area."

Health boom

MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI) — Worldwide sales of health products are expected to more than double in this decade from $30 billion in 1971 to $65 billion by 1980.

Tree

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tree bark has become big business as a soil conditioner and landscape vehicle for home gardeners, says the National Bark Producers Association. The product, says the trade group, lends a neat, artistic touch to home landscaping, playgrounds and parks.

Authors speak out

ENCYCLOPEDIA OF BUSINESS LETTERS IN FOUR LANGUAGES. Arco Publishing Company, 3 volumes, $59.

In the Los Angeles-Orange County area are hundreds of importers and exporters who daily face the task of writing to their foreign producers or distributors.

Many rely on interpreters—and the process is slow and unhandy.

This three-volume set could be a ready answer.

Recent research has turned up the surprising fact that 95 per cent of all business correspondence falls into a limited number of easily cataloged categories.

This fact made it possible to compile this encyclopedia.

It will enable executives and their secretaries to write succinct, idiomatically correct letters in English, German and Spanish about almost any business transaction likely to occur.

Each page of the encyclopedia has a single, basic letter with numerous variations given in English. The same letter and variation are then numerically arranged by category and coded and translated into French, Spanish and German.

Categories include placing orders, requesting information, working out discrepancies and delays, making offers, acknowledging receipt, dealing with banks and hotels, discussing all aspects of freight, packaging, storage and transportation, settling commissions and numerous other subjects.

Within each category letters are arranged chronologically in the order in which correspondence is most likely to occur: i. e., a request for information, an acknowledgement of receipt and request for further specifics, request for samples.

All letters can be varied further by the addition of phrases found in Volume 3 to make them fit an amazing variety of situations.

A special section of the encyclopedia contains conversion tables from Anglo-Saxon to metric measurement, a list of the commercial language of every country, sample correct address forms, a glossary of trade terms and a list of the currencies of every country.

The encyclopedia is a well-organized, easy-to-use reference work. It should be welcomed by everyone engaged in international business.—RLB

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Appointment of William R. Worrell as vice president-material for the Douglas Aircraft Company division of McDonnell Douglas was announced by Douglas president Jackson McGowen. Worrell's appointment will be effective Jan. 1 upon the retirement of George F. Spradling.

May Stores sales in quarter increase

The May Department Stores Company announced net sales for the 13 weeks ended Oct. 28 were $348,218,000, an increase of 11.2 per cent over sales of $313,229,000 in the fiscal third quarter of 1971.

Net earnings for the third quarter this year were $10,164,000, or 66 cents per share of common stock, an increase of 22.8 per cent compared with $8,280,000, or 55 cents per share, in the third quarter of 1971.

Stanley J. Goodman, chairman of the board, said, "The third quarter showed a rising trend of sales growth which is expected to stay at a good level through the Christmas season."

Interest rates

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Mortgage interest rates fell an average of one-eighth of a point in October after seven consecutive monthly rises, the USF Mortgage Index indicated. The index also reported a very limited demand for government backed loans for new homes and a light demand for such loans n the secondary market.

THE DAILY INVESTOR

'Your horse is dead'

By DON CAMPBELL

Q: Several years ago I purchased a stock for several hundred dollars. The firm's name and dollar amount are long forgotten, but I voted to trade my shares for so many shares in another company. Several months ago I decided to try and sell the shares in the latter company because I never received any news or anything, nor did I receive any dividends.

Checking with my broker, I was told the stock wasn't listed anywhere. I then wrote to the bank listed on the certificate. The bank informed me that the company ceased operations early in 1971 and has gone out of business.

My questions, therefore, are: how can I find out the value of the shares? Can I contact the owners of the company for possible payment? Can I claim any loss on income tax and how would I go about this? Can I get ANY reimbursement at all out of them or have I lost everything? Is there anyone to whom I can direct any further inquiries?

A: Your horse is dead and you'll get nothing but bruises in your efforts to kick it. Your money is down the tube, and there's no point in trying to correspond with anyone in the company about the matter because, even if you succeed in making contact with one of the former officers, there will be nothing that he can do about it.

The one bright spot for you is in the fact that the original cost of the stock is, indeed, a deductible loss as far as the Internal Revenue Service is concerned and, while the IRS prefers that such losses be claimed in the taxable year that the first tangible evidence of the business's collapse takes place (public notification of its bankruptcy, for instance), there is also a seven-year grace period to accommodate unhappy stockholders who are tardy in discovering that they have grounds for being unhappy.

This might be an appropriate time to point out a pertinent, if, perhaps obvious, fact of life: that any investment carries with it some degree of risk, and the more potential for gain there is in it, then there is normally a corresponding degree of risk — not merely of SOME loss but, as this reader has discovered, of TOTAL loss.

The moral: invest in any unknown, or little-known, stock only that amount of money that you feel you can afford to lose. Entirely.

Q: IN SEPT., 1969, I purchased 200 shares of King Resources Co. This was my first and last venture in the stock market. This stock was purchased through a local brokerage, but the man who sold me the stock has since left. I cannot seem to find out anything about this stock. Is it worthless?

A: This seems to be our day for losers. Poor old King Resources has been, charitably, trouble-plagued since — after reporting a $26.5 million profit in 1969 — it subsequently reported a $53 million loss for 1970 after getting involved with Investors Overseas Services just prior to that empire's collapse. So much for the bad news.

Now for the good: a handful of brokerages are still trading in King Resources and the stock is selling somewhere in the 22-to-33-cents-a-share range.

Q: I HAVE just sold my house and have cash on hand which I would like to invest. A few acquaintances have invested in church building bond issues, claiming eight per cent dividends paid semi-annually. They also claim that these can be withdrawn at any time. As I have about $15,000 to invest, I am wondering if this is a fairly safe and secure investment and why this type of bond pays such high interest rates. Would an investment in U.S. Government H bonds be more secure?

A: Church building bonds pay a pretty good interest (not "dividends" — that's what you collect from stocks) for the simple reason that they have a pretty spotty track record and, in most cases, entail considerable risk. The reason should be fairly obvious: the interest (and, eventually, the retirement) of the bonds is dependent on the church's income and this — pegged so directly on general economic conditions among the congregation — is a highly volatile factor. Thus, the spottiness.

Sure, an investment in U.S. Government H bonds would be "more secure," but, in terms of risk, you are pretty well going from one extreme to another.

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

If anyone needs a reminder that the holiday season is approaching, all he'll have to do is turn on the TV set in the weeks ahead. One network alone — CBS-TV — has issued a list of 35 programs related to the Christmas and New Year seasons.

Included are post-season college and professional football games and New Year's Day parades, but most of the 35 shows pertain to Christmas. Some are segments of regular series.

Coming up first will be "The House Without a Christmas Tree" from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Sunday on Channel 2. It's billed as "a tender story of familial love and understanding" and stars Jason Robards, Mildred Natwick and young Lisa Lucas.

Paul Bogart, a multiple Emmy Award winner, is the director and Alan Shayne the producer of the drama about a 10-year-old girl's yearning for her first Christmas tree.

Eleanor Perry, who has given us a number of well written TV and motion picture dramas, did the script for the show, which is based on an autobiographical short story by Gail Rock.

The poignant tale takes place the week before Christmas 1946 in the small town of Clear River on the snow-swept plains of Nebraska. Addie (Lisa Lucas) wants more than ever before the Christmas tree that her stern, withdrawn father (Robards), a widower since Addie was an infant, denies her. The grandmother (Miss Natwick), in whose home they live, nurtures the genuine, if unspoken, love the family has for one another.

On Monday night, CBS will present two animated Yule season programs — Dr. Seuss' "How the Grinch Stole Christmas" and "Frosty the Snowman" — plus "The Perry Como Winter Show." Next Friday night the network will offer repeats of "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" and Earl Hamner Jr.'s "The Homecoming: A Christmas Story," starring Patricia Neal and Richard Thomas.

And that's just the first week. There'll be a lot more holiday specials to come.

FOOTBALL FANS have another big weekend on the tube. Today, there's the Army-Navy game and — live from the Los Angeles Coliseum — the USC-Notre Dame battle. On Sunday there will be three pro games — New York Giants vs. Cincinnati, Pittsburgh vs. Cleveland and Dallas vs. St. Louis. And on Monday evening will come the big one between the Rams and the San Francisco 49ers.

Who could ask for anything more?

HILLY ROSE, host of radio station KFI's midnight-to-4 a.m. talk show, will perform a wedding ceremony at midnight tonight. Rose also is a licensed minister. The bride and bridegroom are a part-time yacht captain and a part-time teacher of "gifted students," John Hudson and Sondra Scott. They wrote the best contest entry telling why they would like Hilly to perform their ceremony on the air. It will take place in the KFI Radio Theater.

Fifty years ago, KFI conducted a similar wedding ceremony — believed to be the first wedding ever broadcast.

"Read The Meter"

By LARRY MEDER
HARBOR CHEVROLET

Under the careful supervision of the chief air traffic controller at the tower of a certain airport, a trainee who happened to be a hillbilly was given a chance to try his hand.

The radio crackled and a voice said, "This is W2 — 420 — CESSNA, at 3200 feet — request landing instructions." Nervously, the young man answered, "You head in south on runway 4."

Immediately after, another voice came over the radio, identifying himself as "AL — 419 — Piper Cub," requesting take-off instructions. The embryo traffic controller replied, "You take off south on runway 4!" Upon hearing this, the 1st pilot in the Cessna shouted hoarsely over his radio — "Say — this is W2-420 Cessna at 3000 feet. ... You just directed ME to come in NORTH on runway 4!!! We're on a collision course!!"

"By golly — you're right," drawled the trainee, "You all be careful ... you heahh?"

NOTRE DAME OFFERS TROJANS No. 1 TEST

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

John McKay shook his head in a mixture of chagrin and pride.

"Our program has come a long way when we have to give Notre Dame 14 points," said the USC football coach of the Trojan-Irish match today at 1 p.m. in the Coliseum.

McKay has only his team to blame for the most lopsided point spread a Notre Dame team has encountered in 16 years.

The Trojans have stretched out 10 successive opponents, no team coming closer to them than nine points. USC has beaten the point spread 7 of 10 times.

Furthermore, they haven't lost to the Irish since absorbing an horrendous 51-0 shellacking at the Coliseum in 1966. USC has registered three victories and two ties in the intervening years.

The rewards will be great for the Trojans if they succeed in defeating the Irish before a national television audience (Ch. 7 locally) and a Coliseum crowd expected to exceed 80,000.

They would:

— Clinch United Press International's version of the national collegiate championship. UPI concludes its poll of coaches after today's game, while the Associated Press conducts its final balloting of writers afer bowl games have been played.

—Finish their third unbeaten regular season under McKay, who has directed USC since 1960. Other undefeated Trojan teams were the 1962 and 1969 clubs.

— Extend their undefeated streak to 16 games, longest in the nation. They wound up the 1971 season with four victories and a tie.

McKay and his counterpart, Ara Parseghian, have spent the two weeks of inactivity extolling the virtues of their opponents.

"Notre Dame is far superior defensively to anyone we've played," McKay has said. "Take a look at common opponents of Notre Dame and Michigan, which we consider a good, solid team.

"In every case, Notre Dame did much better than Michigan."

Notre Dame defeated Northwestern, 37-0; Purdue, 35-14, and Michigan State, 16-0. Michigan beat Northwestern, 7-0; Purdue, 9-6, and Michigan state, 9-0.

Parseghian has given USC the "super" treatment.

"The Trojans can beat you more ways than any team we've seen," he said early in the week. "No one has stopped them yet, and I don't expect to see it happen Saturday. We'll just do everything we can to try to stop them."

Behind the verbal fencing, there are some tangible factors to be considered.

Notre Dame has more size than any team USC has met, and this might negate the Trojans' strong running game. The Irish, although young on defense, have intercepted 21 passes, indicating they will not be easily vulnerable to the forward pass.

The Irish might have been overlooked in the polls — they are 10th in each — because of their supposedly weak schedule. Only three of their nine opponents have records above .500.

McKay has scoffed at this point.

"No matter who Notre Dame plays, it's the game of the year for the other team," he said.

The Irish come into the Coliseum with a refurbished backfield that includes sophomore speedster Eric Penick (9.5 sprinter) and sophomore quarterback Tom Clements (69 pass completions in 138 attempts for 964 yards).

USC, on the other hand,

Bradley stalls and falls

Walton & Co. easily beat freeze, 73-38

By GARY RAUSCH
Staff Writer

Joe Stowell did something Friday night he disdains. He ordered his Bradley Braves to hold the ball.

To him it was the only possible chance of beating UCLA. He gambled and the Braves were decimated, 73-38, before 12,591 taunting fans in Pauley Pavilion.

"You can't come into Pauley Pavilion and play UCLA a straight game. No team can," he said in post-mortem. "This is the best UCLA team I've seen and I've seen them all."

Bradley went to its stall after giving the Bruins the opening basket. It brought a chorus of boos from the partican crowd and the usual "bounce-bounce-pass" jeers from the UCLA rooting section.

"WE BELIEVED to give ourselves a chance we had to be within 10 points with 10 minutes to go," explained Stowell. "We're not big or strong and the only way we could stay in contention was holding the ball.

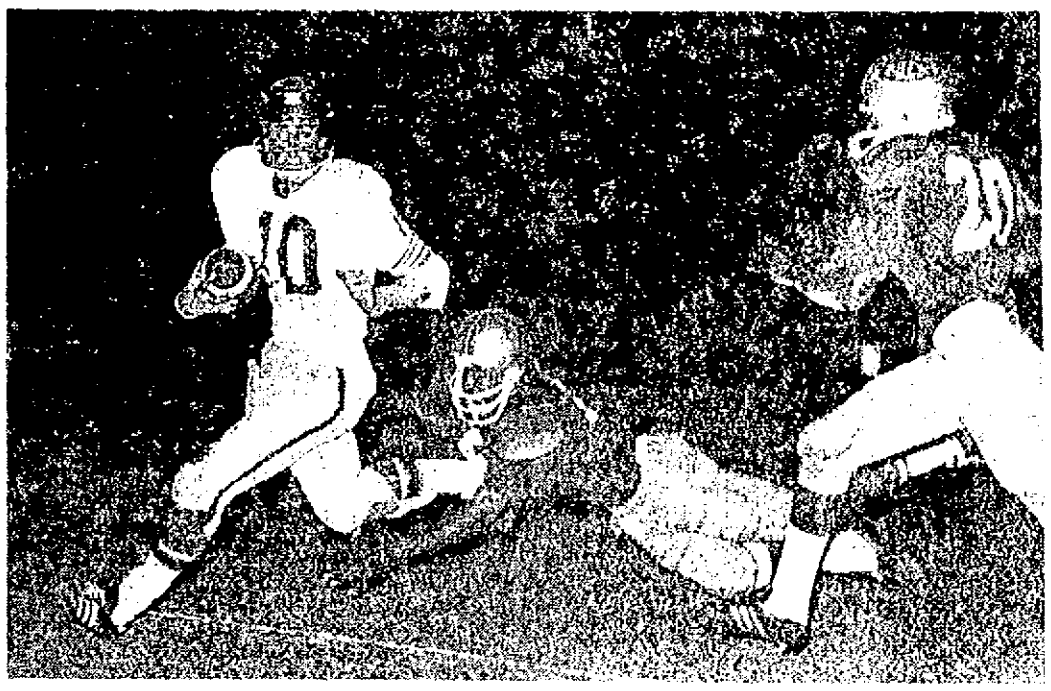

"We're not a slowdown type of team," he excused. "We've only held it three or four times in the last eight years."

Against any team that didn't have a Bill Walton dominating play, the Braves might have stood an outside chance. But the 6-11, carrot-topped center demoralized Bradley with his scoring, shot-blocking and general intimidation.

He scored three successive baskets to put the Bruins in command, 8-3, and then turned human flyswatter. While the Braves were being outscored, 18-2, Bill slapped away five shots.

TWICE HE snuffed the Braves at one end of the court, raced to the opposite end and took a Tommy Curtis feed for a driving 49ers (90-63) puzzle for coach--all looked good

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

It was difficult — his Long Beach State basketball team had just completed a 90-63 powdering of North Texas State — but Jerry Tarkanian was frowning through his smile.

"This game didn't help me at all," the 49er coach said unconvincingly after watching his team run its home court win streak to 55 Friday night before 4,752 impressed observers in the Long Beach Arena.

"What I really needed tonight was to find out who my starters are going to be," Tarkanian continued, "but I didn't do it."

Tarkanian started Ed Ratleff, Lamont King, Nate Stephens, Glenn Gray and got an exceptional effort from Ratleff, who led all scorers with 23 points; a fine game from King, who totalled 12 points; and good efforts from Gray and Stephens. McDonald's performance was limited by a sore leg.

To complicate matters, the 49ers also got steady efforts from Roscoe Pondexter, Ernie Douse and Rick Aberegg. Aberegg scored eight points and ran the 49er fast break well; Douse was 6-of-7 from the field and scored 15 points while Pondexter added nine.

"I was happy with the way everyone played," Tarkanian said, "but I would have liked to find out who my starters are going to be. I don't think we can be a great ball club until we do.

"Until we know who is going to start, the kids will be like they were early in the game tonight—unsettled. They have got to know when they come to the game that they are going to start and that they will be in there even if they make a few mistakes."

The 49ers did make a few mistakes early and were struggling, 23-22, late in the first half. But they put on a 14-2 burst, keyed by six points from Douse to build a 38-26 halftime lead.

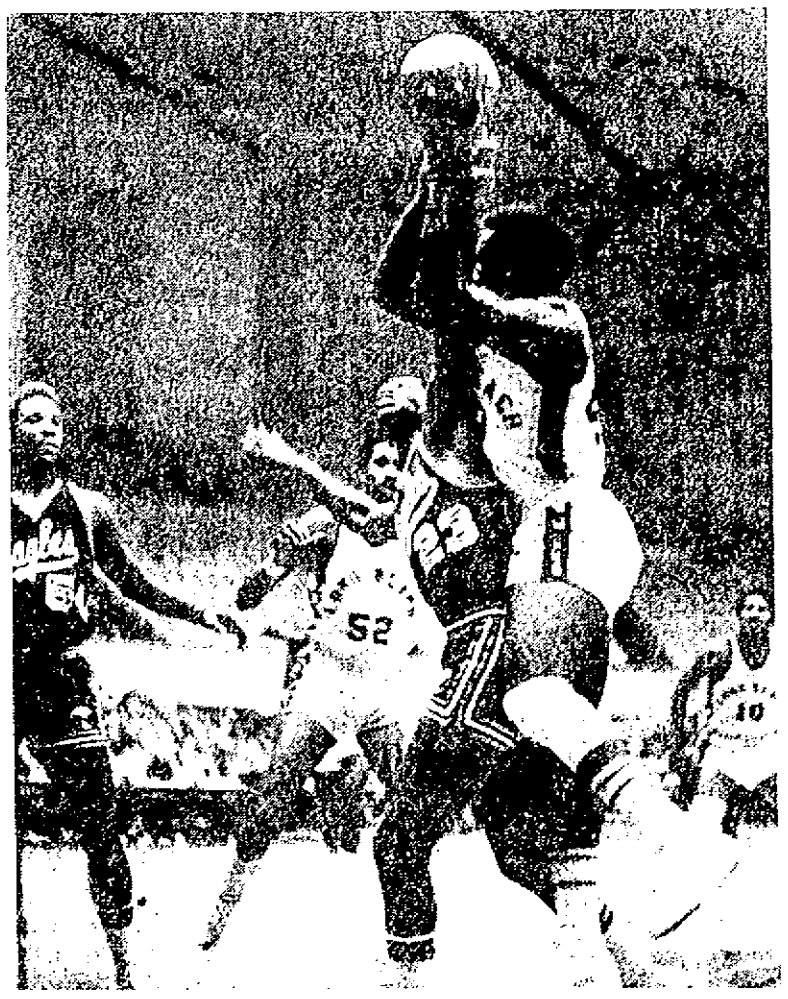

"I wasn't unhappy with the way the kids played in the first half," Tarkanian said. "They were just tight. I mean we would throw a pass to someone and the ball would bounce off their hands. And, we were something like 6 of 15 at the free throw line.

"The kids aren't trying to miss free throws, they were just too tight to make them."

Whatever uncertainty remained in the game was quickly eliminated when the 49ers broke from the gate quickly in the second half and doubled the score, 60-30, on the young Eagles, who saw their record slip to 1-2.

"Long Beach caused a lot of problems for us, but we caused some ourselves," North Texas coach Gene Robbins said. "We were too impatient on offense. I'm sure Long Beach bothered us, but when you dribble into two guys, that's your mistake

REPORT SMU FIRES GRID COACH FRY

DALLAS (AP) — Hayden Fry, football coach and athletic director at Southern Methodist University, was relieved of his duties Friday night by the school's board of governors, according to television station WFAA.

Informed sources confirmed Friday night that the coach was told of the firing Friday afternoon, the station said.

Fry reportedly told the team of his dismissal in an emotional speech Friday night. Fry was unavailable for comment Friday night.

Rabbits suffer 31-7 loss

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

It was open season on Jackrabbits Friday night.

Westminster High's bigger and better Lions did most of the hunting and stalked off with a one-sided, 31-7 CIF 4A quarterfinal round victory over Poly.

An estimated turnout of 10,000 at Veterans Stadium watched the Sunset League's No. 2 team (behind Western) roll up 335 yards rushing and passing to bring an abrupt halt to what had been the Hares' best campaign in eight years.

	West.	Poly
First downs	17	15
Passes attempted	24	22

Net yards rushing	152	131
Total net yards	335	248
Fumbles	1	2
Own fumbles recovered	0	1
Penalties (by yards)	50	32

Friday night Poly discovered good little teams don't beat good big teams.

Down ony six points at halftime (13-7), Poly didn't get its initial first down of the second half until three minutes into the fourth quarter.

By then it was 25-7 and the Lions were beginning to think about who they would be playing in the semis next week.

Brothers Dan and Tony Accomando did most of the damage on offense.

Dan, a senior quarterback, had runs of 4 and 2 yards for scores plus firing a 9-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Gary Maddocks. Tony, a junior tailback, led all rushers with 91 yards in 17 carries.

The Jackrabbits probably knew they were going to be in for a rough evening at the outset.

It appeared the Rabbits were in great position to possibly score, having recovered a fumble by D. Accomando on the second play of the game at the Lion 35.

Two rushing plays got the ball to the 22, but the next four lost 8 yards.

Anthony Hill, held to minus yards rushing until the final three minutes, was shadowed closely by tackles Charlie Harris and Larry Grady whenever the Poly QB wanted to pass.

Maddocks, who caught 6 passes for 83 yards, set up the game's first score for Westminster with a 35-yard punt return to the Poly 14 four plays into the second quarter.

Grady had chased Hill back 15 yards and dropped him on his own two where Dan Costales had been forced to punt from the shadow of his goal post.

The Accomando brothers got the 14 yards. Tony 4, Dan the other 10 including the TD from the four on first and goal.

The Lions went 64 yards the next time they got the ball, fullback Bob Dreifus powering in from the one only 1:50 before half to make it 13-0 after a two-point conversion try had failed.

Poly then gave its fans

Western defense decisive

By GARY ELLIS
Staff Writer

Ohio State was an excellent teacher in the art of goal line stands last Saturday. Western High proved to be an avid pupil.

Western High, which exploded for 21 points in the second quarter, held Lakewood on the one for four downs with five minutes to go in the fourth quarter and then halted another drive with a pass interception with one minute to go, to edge the Lancers 21-14 Friday night in the second round of CIF 4-A playoffs before a capacity crowd at Cerritos College.

	Lakewood.	Western
First downs	12	9
Passes attempted	26	10
Passes completed	14	6
Passes had intercepted	1	1
Yards gained passing	220	63
Yards gained rushing	126	199
Yards lost rushing	20	16
Net yards rushing	86	181
Fumbles	3	3
Total yards gained	305	244
Own fumbles recovered	1	1
Penalties by yards	109	45

With 52 seconds remaining in the third quarter Pete Tereschuk scored from two yards out to close the score to 21-14 going into the final period. After a Western punt the Lancers were ready to score again.

Tereschuk, who has had the Gillies brothers as receivers for two of his three years at Lakewood, teamed up with Ed seven times for 146 of his total 220 yards in the air.

Tereschuk hit Gillies with a 51-yard "bomb" to move the ball to the Western 33. Gillies, after a touchdown catch in the first quarter, drew at least double coverage for the entire night. On the 51-yard bomb, he had three Pioneers shadowing him but hauled in the pass before being run out of bounds. On a fourth and 13, on the Lancer 37, Tereschuk found Gillies for a 19-yard gain to move the ball to the Western 18. On the next play Tereschuk ran for 17 yards to the Pioneer one. A touchdown, a possible tie or a winning two-point conversion were only three feet away.

On the first play Dave Stewart carried into the middle for no gain. On second down Tereschuk fumbled the snap but recovered. On third down Tereschuk tried a quarterback sneak, on which he had scored a TD easily late in the third quarter, but a host of blue shirts, led by Jeff Cornett, Mike Fleager and Ron Usrey, met him for no gain.

On fourth down Tereschuk tried the middle again but Usrey blasted through the middle to stop him.

After another Western unt Lakewood had the ball at its own 42. Tereschuk hit tight end Dale Adams for a 21-yard gain but three plays later, following a clipping penalty, a Tereschuk pass was picked off by Andy Schiller with 1:20 remaining.

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

An acute case of fumblitis put an end to the Lakers winning streak at 13 games Friday night.

A whopping 40 turnovers, which was believed to be an NBA single-game record, did the trick for the Atlanta Hawks, who were shaky themselves in eking out a 114-109 win at the Forum.

Atlanta held a 10-point lead with 2½ minutes to go, but the Lakers whittled the spread down to nothing with four seconds remaining on Jerry West's two free throws.

The momentum was clearly in their favor, but the Lakers started the extra session with a miscue and Atlanta's Pete Maravich and Herm Gilliam provided the offensive fire power to give the Hawks the victory.

On a night Gail Goodrich scored his 10,000th career point, the littlest Laker also had the misfortune of missing an easy lay-in with 56 seconds remaining in overtime that would have left his team only one point behind.

The miss was followed by a long jumper by Gilliam at 0:34 and the Lakers were dead.

The loss was only the Lakers' fourth in 23 games and they can ill-afford another sloppy performance tonight since they play Golden State in Oakland. The Warriors were the last team to beat the Lakers (Oct. 27) prior to Friday.

The Lakers found themselves down 102-92 with 2:13 remaining. It looked like a lost cause, but somehow the Lakers scrambled back.

Two free throws by Wilt Chamberlain, of all people, started the rally at 2:07.

Chamberlain played the final 11½ minutes with five personal fouls and narrowly avoided fouling out of his first game in 14 years, spanning 1,128 games.

Long Beach's George Trapp scored 18 points in only 23 minutes. He made three fourth-period baskets to help Atlanta build up its 12-point lead, then was benched with 3:11 remaining.

Improved Saints tip Wilson, 62-47

By RICK ARTHUR
Staff Writer

If Friday night's performance is a valid indication, St. Anthony High's basketball team should win a lot more than six games this season.

The Saints, obviously intent on improving last year's disappointing 6-18 record, connected on more than 46 per cent of their shots from all angles of the court to outclass Wilson, 62-47, on the Bruins' floor.

Despite a fourth-quarter letdown in which the Saints managed only seven points — all on free throws — they led from the very start, with the biggest margin a 53-31 bulge in the third quarter.

With a balanced effort spearheaded by the playmaking of Dan Marques, the outside bombing of Brian Lenzen and Steve Korte and the inside finesse of Joe Lotta, coach Jack Errion's team scored the first four points of the game and never looked back en route to a 19-9 first period-lead and a 40-23 margin at halftime.

Wilson's center scored only three points, but blocked eight shots and grabbed 10 rebounds to supply the necessary inside punch. Larry Hudson (22 points), Nishel Jackson (19) and Paul Sanders (12) all scored well from outside in a capable team effort.

IN GAMES TONIGHT, St. Anthony is at Jordan (8), Artesia is at Wilson (7:30), Sunny Hills at Lakewood (8) and Millikan plays Los Alamitos at Marina at 6:30.

IN OTHER GAMES involving Moore League schools Friday, defending champ Millikan fell to Corona del Mar, 52-49; Poly trounced Torrance, 91-72; Jordan crushed Redlands, 67-41, and Lakewood lost to Burbank, 67-42.

Millikan raced to a 30-20 halftime lead and seemed well on its way to victory, but the Sea Kings battled back in the second half to overcome the deficit, take a slim lead and successfully stalled the final two minutes to win.

The Rams, sparked in scoring by backcourt mates Mike McGee (18) and Jerry Dykstra (15), had trouble handling all-CIF center Bob Wharton, who led all scorers with 24, hitting on 12 of 15 shot attempts.

Poly played evenly with Torrance for three periods, then skyrocketted to a 35-point performance in the final quarter to leave no doubt about the outcome.

Five Jackrabbits were in double figures, with Lester Hogan (21) and Tyrone Spears (20) leading the way.

For Jordan, 6 7 sophomore center Jim Hardy

some hope, managing to score in the next 50 seconds from 53 yards out. Forty-nine of the yards came through the air as Hill had passes of 14 and 7 yards to Ronnie Hill before Bruce Carey scooped a low throw off the ground from 15 yards out to make it 13-7, after sophomore Dave Adams added the PAT.

That was the extent of Poly's scoring for the season.

Westminster made it 19-7 on their first drive of the third quarter, then added another quick TD when Rick Bliss blocked a Costales punt and 6-4, 250-pound Marty Thujillo picked the ball and rambled 24 yards to the Hare 4.

An illegal procedure penalty put the ball back to the nine, but D. Accomando rifled a strike to Maddocks cutting across the middle to make it 25-7.

Dan, completing passes under Poly's zone most of the evening, wound up hitting 13-of-23 passes for 183 yards. Hill was 12-of-22 for 117 yards.

The Hares finished 8-3, Westminster is now 9-2 and will meet to-ranked St. Paul in the semi-finals.

USC 'fights off' Cowboys, 88-73

BY LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

At times, the game was nearly as physical as USC and Notre Dame are expected to be on the Coliseum turf today.

But after 43 personal fouls and 33 turnovers by the two teams, USC's basketball team submerged Hardin-Simmons University, 88-73, before 3,795 fans Friday night at the L.A. Sports Arena.

"I was disappointed we didn't break the game open when we got 16 or 17 points ahead in the second half," said USC coach Bob Boyd after the blocking and tackling had concluded. "I thought we could have gotten it up to 25."

Mike Westra dropped in 10 of 12 shots and had a career high of 21 points in leading the Trojans to victory. The 6-10 Trojan center also had 13 rebounds. Sophomore Clint Chapman had 19 points, although he made only 8 of 26 shots.

The Trojans zipped to a 47-36 halftime lead by making 22 of 42 shots, then connected on only 14 of 43 in the second half when Hardin-Simmons closed to within five at 53-48 with 15:22 remaining.

USC OUTSCORED the Cowboys from Abilene, Tex., by 17-5 during the next seven minutes to pull away to a 70-53 advantage.

Hardin-Simmons was handicapped when its top guard, Gary Crowthers, drew his fourth foul one minute into the second half and was forced to sit out 12 minutes.

The Cowboys' 6-10 center, Harvey Catchings, kept his team in the game with rugged rebound play and quick moves to the basket. Catchings scored 17 points and had 13 rebounds. Crowthers wound up with 14 points.

"WE'LL HAVE to get tougher on the boards to beat real good teams," said Boyd, noting the bigger Trojans' narrow 54-48 edge in rebounds. "I don't think we can be better than we are at this stage of the season."

At one time, Boyd had five sophomores in the lineup and they didn't do badly. "We'll probably continue to play everybody until our conference season begins," explained Boyd. "Our young players need the experience."

St. Paul wins 34-0

St. Paul, the No. 1-rated team in the CIF 4-A bracket, extended its unbeaten streak to 11 Friday by shutting out Dos Pueblos High in Santa Barbara 34-0.

The Swordsmen held Dos Pueblos to 88 net yards. Dos Pueblos quarterback Greg VanNess passed 22 times and completed seven for 47 yards, but was intercepted five times.

Quarterback Pat Degnan led the Swordsman attack with two touchdowns and 126 passing yards in seven completions of 12 tries. He was supported by full backs Bill Wargo and Jim Emmerling. Wargo scored once and netted 86 yards in 18 carries while Emmerling rushed nine times and collected 82 yards.

The defense held Dos Pueblos continuously, allowing the offense to cross the 20-yard-line only once. Dos Pueblos could only manage four first downs while St. Paul grabbed 18.

Brethren wins 3rd CIF title

Brethren High, behind the running and passing of Les Pearsey and Everett Williams, won its third consecutive CIF six-man football championship Friday night with a 72-64 win over Rio Hondo Prep at Jordan High.

The Warriors and Rio Hondo Prep had played to a 58-58 tie earlier in the year.

Dennis McDowell scored the winning touchdown with 1:11 remaining in the contest on a 10-yard run. Everett Williams scored six touchdowns in the win.

Dr. Ralston takes care of Broncos

Compiled from I,P-T sources

There can be a funny side to football injuries.

When Denver running back Bob Anderson had knee surgery last week, coach John Ralston sat in wearing cap, gown, mask and gloves. As the operation was completed, Ralston was told that linebacker Tom Graham had just been admitted for suspected appendicitis.

Oakland center Jim Otto might try spuds on his knee. He's tried everything else to avoid surgery that would cut his consecutive game string short.

Otto, who has started 179 consecutive games, the longest string of starts in NFL history, was recommended for surgery when he hurt the knee in pre-season. Treatment, tape and a bandage have kept him going.

"It's kind of wobbly, and it hurts," he says, "but nobody has taken any cheap shots at it."

Three others have played in more consecutive games — Forrest Gregg played 188 with Green Bay —but didn't start all of them.

NOTABLE QUOTES . . .

Giants coach Alex Webster: "I'm sorry."

Giants quarterback Randy Johnson, ordered not to run up the score in relief of Norm Snead: "On the last touchdown, I called three straight quarterback sneaks."

RALSTON

OTTO

DEACON

Khayat again: "Our performance was embarrassing to the city of Philadelphia and the whole Delaware Valley."

Chargers QB John Hadl, after watching 33-year-old Deacon Jones assault young Oilers QB Dan Pastorini all afternoon: "It was the worst beating I ever saw a kid take. If they're going to build a team around him, they've got to protect him."

The Deacon: "I've chased a lot of great quarterbacks but today was the first time I ever had one challenge me. A lot of quarterbacks will just fall down, but he lowered his shoulder and ran at me."

Pastorini: "If Deacon is over the hill, I'm under it."

New Orleans owner John Mecom, on coach J.D. Roberts' future after 19-16 upset of Rams: "He has my vote of confidence . . . but for the rest of this year only."

Cleveland defensive end Nick Roman, after returning an interception 36 yards for a touchdown: "All of a sudden I had the ball, someone spun me around and got me pointed in the right direction. It felt as though it took me forever to get to the end zone. If it had taken any longer they might have called a delay of game penalty."

HOW IMPORTANT are turnovers, for and against? Check the standings and then check the ratio on takeaways and giveaways.

The New York Giants lead the National Conference with a plus-13, followed by Washington, plus-9; Green Bay, 8; Minnesota, 5; San Francisco and Detroit, 3; Atlanta, 2; Chicago, minus-3; the Rams, minus-4; Dallas, -5; New Orleans, -7; St. Louis, -8, and Philadelphia, -12.

Only one club has fumbled the ball away fewer times than the Rams' six, and that's Detroit with four. But the Rams lead the NFC with 20 interceptions — Roman Gabriel 13, Pete Beathard 7.

CINCINNATI'S PAUL BROWN has a warm-weather quarterback and a cold-weather QB.

After starting Virgil Carter in place of Ken Anderson in the 13-3 win over the Bears, Brown explained, "The weather conditions were tough. When I got up and it was spitting snow, I figured this was the place for a guy who'd been around."

What's the temperature against the Giants this week, coach?

AROUND THE LEAGUE: If George Allen is successful in buying the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian League, he could wind up as his own boss when the NFL expands to that city, perhaps by 1977. However, his unpopularity with NFL rivals might also squelch Montreal's chances for the NFL franchise . . . Allen does have one new ally in culinary taste. Denver's John Ralston now offers ice cream to his players in their night-before-the-game snacks . . . Game of the week in the AFC has Cleveland at Pittsburgh, both 8-4, for the East Division lead. The Browns haven't lost on the road, the Steelers haven't lost at home. Pittsburgh kicker Roy Gerela leads the NFL in scoring with 92 points, although his extra point string was cut at 107 when No. 108 was blocked . . . Also chopped last week was Baltimore QB Marty Domres non-interception string of 127. . . . Another string, Baltimore safety Jerry Logan's consecutive game streak of 152, is still good but he pulled a hamstring against the Patriots. "I haven't missed a game since the eighth grade," Logan says.

Archie Manning has played every offensive play for New Orleans this year. The only NFL quarterback to do it all season was Jim Plunkett as a New England rookie last year . . . Minnesota punter Mike Eischeid is proud of a 36-yard effort against the Steelers. He booted it on the run — with his left foot . . . John Riggins, with 924 yards, could become the first Jet to rush for 1,000 Sunday . . . Kansas City, all but out of the AFC West race at 5-6, is in bad shape against Denver Sunday with injuries to tackle Buck Buchanan, linebacker Willie Lanier and wide receivers Otis Taylor and Elmo Wright . . . Detroit will use Mel Farr at running back for lame Steve Owens, while the Lions' opponent, Green Bay, is hurting at wide receiver and in the defensive backfield.

Chicago QB Bobby Douglas, with 713 yards, needs to average about 86 rushing in his last three games to become the NFL's first 1,000-yard quarterback . . . The Cleveland Browns have activated offensive tackle Joe Carollo, who was picked up as a free agent after being cut by the Rams last month...The St. Louis Cardinals have received permission from the Detroit Lions to talk to offensive coach Bill McPeak about becoming their general manager.

49ers end sad slate at Northridge

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

For some coaches, today's 1:30 contest between Long Beach State and something called California State University, Northridge would be one of those tax write-off games — building for tomorrow.

Such is not the case with Jim Stangeland.

"We're playing our regular people and our regular game," Stangeland said Friday when asked if he might bypass the 21 seniors on his 4-6 team in favor of getting his underclassmen some game experience for next year.

"We certainly aren't going to help our program by losing to Northridge," Stangeland continued. "The best thing we can do for our program is to finish the season with a good victory."

It won't be an easy task, especially in the current frame of mind of many of the 49ers.

"Frankly," one starter said earlier this week, "a lot of the guys just wish the season was over."

It has been well noted, too, that for many of the 49ers, the season ended with the 14-10 loss to Pacific on Oct. 14.

For host Northridge, which used to be known at Valley State, the opposite holds true.

A victory over the 49ers today would leave the Matadors with a 7-3 record, the best mark in the school's history.

It is often said that with a little luck, a team could be unbeaten. In the Matadors' case it is a valid statement. The three defeats — Fullerton State (41-39), Cal Poly, SLO (11-10) and Northern Arizona (15-14) — have been by a total of four points. On the season, Northridge has outscored its opponents, 343-157.

The ringleaders are quarterback Don Gray, who leads the club in rushing with 658 net yards and has passed for 1,365 more. His favorite receivers are Jerry Powell, last year's starting quarterback, and Nery Watson. Each has caught 50 passes, Powell for 847 yards, Watson for 817.

Stangeland has talked loud and long to his seniors this week, pointing out that for many of them this would be the last football game they'd ever play.

"There was even a tear or two," Stangeland says in recounting one of the meetings he has employed to arouse his team.

But, from off-the-record comments, about the only thing that has many of the 49er athletes upset is that they won't get to see the Notre Dame-USC game on television.

RAM RUMOR TIME: ARA IN, ELLISON OUT

By RICH ROBERTS
Staff Writer

The Rams' rumor mill, stoked with four losses in the last five games, grinds on. Here are the hottest ones, up to date:

—Ara Parseghian, in town with his Fighting Irish this weekend, will be offered the head coaching job if the Rams lose at San Francisco Monday night, eliminating them from title contention in the NFC West;

—John McKay will be offered the job;

— If Tommy Prothro continues on his five-year contract (three to go), there will be a heavy turnover in his staff;

— Willie Ellison will be dealt to Houston for the Oilers' No. 1 draft choice, which will be used to draft quarterback Bert Jones of LSU.

Throw out the McKay item. He turned down Dan Reeves twice and there is less chance he would surrender his improved situation as athletic director at USC to go to work for Carroll Rosenbloom now.

Rosenbloom says he hardly knows Parseghian, but general manager Don Klosterman does know him very well and feels that the trio could work well together.

If Prothro, completing the second year of a five-year pact signed with Reeves, stays on — and he may have to win the division title to do it — some of his aides seem doomed. Rosenbloom would prefer more professional experience on the staff.

As for Ellison, the arrival of Jim Bertelsen and Bob Thomas makes even the club's leading rusher expendable — and the feeling is undeniable that Roman Gabriel's days are numbered. The Rams need a hot young quarterback now, and Klosterman has said publicly that Jones is the best of the college seniors.

But the deals for John Williams, Fred Dryer and Dick Gordon—none of whom has played regularly — left the Rams without a first-round draft choice for the next two years. The Oilers look like a cinch to pick first next month, and they can use about anybody the Rams want to give them.

Very little of this was discussed openly at Blair Field Friday as the Rams continued to prepare for Monday night's do-or-die game against San Francisco at Candlestick Park.

Rosenbloom, who had been in Florida since Sunday's loss at New Orleans, dropped in wearing team blue and white, accompanied by Klosterman.

Prothro, asked if the rumors bothered him, replied:

"Not nearly as much as not winning bothers me."

'Bama vs. Auburn --Army-Navy, too

Combined News Services

It was only last Monday that Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian put the public blast on Bear Bryant and Alabama for "taking the easy way out" and choosing to meet Texas in the Cotton Bowl rather than Nebraska in the Orange Bowl.

Despite the hostilities, the Bear will obviously be on the side of Ara and the Irish today in their Coliseum clash against No. 1 USC. It's not that the Bear forgives and forgets but easily—it's just that he'd much prefer to see his own Crimson Tide on top of the polls.

Alabama, ranked No. 2, could vault into the penthouse if they dispatch ninth-rated and arch-rival Auburn today while Notre Dame is upsetting USC.

"AUBURN ISN'T a fancy team," Bryant maintains, "but it is one that gets results. They line up one-on-one and just whip you."

But with a deep bench and players like Terry Davis, Joe LaRue and Steve Bisceglia it is expected Alabama will do most of the whipping today.

There wasn't much outside interest in the traditional Georgia - Georgia Tech argument until Friday when it was learned that Tech quarterback Eddie McAshen won't be around for the game.

Oklahoma seeks to sew up the Big Eight championship against rival Oklahoma State in the 67th renewal of what they call the "Bedlam Series." That's probably because State will wish it had stayed in bed when they see Greg Pruitt on the lam.

"GREGG IS STILL not back to normal," insists OU coach Chuck Fairbanks. "He'll play but I don't know how much." Pruitt needs 71 yards to pass the 1,000-yard plateau for the second year in a row.

Something called the Army-Navy game will lure 90,000 fans to Philadelphia as John F. Kennedy Stadium. Visions of Blanchard, Davis, Carpenter, Stanbach and Bellino will be dancing in their heads but the people they'll see on the field will include such non-immortals as Fink, Hines and Bogosian of Army and Cooper, Glenny and Nardi of Navy.

Army stole Navy's goat earlier in the week but the Middies are 7-point favorites to steal Army's thunder. Army holds a 35-31-6 edge in the 82-year-old rivalry that used to be one of the most appealing in the nation. Now, some say it's appalling. Nonetheless, it's available for home consumption (KABC, Ch. 7, 10 a.m.), coinciding with television's crackdown on violence.

San Diego State steps up in class by hosting Iowa State. The Aztecs are 9-1 and Iowa State is 5-4-1. Therefore, the Big Eight team has been installed as 22-point favorites.

is in better condition physically than for any game except its opener with Arkansas. The Trojans can throw Anthony Davis, Rod McNeill and Allen Carter at the Irish from tailback, and sophomore quarterback Pat Haden is completely recovered from a shoulder injury he sustained five weeks ago. He will be ready if regular Mike Rae should falter.

"It should be an exciting game," Parseghian has said.

On that, both coaches can agree.

Neff cracks Walnut in 47-21 romp

Neff High, behind the passing-running combination of Rick Costello and Glenn Ford, moved into the semi-final bracket of the CIF 2-A playoffs with a 47-21 win over Walnut Friday at Mt. San Antonio College.

The previously undefeated Mustangs, third-rated team in the CIF, fell to the Gladiators' powerful offense and no-nonsense defense.

Costello engineered the aerial attack with 20 completions in 43 attempts, covering 296 yards in the air. Ford balanced the drive with 210 of Neff's 299 yards on the ground in 21 carries, including an 82-yard scoring run in the final period.

Hilmes passed 48 times in the contest, completing 26 for 315 yards. The number two passer in CIF history had over 2,300 yards passing this season going into the game and over 5,000 in his career.

Neff	7	13	14	14	—47
Walnut	7	7	0	7	—21

Neff scorings: Torres 2 (3 pass Costello, 13 pass Costello), Ford 2 (5 run, 82 run), Tellver (31 pass Costello), Baker (15 pass Costello), Quings (60 pass Costello).
Walnut scoring: Barrey 2 (8 pass Hilmes, 16 pass (Hilmes), Burl (1 run).

Albatross, as expected, bows out a winner

Albatross said goodbye to harness racing Friday Night at Hollywood Park and in one swift motion, spectacularly said goodbye to seven rivals as he sped to a brilliant five-length victory over Nansemond in the $100,000 American Pacing Classic.

Cheered on by a crowd of 19,800 who backed him down to 1-9, Albatross exploded with a cannon-like burst of speed approaching the far turn, and then coasted to his 59th victory in 71 lifetime starts.

Albatross, with his familiar traveling companion, Stanley Dancer, at the controls, stopped the clock for the mile and one-eighth distance in 2.11 3-5 — well off the world record of 2.09-1-5 set by True Duane in 1966.

So overwhelming was Albatross in the mutuels, harness racing's Big Bird created a $227.80 minus pool to place and a minus show pool of $7,648.13 returning $2.20, $2.10 and $2.10 across the board.

Nansemond, who outfinished Horton Hanover for second, paid $2.10 and $2.10 while Horton paid $2.10 to show.

The $5 exacta on the classic from Albatross to Nansemond returned $9.00 — lowest in Western Harness history.

Albatross will retire to the green grass of the Hanover Shoe farm next week to stand at stud, concluding his career with earnings of $1,201,470. Friday night's race was also the final for Nansemond and Horton Hanover, who like Albatross, will retire to a life of leisure next year.

Albatross, who received a thunderous ovation as he left the track, let Nansemond and Kentucky play lead, a direct contrast to cat-and-mouse on the early last week's wire-to-wire effort.

Nansemond, with Herve Filion in the bike, took the lead when the eight-horse field was sent on its way, but Kentucky rushed up to take command passing the stands with El Patron third on the outside and Albatross, under great restraint, in fourth.

Kentucky took the field by the first quarter in .27 4-5 but Nansemond quickly pulled out to take command—a lead he held until Albatross made his spectacular move approaching the far turn.

When Dancer asked Albatross to accelerate, the race was, for all intents and purposes, a matter of record. Albatross shot into command and quickly drew away after a half in .59, the three-quarters in 1.29 2-5 and the mile, owned by the "Big Bird," in a fast 1.56 3-5.

Albatross, winning the Classic for the second successive year, thus leaves Hollywood Park and the racing wars with a perfect six-for-six local record over the last two years.

First-place money of $45,000 gives Albatross earnings for the year of $459,921—second highest ever by a standardbred in one season and less than $100,000 shy of his own single-season earnings mark of a year ago.

Jack Bailey, who has obliterated the Western Harness record for two-minute drives in one season, stands an excellent chance of getting another "magic" mile in tonight's main event, the $20,000 San Gabriel Pace.

Bailey's mount in the San Gabriel will be Arthur and Helen Kniffen's Marshall Dares, and the meet's leading driver will also have Lon Frocione's Big Time in the San Gabriel, with Art Craig driving. Marshall Dares and Big Time will be uncoupled in the wagering because of their different ownership.

The Big O reaches 25,000

Combined News Services

Oscar Robertson became the second player in National Basketball Assn. history to score 25,000 points in a career and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar poured in 40 points to lead the Milwaukee Bucks to a 100-74 triumph over the New York Knicks Friday night.

Robertson, who trails only the Lakers' Wilt Chamberlain in the individual point parade, reached the magic plateau on a three-point play three seconds before the end of the third quarter. The Big O wound up the evening with 19.

'Biography short choice at Aqueduct

Associated Press

Autobiography carries top weight and the favorite's role into today's Gallant Fox Handicap at Aqueduct but he promises small reward for his supporters at the mutuel windows.

Bracketed with three other horses as an entry of Sigmund Sommer, the 4-year-old colt probably will go to the post as a short-odds bet of no more than 3-5.

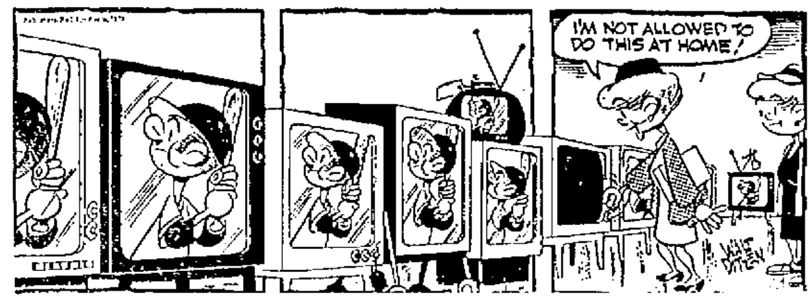

The $50,000 Gallant Fox heads the Saturday racing program, which also includes the $40,000, split division San Mateo Stakes at Bay Meadows, the $25,000-added Villager Stakes at Liberty Bell, the $25,000-added Laurel Cup Handicap at Laurel, the $20,000-added Gold Coast Handicap in the Tropical Park meeting at Calder, the $12,500 Tenacious Handicap at New Orleans Fair Grounds and a headliner at Suffolk Downs.

The Gallant Fox is a 1⅝-mile test for 3-year-olds and up with a gross purse of $56,700, of which $34,920 goes to the winner, if all nine nominees start.

Besides Autobiography, owner Sommer and his trainer, Pancho Martin, have entered Dendron, Paraje and Invested Power. Mrs. N. I. Aisel's Crafty Khale, a 3-year-old carrying 116 pounds, is second choice at 4-1, followed by Chartered Course at 5-1.

The San Mateo Stakes at Bay Meadows, a prep for the $100,000-added California Juvenile Stakes Dec. 16, drew 17 2-year-olds who had to be split into two $20,000-added divisions. Koko's Pal and Our Pagan top the first division while Glass Blower and Kenscraft head the second.

FANFARE

Olson sets brisk pace at Lions' 'last drag race'

By ALLEN WOLFE
Staff Writer

Carl Olson had less than ideal conditions to work with.

In less than five hours, he and 5,500 fans saw more than 15 drivers dump oil on the Lions Drag Strip surface, prompting National Hot Rod Assn. official Bernie Partridge to quip, "If someone wanted to set up an oil derrick they couldn't ask for a better place."

Despite it all, Olson, a 34-year-old veteran driver from Torrance and this year's Winternationals champion, drove his Mike Kuhl - prepared top fuel dragster to a Lions elapsed time track record of 6.092 seconds during Friday's first round of qualifying for the "Last Drag Race."

But Olson goes after bigger game today. All he needs to do is back up his performance to within one per cent and he'll be the possessor of a new HRA record.

During his record run at approximately 9:30 p.m. Friday night, Olson elected to avoid the slick surface by moving dangerously close to the protective guard rail in an effort to find a "clean" portion to race on.

"I would have preferred to run in the middle of the track," noted Olson. "But we chose the virgin asphalt instead. We couldn't take advantage of the rubber for traction by doing that, but it wasn't slick, either. We chose the lesser of the two evils.

"We'll wait until tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon to attempt our back-up run. That way we'll be able to take advantage of better track conditions—a warmer racing surface and cool afternoon air. We'll also be able to see how the other cars are running and spend some time tuning the car and preparing it better.

"We didn't have good conditions tonight, but still ran a 6.09. There's no doubt in my mind someone will be in the fives before the event ends. This track is ready for it."

Qualifying rounds continue today in the $40,000 event from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Class eliminations start at 6. A crowd in excess of 16,000 is expected to see the final event—amateur or professional—ever held at he beach.

TOP FUEL QUALIFIERS—Carl Olson (Torrance) 6.092 seconds and 221.67 mph (Breaks track record of 6.13, set by Randy Allison, Vista, Calif.); Don Moody (Santa Monica) 6.134 and 212.76; Dennis Baca (Walnut Creek) 6.177 and 222.77; Mike Snively (Pomona) 6.236 and 225.56; James Warren (Bakersfield) 6.264 and 212.76; Herm Petersen (Poulsbo, Wash.) 6.325 and 199.55.

FUNNY CAR QUALIFIERS—Tom McEwen (Fountain Valley) 6.529 and 223.88; Jim Dunn (La Mirada) 6.594 and 200.89; Bill Leavitt (San Diego) 6.673 and 203.61; Dale Pulde (Long Beach) 6.685 and 204.16; Don Prudhomme (Granada Hills) 6.731 and 215.82.

PRO STOCK QUALIFIERS—Butch Leal (Northridge) 9.441 and 145.63; Larry Breaux (Burbank) 9.463 and 141.69; Bill Bagshaw (N. Hollywood) 9.504 and 144.92; Sonny Bryant (Orange) 9.560 and 143.54; Bob Lambeck (no town) 9.593 and 143.76.

Then the roof fell in.

Bobby Acosta, crack quarterback, and fullback Al Osbon, who gained 135 yards in 19 carries, led the drive that narrowed Lakewood's lead. Osbon broke loose off tackle for a 44-yard touchdown run. Rock Weeks tied the score.

Four plays later Paul Charlton blocked an Adams punt and Rick Cornell scooped up the ball and dashed 45 yards for another score.

With momentum in its favor, Western scored with 2:51 remaining the the half. Osbon and Acosta moved the ball, with help of Lancer penalties, In eight plays, Lakewood was assessed 23 yards, and had a 13-yard sack of Acosta wasted by a piling on penalty. Mike Bodkin climaxed the march with a five-yard run.

layup. It brought down the house and had Stowell tearing his hair out.

"We got something like 20 shots in the first half and it seemed like Walton blocked half of them," he frowned. "He's better than last year and I'd rate him with anybody . . . Kareem, anybody.

"Walton didn't just block our center's shots, he got the forwards' and guards' too. UCLA is a fantastic team. I just want to see the team that beats them, if there is such a team."

Pacific gets the next chance tonight at 8. Head coach Stan Morrison was dutifully scouting the Bruins Friday. What he witnessed was a 16-point, 17-rebound, seven-blocked shot effort by Walton.

He also saw forward Larry Farmer and Keith Wilkes combine for 22 points and the Bruins execute a .633 accuracy on the net. He saw the Bruins' 47 consecutive victory as a spectator. He'll likely watch No. 48 as the opposing coach.

MacNeil severs tie, Sharks trip Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bernie MacNeil scored to snap a second period tie and J. P. LeBlanc and Bart Crashley added goals early in the third period Friday night to give the sharks a 5-3 victory over the Chicago Cougars in a world hockey Assn. game.

The Cougars, who are in last place in the West Division, missed three power play opportunities in the first 12 minutes of the final period.

Tams double-teamed by Gilmore, Issel; skid at 7

Combined News Services

Center Artis Gilmore and forward Dan Issel produced 31 points apiece Friday night to trigger the Kentucky Colonels to a 127-107 victory over the Memphis Tams in American Basketball Assn. play.

Issel had 21 points in the first half as the Tams went down to their seventh successive defeat. Lee Davis topped the losers with 29.

Billy Cunningham scored 29 points and hauled down 23 rebounds and the Carolina Cougars extended their East Division lead to 2 games over the Virginia Squires by outlasting the New York Nets, 103-99. George Carter had 32 points for the Nets who lost the services of Bill Melchionni, the league leader in assists, with a badly sprained ankle. He is expected to be out two weeks.

In the only other ABA game, Rick Jones scored a career high 37 points as Dallas overcame Indiana, 123-117. George McGinnis tallied 35 for Indiana.

CIF harriers vie for title

Terry Williams is expected to lead Lompoc High to its second successive CIF 4-A cross country team title today at Mt. San Antonio College.

Lompoc, with Williams covering the hilly 2-mile course in 10:06.5 at last week's prelims, had runners finish 1-3-5-7-8-14-25 in their qualifying race.

First race for the 1-A title is 10 a.m., followed by 2-A, 3-A and 4-A competition on the half-hour.

UCLA hands Yale initial water polo defeat—21-3

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — The only teams to own NCAA water polo titles — UCLA and UC-Irvine — advanced into the winners bracket Friday in the NCAA championships.

UCLA, defending champion and winner two of three years, defeated Yale 21-3 in opening round action. UC-Irvine, the winner the other year, scored a 16-12 victory over UC-Santa Barbara after being forced into overtime.

In other first-round action in the double-elimination tournament, host New Mexico lost to Southern California, 17-7, and San Jose routed Loyola of Chicago, 21-6.

UCLA, which had nine players scoring goals, was led by Andy Keene's five scores. Dave Rosenbaum had two for previously undefeated Yale.

The match between Santa Barbara and Irvine was tied at 11-11 at the end of the regulation four periods. Irvine was led by Jim Kruse with six goals, while Santa Barbara's Greg Carey had five.

Nine men scored for USC, topped by three goals each from Bob Witt and Lucky Linder. New Mexico's Erik Hansen and John Driscoll each had two.

Triandos to Dodgers

HONOLULU — Former major league catcher Gus Triandos has been added to the scouting staff of the Dodgers, the National League team announced Friday.

What Weaver wants, Weaver gets

Williams (and pennant?)' to the O's

HONOLULU (Special) — Rushing to beat the interleague deadline, baseball's wheeler-dealers flooded the trade market at the winter meetings Friday with a fistfull of deals that shattered their own record for body movements.

In the biggest trade of the day, the Baltimore Orioles gave up four players to acquire slugger Earl Williams and one other player from the Atlanta Braves.

To get Williams, the National League's Rookie of the Year in 1971, the Orioles surrendered pitchers Pat Dobson and Roric Harrison, catcher Johnny Oates and second baseman Dave Johnson. Accompanying Williams to the Orioles is 19-year-od Taylor Duncan, the young infielder whose initial exclusion from the deal blocked its completion on Thursday.

Williams, a 24-year-old catcher, was the man the Orioles were after. "Get me Williams," Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver had said, "and we'll win the pennant."

Williams slugged 61 home runs in two seasons with the Braves, driving in 87 runs each year.

To get him, the Orioles arranged an attractive package that included Dobson,a 20-game winner in 1971 who was 16-18 with a 2.65 earned run average for the Orioles last season.

Other big names to switch teams were slugger Mike Epstein, swapped from the world champion Oakland A's to Texas, and Richie Scheinblum, the No. 6 hitter in the American League, who switches from Kansas City to Cincinnati.

The A's dealt Epstein, their cleanup hitter for much of last season, to the Rangers for relief specialist Horacio Pina, while Scheinblum and pitcher Roger Nelson moved from the Royals to Cincinnati for outfielder Hal McRae and pitcher Wayne Simpson.

Earlier Friday, with a midnight local time deadline for inter-league trades closing in, Philadelphia completed a four man swap with Cleveland, sending outfielders Roger Freed and Oscar Gamble to the Indians for outfielder Del Unser and minor league third baseman Terry Wedgewood.

The New York Yankees assigned infielder Rich McKinney to Oakland, completing the Matty Alou deal that opened this frantic week of swapping.

Finally, the Minnesota Twins sent relief specialist and former Angel Dave LaRoche to the Chicago Cubs for three pitchers — former 20-game winner Bill Hands, Joe Decker and Bob Maneely.

The flurry of trades brought the week's totals to 18 deals involving 21 clubs with 66 players changing uniforms. Last year's record totals were 15 deals with 53 players and 18 clubs.

While the general managers were swapping bodies at a record pace, the American League tried to introduce the revolutionary designated pinch hitter rule for 1973 but was rebuffed by baseballs Rules Committee.

Palmer misses cut as Nicklaus leads Disney

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus blasted through a string of sand traps for a second 68 Friday to take the lead in the second round of the $150,000 Walt Disney World golf championship, while Arnold Palmer ended his most disappointing season ever.

Palmer, winless on the 1972 pro tour, held up a grapefruit and said, "that's what the ball looked like when I was trying to putt it in the hole."

Nicklaus, who matched his first-round 68 to go eight under par, dropped in five birdies against a lone bogey.

"The last nine holes I hit the ball well," said Nicklaus, who may be the first pro golfer in history to win more than $300,000 in a single season. "I wasn't aggressive enough on the front nine."

A dejected Palmer said, "Well, I wound up the year just like I started it."

The 43-year-old pro also failed to make the last two rounds at the Citrus Invitational in nearby Orlando last spring and at the Westchester Classic. This was the first year Palmer has failed to visit the winner's circle at least once on the PGA circuit.

Rodriguez blamed the weather for some of his problems Friday. With temperatures in the low 50s and winds gusting to 15 mph, the 127-pound Puerto Rican bogeyed four holes and got only three birdies.

"I lose a lot of feeling in my hands when it gets cold," he said.

He also doesn't like the water-fringed palm course.

"There's too much water out there," he said. "I'm allergic to it."

Nicklaus said when he becomes a contender in any tournament the final rounds mean as much to him as one of the prestige battles.

"When I get past two rounds I get excited," he said. "Once I get in contention, my desire and concentration, is just as great as it would be for the National Open."

Nastase blasts Connors, gains Barcelona final

Combined News Services

Defending champion Ilie Nastase tore Jimmy Connors' game to shreds Friday night to beat the young American, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2, and reach the final of the $50,000 Masters tennis tournament at Barcelona, Spain.

The 26-year-old Romanian required only 76 minutes to dispose of Connors, of Belleville, Ill., and it was virtually no contest after the third game of the opening set.

After it was all over, Nastase, who attracts a bevy of young girls wherever he plays, said in his now customary style: "I was fantastic today. I played too well."

Nastase's final opponent will be Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., who advanced when his opponent, Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., was forced to withdraw although he held match point against Smith.

Gorman led Smith, 7-6, 6-7, 7-5, 5-4 and 40-30 when he walked over to the referee and said he could not continue because of a back injury.

Mal Anderson, Australian Davis Cup player and No. 2 seed in the Queensland grass court tennis championships, Friday surrendered his semi-final match when leading two sets to none because of a leg injury. Anderson led countryman Geoff Masters, the No. 3 seed 6-4, 7-6.

Frost scores 23 in Viking victory

Forward Dan Frost scored a game-high 23 points Friday, boosting Long Beach City College over San Joaquin Delta 79-72 in the second round of the Bakersfield JC basketball tournament.

Frost hit on seven of nine field goal attempts and nine of 11 free throw opportunities as the Vikings recovered from Thursday's one-point loss to Southwestern in the opening round of the tourney.

Since they are now in the losers bracket, the most the Vikes can hope to achieve is the consolaion championship, which will be decided tonight against either Modesto or Bakersfield at 5:30.

Rum Running brutes, dozen strong, roar away at Belmont Pier today

Up to 12 powerful offshore racing boats—representing a total investment of close to $500,000—are expected to flash past Belmont Pier today at 10 a.m. for the start of Rum Run X, opening event of the 1973 Pacific Offshore Powerboat Racing Assn. season.

Their goal will be to follow a prescribed 95-mile roundtrip course between Long Beach and Malibu Pier in the race sanctioned by the America Powerboat Assn. and sponsored by the local POPBRA.

The Rum Run series is so named in that it retraces the route used by the bootleggers during Prohibition days of the Roaring Twenties. The winner also receives a traditional jigger of rum to toast his victory in post-race ceremonies.

The five individual classes of powerboats eligible to compete—Offshore, International, Pacific, Sport and Cruiser—encompass every type of vessel from the $100,000 unlimited horsepower Offshore brutes, whirh annually campaign in the international Hennessey Cup events, to the tiny 20-foot production-line outboards.

Defending over-all champion Les Kepler of Sepulveda and navigator Bob Bowles of Encino again appear to have the equipment to repeat. 24-foot Spectra-hulled craft is matched with a pair of 350-cubic inch Chevrolet engines putting out more than 1,200 brake horsepower.

Sinclair, a vice-president of the local governing POPBRA, will have Oke Gustavson as his navigator.

Another strong contender could be Brad Scott's "Sea Wolf," a 26-foot Monza hull powered by two 351-cubic inch Fords. In test shakedowns last week, Scott recorded a top cruising speed of 68 mph.

"If the weather continues to cooperate and the sea remains relatively smooth it should be a pretty fast race," says Bob Penrod, racing director for the event. Peter Rothschild holds the race record of 67 mph, completing the run in just over 1 hour and 20 minutes two years ago.

Checkpoints along the course are Point Fermin off Palos Verdes Peninsula, King Harbor in Redondo Beach, the El Segundo buoy, the Santa Monica Pier and the Malibu Pier. They'll pass the same checkpoints on the return trip.

All boats must complete the distance in three hours of less to be eligible for local and national club points.

MARATHON DRAWS 800 COMPETITORS

Southern California's version of the Boston Marathon—the Western Hemisphere Marathon-will celebrate its silver anniversary today when more than 800 runners answer the starting gun, at 8 a.m.

Led by defending champion Bill Seabey, the runners will cover the streets of Culver City and the surrounding communities over a course of 26 miles, 385 yards. Competitors include men and women from high school age through citizens in their 60's.

One runner is pedalling a bicycle from Las Vegas to Culver City to compete. Start- finish will be Veterans' Memorial Auditorium, 1117 Overland Ave.

Re-Serge-ent Kings thinking defense

By AL LARSON
Staff Writer

The skies didn't roll back nor did the earth tremble when the Kings acquired Serge Bernier last year from Philadelphia in a four-for-four player trade.

But for a team that lost a record 52 games only two years ago, Serge has played a key role in the Kings' surge into prominence in the National Hockey League West.

BERNIER

Backstrom and Goring have been grabbing the headlines, but it's been the steady, sometimes unnoticed play of Bernier that has been a major factor in the rise of it's been the steady, sometimes unnoticed play of Bernier that has been a major factor in the rise of the Kings.

Bernier and his brood will return to the ice tonight when the Kings face off with the St. Louis Blues in the Forum at 8. The Kings are 1-0 against the Blues this season, winning 3-2 in St. Louis.

For a Canadian player who didn't start skating until he was 13 years old. Serge has come a long way.

"As a kid, I was never interested in hockey. I played tennis and was pretty good at it," the 25-year-old right winger said. "I still like to play tennis in the off-season since I don't do any skating."

Asked why the Kings have done such a turnabout after finishing last two of the past three seasons, Bernier replied, "The addition of Terry Harper from Montreal has brought new defensive play to us.

"Also, Gilles Marotte has played exceptionally well on defense has Harry Howell, Rookies Barry Long and Neil Komadoski have helped our forwards.

"I know we did things in training camp that were entirely different. We used weights and did a lot of running which none of us had done before. As a result, I feel a lot stronger (6-1, 190).

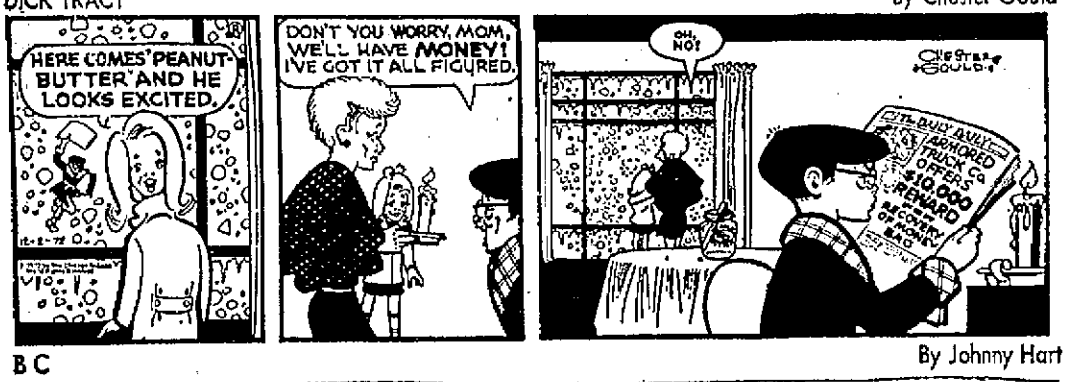

"I guess you can say that Pully (coach Bob Pulford) has done everything for us. We really play for him. I know he's helped improve my back-checking which certainly helps the defense. A lot of forwards go for goals and points, but I like to help the defense. Any back-checking help they get makes it easier for them to stop the other team from shooting.

"I knew the Kings had a pretty good team at the start of the season," the mustachioed Bernier noted. "Maybe not a first-place club, but I felt we definitely would make the playoffs. We've surprised a lot of people by fighting for first place the last couple of weeks."

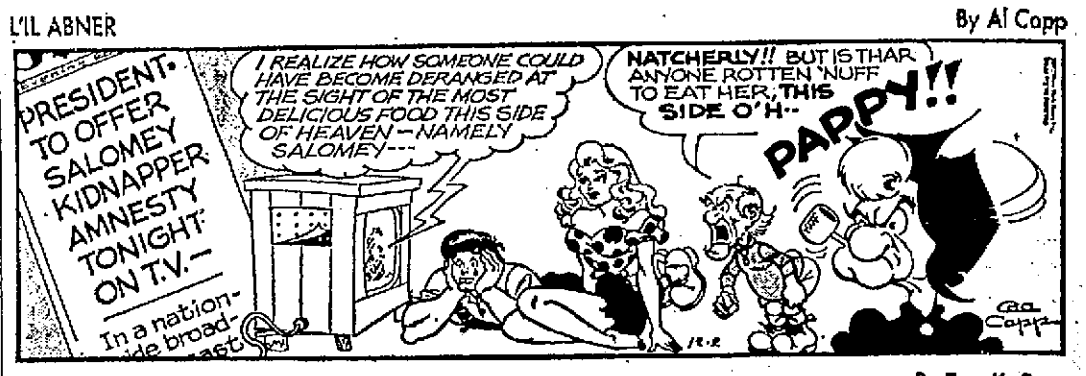

Bernier, who is the club's fourth leading scorer with 7 goals and 18 assists for 25 points, was asked if he'd be interested in jumping to the rival WHA.

"No, I'm happy with he Kings. It was always my dream to play in the National League."

DENNIS THE MENACE — By Hank Ketchum

"I'M WITH DENNIS....WHY DON'T WE JUST STAY HOME AND POP SOME CORN?"

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: For you as an individual, the outlook is very promising, in both material and abstract or spiritual senses. Today's male natives enjoy sports and practical artisanry, while the women project magnetic personalities.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Solitude is appealing, should be used for prayer and serious contemplation of your situation and its meaning. Do the expected chores.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Peacemaking may rate first in your repertoire this Sunday. Exercise will blend well with other diversions, help balance the day.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): A quiet Sunday of moderate habits is probably the optimum. If you feel lazy, cater to the feeling—it is normal for now.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Just being there, filling your proper space in the social order is both satisfying and effective. Be on your best behavior.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Getting all amenities completed may take more time and sympathetic listening than you'd thought, but is worthwhile. It's a slow Sunday.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Friendly visits are a natural pursuit in a leisurely day. It is also right to read and catch up on correspondence.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Home base and its records and traces of older times hold magnetic attraction for you. Search will turn up items you have missed.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Keep your social appointments promptly and in dignity. Added visits to those you have neglected lately are in order.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Opt for an even distribution of your time covering activities within ready reach, expecting no dramatic changes or incidents.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Put material concerns aside altogether, see where meditation leads you. The future will differ markedly from present conditions.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): This relatively easy Sunday should offer you plenty of time and space for relaxation, study, planning for next week's doings.

Frankness in films, on TV – where will it end?

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Where will it end, this greater frankness in television and movies?

For television, the answer is fairly predictable.

This season's trend of dealing with such themes as homosexuality, adultery and abortion has brought a hopeful attitude on the part of television film makers.

But they know that boldness can only go so far in TV. After all, the industry is still subject to regulation by a government agency, the FCC. Government agencies are subject to pressure from members of Congress, who are responsive to protests of outraged citizens.

"While television viewers might laugh at a little sex talk on 'All in the Family,' says a network official, "they wouldn't allow 'Oh, Calcutta' on the home screen."

SOME nudity has already been seen in dance programs on public television, which also allows more explicit language and treatment of sex than the commercial channels. But public television can only go so far in frankness and it will suffer dollar malnutrition from government, foundation and other supporters concerned with public image.

Cable television is another matter. It is not subject to government regulation or censorship and might well be able to offer its subscribers the most frank of current movies.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Have the movies and TV gone too far in their change to more frankness in such matters as sex and nudity? Some observers think so and predict a swing of the pendulum. But other argue that the media reflect public taste. Following is the last of three articles on changing morality in movies and television.

The limits of commercial television were expressed by Robert D. Wood, president of the CBS Television Network:

"To say television is doing things on sex, you have to look at how it is handled. To do sex for the sake of sex is the worst thing in the world. When it's handled by highly skilled people, it's not only acceptable, it gives muscle tone to television. But it requires careful, tender, thoughtful, responsible handling."

MOVIES are something else. The film industry's rating system, explains producer chief Jack Valenti, only classifies movies for their acceptability for children. It does not deal in matters of taste.

That, to many critics of the rating system, is the trouble with films today: the lack of taste. Some directors can deal lyrically with sexual scenes, others obviously exploit sex for shock value.

One of the most tasteful of directors, George Cukor "My Fair Lady," "Travels with My Aunt," comments: "My quarrel with some of the current films is that they present sex so unattractively. On the screen as in real life, you can condone wickedness in attractive people.

"Now we see leading ladies appear nude on the screen. I think they are ill advised. Clothes are among man's greatest inventions — for those who do not have great figures. I found that those who did, girls like Lana Turner and Ava Gardner, preferred to keep their bodies covered."

Whether films will go farther remains to be seen. The answer, argues Hitchcock, lies with the general public:

"The writer director only wants to make his work as realistic as possible. If people are permissive, the films will reflect that."

ANOTHER veteran director, King Vidor, believes the trend toward sex may be waning:

"I believe that people want to preserve the private nature of sex. Once the novelty is over, they will return to the feeling that sexual acts should be kept intimate."

Alfred Hitchcock concurs "The scene of a man and woman wrestling in bed has already become a cliche, and audiences are weary of it. I think directors would be much better off being more subtle, as I was in 'North by Northwest. I showed Gary Grant climbing into Eva Marie Saint's upper on the train, and then I cut to the phallic train entering the tunnel."

Valenti, in leading the trend to grant film makers almost total freedom, has claimed that films merely reflect current morality.

TROUBLE MAN — Robert Hooks is an inner-city "big-time dude" and troubleshooter in an often violent tale of crime. (R)

THE MECHANIC — Contract killer Charles Bronson trains young Jan-Michael Vincent to follow his profession as an assassin-for-hire. A brutal and engrossing story set in Europe and the U.S. (PG)

THEY ONLY KILL THEIR MASTERS — Murder mystery with James Garner as the police chief of a small California town. Also with Katharine Ross, Hal Holbrook, Harry Guardino and June Allyson. (PG)

BAD COMPANY — Jeff Bridges in an 1860s tale of teen-age dropouts who head west from Missouri. (PG)

THE VALACHI PAPERS — Underworld characters are revealed as Joe Valachi, played by Charles Bronson, confesses his role in a criminal syndicate. (R)

THE NEW CENTURIONS — Detective sergeant and novelist Joseph Wambaugh's realistic tale of the life of uniformed policemen in East Los Angeles. A fine performance by George C. Scott. (R)

BUTTERFLIES ARE FREE — A comedy about a blind youth, his domineering mother and the girl he loves. With Goldie Hawn, Edward Albert and Eileen Heckart. (PG)

CABARET — A superb musical. Liza Minelli as a gamin-like amoral cabaret performer and Joel Grey as a rouged master of ceremonies mirror a George Grosz view of Berlin decadence in the 1930s. (PG)

FIDDLER ON THE ROOF — Israeli actor Topol triumphs as the poor milkman in czarist Russia who is on speaking terms with God. A warm and splendid musical hit. (G)

DUMBO — Disney's delightful flying pachyderm is back again. (G)

EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT SEX BUT WERE AFRAID TO ASK — Only a few weak laughs in Woody Allen's tasteless satirization of Dr. David Reuben's sex manual. (R)

GRAND OPENING AT TARA VILLAGE THIS SUNDAY

INSIDE — Tara Village has great new "family living" in two and three bedroom apartments. Beautiful apartments, with thick, colorful shag carpeting. Open-beamed ceilings in many units. Custom draperies. Decorator lighting fixtures. Spacious closets and pantries. Air conditioning. Private patios or balconies. And more!

OUTSIDE — Tara Village has exciting "family fun living" with a big Swimming Pool. Kid's Wading Pool. Tot Lots with plenty of fun equipment. Barbecues for sizzlin' steaks. Recreation Room. Billiards. Party Room with separate kitchen. Adult Lounge. Color TV. Gym. Laundry facilities. And much more!
